Movemur nescio quo pacto locis ipsis in quibus eorum quos diligimus aut admiramur adsunt vestigia. Me quidem ipsae illae nostrae Athenae non tam operibus magnificis exquisitisque antiquorum artibus delectant, quam recordatione summorum virorum, ubi quisque habitare, ubi sedere, ubi disputare sit solitus; studioseque eorum etiam sepulchra contemplor.—Cic.

N O T E.

THE first volume, now issued, contains the original foundations of the Marischal College and University, and notices of its later endowments. The second volume will deal with the system of education and with the Fasti proper. It will include the names of teachers and of students, from the date of the earliest extant register to 1860, when the separate existence of the University was brought to a close.

The general Introduction to the work is meanwhile postponed, and the editor also reserves the acknowledgment of aid given to him by many kind friends. He would now merely express his obligations to the Senatus of the University of Aberdeen, for unrestricted access to their records.

From the Registrum Magni Sigilli, Lib. xxxviii., No. 25. Sasine was taken 11th and 16th January, 1592.*

* The properties of the Black and the White Friars, falling to the Crown after the Reformation, had been granted on a 19 years' tack to the Queen's "dailie seruitour," Captain Hew Lauder, 17th February, 1562 (Registrum Secreti Sigilli, xxxiv. 59: cf. Aberdeen Town Council Register, xxvi. 102), for a yearly payment of £10 Scots. By a letter of 6th June, 1567 (Mar. Coll. Ch. Chest, Mass xx., No. 8), Her Majesty confirms the said tack, "sen the making of the quhilkis our said souerane lady be hir charter vnder hir greit seill eftir hir generall reuocation hes infest the provest baillies counsall and communitie of the burgh of Aberdeine the landes &c pertenant to the saidis freiris . . . albeit hir maiesties mynd nor will the tyme of the granting of the said infestment was not nor yit is that the samyn suld be ony wyss preiudiciall to the said tak during the yeiris contenit thairin nor yit suld comprehend the landis &c pertenant to the saidis freiris except only the said sowme of ten pundis contenit into the said tak to be payit to thame yeirlie be the said Hew". Of this infestment to the Burgh I can find no other trace either in the Burgh archives or in the Reg. Mag. Sig. or Reg. Secr. Sig. Before the 3rd February, 1562, Lauder had resigned his rights, for on that date a new tack, for a like period of 19 years and for the same rent, is granted to David Mar, burgess of Aberdeen (Reg. Secr. Sig., xxxvii. 36: cf. Mar. Coll. Ch. Ch., vi. 97; xx. 10; i. 24).

On 23rd October, 1571, the Friars' lands are granted in feu to Captain Andrew Chisholm for a reddendo of fourteen merks Scots (Reg. Secr. Sig., xl. 16); but the Captain falling "in bello pro defensione autoritatis nostre in borealibus partibus regni nostri," before sasine had been taken, the grant is renewed in favour of his only lawful daughter Janet Chisholm, 6th August, 1572 (Reg. Secr. Sig., xli. 7).

On 16th December, 1581, without any reference to the Chisholms, the same lands are granted in feu to William Leslie, brother german to John Leslie of Balquhane (Reg. Secr. Sig., xlvi. 73); but on 28th October, 1583, there is a charter conveying the same to the burgh, to pay the composition for which it appears the inhabitants were stented in 1000 merks (Council Reg., xxxi. 575; Burgh Ch. Ch., A<sup>2</sup> 27, 28, 29; Reg. Secr. Sig., xlix. 172; Reg. Mag. Sig., xxxv. 763). The professed object of the grant was the endowment of the Poores' Hospital, but this purpose was not carried into effect, for on 14th March, 158<sup>5</sup>, a charter of novodamus to Wm. Leslie appears (Mar. Coll. Ch. Ch., i. 6, 7, 25; Reg. Secr. Sig., liii. 131; Reg. Mag. Sig., xxx. 69), wherein the temporary grant to the burgh is accounted for "occasione absentie predicti magistri Willelmi tempore nouissimi belli nostro in regno concitati". By a contract of 11th April, 1587, between Leslie and George Earl Marischal (Mar. Coll. Ch. Ch., ii. 42), the former agrees to transfer his rights to the Friars' lands, "for the qlkis premisses the saids George erll merschell and his foirsaidis sall content and delyuer to the said mr W<sup>m</sup> Lesly his aris executoris and assignais the soume of tuelff thowsand Merkis vsuall moe of this realme betuixt the deat heiroff and the feist of Candilmes nixt to cum in this instant yeir of god J<sup>m</sup> vc four scoir and sewine yeiris Prouyding allwayis gif the said erll or his foirsaidis payis and delyueris to the said mr W<sup>m</sup> or his foirsaidis wtin the toune of new Abd vpone the second day of nor nixt to cum in this instant yeir of god J<sup>m</sup> vc four scoir and sewine yeiris the soume of sex thowsand merkis vsuall mony of this realme togidder in ane soume stampt plakis and peneis exceptit and in caise of the said mr W<sup>m</sup> or his foirsaidis absence and vtheris hawand his laul power or of their refusall to resauē the samen reallie and wt effect offeris the said soume of sex thowsand merkis moe foirsaid to the said mr W<sup>m</sup> and his foirsaidis at the duelling hous of James Lesly elder wtin the brut of Abd. the said day and therefter deponis and consignis the samen in the hands of mr Alexr Cheine persone of snaw and commissar of Abd and failyeing of him in the hands of mr Thomas Lesly burges of Abd to the vtilitie and profetit of the said mr W<sup>m</sup> and his foirsaidis thane and in that caice and na wtherwayis the said erll and his foirsaidis to be frie releifeit and dischargeit of the super plus of the said principall soume of tuelff thowsand merkis attour and abow the said soume of sex thowsand merkis sua that the said erll and his foirsaidis in the caice above wr<sup>t</sup>ine salbe allenerlie subiectit and obleist in the payment of sex thowsand merkis moe foirsaid Attour it is conuenit and agreit betuixt the foirsaid parteis that John Lesly in Kintor sall hawe of the said erll the ruids of land lyand wtin the territorie of Kintor qlkis pertentit to the said freiris of Abd presently occupieit be the said W<sup>m</sup> Lesly for yeirly payment of fourtie shillings to the said erll and his foirsaidis allenerlie dureing all the dayis off the said John Lesleys lyfytyme And the foirsaid parteis are content &c."

On the 17th of May, 1587, the Earl has a crown charter of the Friars' lands (Reg. Secr. Sig., lv. 88; Reg. Mag. Sig., xxxvi. 345; precept of sasine in Mar. Coll. Ch. Ch., i. 23); but this falling under the Revocation of 29th July, a new grant became necessary. It bears date 29th July (Mar. Coll. Ch. Ch., i. 8, 19; Reg. Secr. Sig., lv. 124; Reg. Mag. Sig., xxxvi. 420). To secure more detailed enumeration of the properties, the Earl resigns for new infestment to himself, 9th January, 158<sup>8</sup> (Mar. Coll. Ch. Ch., i. 20, 21); and again, for infestment to himself in liferent and to his son, William, in fee, 26th September, 1592 (Reg. Secr. Sig., lxiv. 147; Reg. Mag. Sig., xxxviii. 25; instrument of sasine, 16th January, 159<sup>2</sup>, in Mar. Coll. Ch. Ch., ii. 34). Finally, a charter is granted to William alone on 21st October, 1612 (Reg. Secr. Sig., lxxi. 147; Reg. Mag. Sig., xlvii. 48); instrument of sasine, 12th November, in Mar. Coll. Ch. Ch., ii. 35).

Quo autem hoc nostrum Gymnasium et literarum cultura et morum elegantia magis efflorescat, uberiores fructus hæc nostra Institutio proferat, volumus tam omnes Collegii nostri fundatas personas quam confluentes studiosos severa morum disciplina contineri, et ne intermissione studiorum et moribus et literis damnum inferat, omnes consuetas olim a studiis vacationes aboleri penitus. Vetamus etiam ne in promotionibus ad quemcunque gradum ulla sumptuosiora convivia agitentur, quicquam admittatur, quod præscriptam in Gymnasio disciplinam quovis modo vel possit removeri vel solvere. Imprimis autem cavemus, ne quisquam studiosorum, Præceptoribus exceptis, arma quævis seu ad inferendam seu ad propulsandam injuriam apta, utpote loricam, thoracem ferream, cassidem, chirothecas ferreas gladium, pugionem, machæram, frameam, sclopas et id genus armorum habeat, aut quovis modo iis utatur in Collegio aut extra Collegium, sed scalpellis tantum cultellisque cibus scindendis commodis solummodo utantur; qui contra fecerit primum damno et confiscatione armorum per Principalem et Sub-principalem aut Præceptores mulctetur, secundo delinquens ex disciplina Gymnasii in publicis scholis verberibus castigetur, quod si tertio hanc legem violaverit, tanquam indignus studiosorum numero ejiciatur.

PRÆDICTÆ* quoque omnes fundatæ personæ intra septa Academiæ et vescantur et DORMIANT: Siquis autem BURSARIORUM, venia non impetrata (ut dictum est) extra Academiam dormiverit, et admonitus et castigatus non respiscat, beneficio bursæ statim PRIVETUR; studiosorum vero reliqui, qui cubiculis intra septa Academiæ fruuntur, in iisdem cubent et pernoctent, si secus fecerint, cubiculis suis moveantur. Jidem extra Academiam victitantes nunquam nisi destinatis ad cibum capiendum horis extra ipsam reperiantur, si extra cubaverint ad SEXTAM statim matutinam ingrediantur, nec ante NONAM exeant, reversis a jentaculo ante horam DECIMAM, ante DUODECIMAM non licebit exire, in eaque ad SEXTAM vespertinam permaneant, nisi ludendi venia omnibus concedatur; cum autem simul ingressi, ab aliquo præceptore, qui hebdomadatim hanc curam sustinebit, in campos deducuntur et una reducentur, neque LUDENDI tempus ultra duas horas ab egressu ex Academia protrahatur, quo possint ad lectiones opportune redire; huic etiam Præceptori hanc curam injungimus, ut hora QUINTA matutina, et [sc. hora, C.R.] nona vespertina, omnia cubacula invisat. VOLUMUS etiam studiosos omnes summa CONCORDIA pacifice inter se VIVERE, neminem alteri injuriam verbo vel facto inferre, Latino aut Græco sermone uti, ab immodesto et impudico sermone, ab execrationibus et deierationibus omnibus, denique blasphemis abstinere, horis, sacris CONCIONIBUS, precibus, Sacris lectionibus, et Scripturarum interpretationi, quam prophetiam vocamus, prescriptis quam diligentissime interesse, in omnibus denique quæ ad disciplinam Academiæ pertinent, legibus morem gerere, quæ a Gymnasiarcha, ex consilio Collegarum, latæ sunt, vel in posterum ferentur; quibus et potestatem facimus, Statuta honesta ad [et, B.R.] disciplinam nostri Gymnasii sartam tectam conservandam, prout occasio tulerit, et e re nata, condendi et constituendi. QUI vero ad magisterii Lauream non promoti adhuc, tamen intra Academiam vivere constituerunt, ejusdem disciplinæ legibus subsint, studiorumque rationem Gymnasiarchæ et reliquis ejus Collegis reddant. QUOD si extra Academiam degentes lectionibus tamen publicis vel privatis interesse cupiunt, cum omni modestiâ nec ullo malo exemplo ingrediantur, nec reliquorum studia quovis modo remorentur, hisce [iisve, B.R. & C.R.] exemplo noceant; si secus fecerint [fuerint, B.R.], Collegio prohibeantur.

* Prædictæ quoque omnes personæ fundatæ intra septa Gymnasii vescant et dormiant: siquis autem Bursariorum, venia non impetrata, ut dictum est, extra Collegium dormierit, et admonitus et castigatus non respiscat, beneficio Bursæ statim privetur; studiosorum vero reliqui qui cubiculis intra septa Collegii fruuntur, in iisdem cubant et pernoctant, si secus fecerint, cubiculis suis removeantur; iidem extra Collegium victitantes, nunquam nisi destinatis horis ad cibum capiendum extra Collegium reperiantur, si extra cubaverint ad sextam statim matutinam ingrediantur, nec ante nonam Collegio exeant, reversis a jentaculo ante decimam, ante duodecimam non licebit exire, post prandium vero qui in Abreðonia veteri victitant hora prima qui vero in nova ante secundam pomeridianam Collegium repetant et ingrediantur in eoque commorabunt ad sextam vespertinam, nisi ludendi venia omnibus concedatur; tum autem simul egressi, ab aliquo Præceptorum (qui hebdomadatim hanc curam sustinebunt) deducuntur et una reducentur, neque ludendi tempus ultra duas horas ab egressu e Collegio protrahatur, ita ut possint opportune ad lectiones redire; huic etiam præceptori hanc curam injungimus ut hora quinta matutina et nona vespertina omnia cubacula invisat. Volumus etiam studiosos omnes summa concordia pacifice inter se vivere, neminem alteri injuriam verbo vel facto inferre, Latino aut Græco sermone uti, ab inhonesto et impudico sermone, ab execrationibus et devovationibus omnibusque blasphemis abstinere; horis sacris, concionibus, precibus, sacris lectionibus, et scripturarum inter-

VISITATIO COLLEGII.*

ET UT hæc omnia diligentius observentur, ordinamus ut hoc nostrum Gymnasium, ter quôtannis, per Cancellarium, Rectorem, et Decanum Facultatis, utpote Calendis Octobris Februarii Junij, INVISATUR et lustretur, ut si quid sive in doctrina seu disciplina neglectum vel corruptum fuerit, ex consilio et admonitione emendari et corrigi possit. Imprimis vero de RELIGIONE et fidei professione diligenter inquiratur, et cum hic sit Satanæ astus, omni modo conetur Juven-pretationi, quam prophetiam vocamus, prescriptis, quam diligentissime interesse, in omnibus denique quæ ad disciplinam Collegii pertinent, legibus morem gerere, quæ a Gymnasiarcha ex consilio collegarum latæ sunt, vel in posterum ferentur; quibus et potestatem fecimus, statuta honesta ad disciplinam nostri Gymnasii sartam tectam conservandam, prout occasio tulerit, et pro re nata, condendi et constituendi. Qui vero ad Magisterii lauream non promoti adhuc, tamen intra Gymnasium vivere constituerint, ejusdem disciplinæ legibus subsint, studiorumque rationem Principali et reliquis ejus Collegis reddant: Quod si extra Gymnasium degentes lectionibus tamen publicis vel privatis interesse cupiant, cum omni modestia, nec ullo malo exemplo ingrediantur et egrediantur, et reliquorum studia quovis modo remorentur, risusve exemplo noceant; si secus fecerint, Collegio prohibeantur. . . .

Translation of the Foundation Charter.

GEORGE, EARL MARISCHAL, Lord Keith and Altrie, to true Christians all and each, everlasting greeting in the Lord.

WHEREAS, being mindful of our birth, position and duty, we had determined, according to our ability, to be of service to the Church, the Country and the Commonwealth, and to further the general well-being by whatever means we could; observing and seriously considering with ourselves in what darkness and ignorance most men lie, so that they exist in misery, erring most shamefully and wickedly as to the method of a good and happy life, and hence failing grievously, so that, stained from natural depravity with every crime, they often suffer the most complete ruin and shipwreck; whence the greatest mischief is done to the Church, the Country and the Commonwealth; which principally arises from the fact that an honourable, liberal and Christian education and training is in many places here either wanting or neglected, so that there are to be found very few men that have received a godly and upright education and have been trained in the humane arts, through whose exertions and zeal the Church might flourish, the Country become illustrious, and the Commonwealth be more and more enlarged, to the glory of God and the safety and security of the people: We, desirous that this evil should be at length attended to—it having pleased Almighty God to vouchsafe unto us His marvellous mercy and goodness, not only in the other benefits that He has conferred on us, but especially in that He has enlightened us with a purer and fuller knowledge of Himself, implanting thereby in our mind such a disposition and understanding, that we have nothing more warmly at heart than to do the utmost good to the Church, the Country and the Commonwealth—have determined, not without the advice and opinion of prudent and grave men, or the due consideration of our course of action, to do diligently what it is in our power to effect, and not to refuse the aid that men might either wish or demand from us in so unjust and pitiful a state of affairs, but rather of our own accord and most willingly to further the public good, both otherwise as time and circumstance might demand, and especially by establishing, aiding and promoting education for the young, which here, in the northern parts of this kingdom of Scotland, is generally deficient; to the end that those disadvantages and grievances under which, to the deep grief of all good men, the Church, the Country and the Commonwealth have hitherto laboured, may (so far as under God's providence we shall be able) be most speedily and thoroughly removed. And this our resolution has no other motive than our desire to follow the example and in the footsteps of others whose highest aim was to benefit the Church, the Country and the Commonwealth as much as possible, and of many of our ancestors who zealously pursued the same course; and thus to be enabled to strengthen and to adorn the Church, as well as the Country and the Commonwealth. Therefore, because of old in this realm of Scotland (as elsewhere in divers places) kings, princes, nobles and bishops, in their zeal for the good of the Church, the Country and the Commonwealth, did found and erect colleges, to be abodes sacred to the Muses, and, as it were, nurseries where young men might receive a godly and liberal education in letters and in arts, thence to be transferred, as should seem fit, to all parts of the Commonwealth, whether to spread the preaching of God's Word in the churches, or better to instruct the young, or to administer the government, or for other purposes, wheresoever either the Church or the Commonwealth might require; and did endow these colleges as public schools for study with revenues and salaries sufficient to maintain, comfortably and honourably, the teachers being professors in Arts, and also certain students too poor to be able to live on their own resources: We—induced by the same motive (may it be happy and blessed in its results!), praying Almighty God that He may vouchsafe to favour this our undertaking, and may direct it to the glory of His name, the extension of the Church and the good of the Commonwealth, so that this work may always have happy issues, and that

He may never suffer it to fall into decay or to perish—desire to found at Aberdeen (called New, to distinguish it from Old Aberdeen), a city which has deserved well at our hands, and which, being specially bound to us by this our benefaction, will, we trust, deserve still better of us and of our successors and of our whole family, a public “Gymnasium,”* in the buildings formerly belonging to the Franciscans (the transference of which to this use has seemed most opportune and convenient), where young men may be thoroughly trained and instructed, both in the other humane arts, and also in Philosophy and a purer piety, under the charge of competent and learned teachers, to whom shall be given from our endowment such salaries as may be required.

THEREFORE WE DO GIVE and grant freely and for nought, and do alienate and transfer from ourselves and from our successors, and (as they say) do mortify to the teachers and students and other ordinary members of our “Academia,” appointed and to be appointed by us, all and whole the manse and offices, glebes, yards, cloisters, church and wells, that formerly belonged to the Franciscan Friars, commonly called the Gray Friars, of Aberdeen, as they are bounded and marked off by walls, lying on the east side of the street called the Braid Gate; † all and sundry the lands, crofts, roods, rigs, orchards, barns, dovecots, tenements, houses, buildings, yards, acres, annual rents, feu duties, kilns, offices and others whatsoever, belonging to the Preaching and the Carmelite Friars of Aberdeen, commonly called the Black and the White Friars; and the estates and lands belonging to us in Bervy, once the Chaplainry of Bervy, and also the Chaplainry of Cowy, commonly called St. Mary’s, ‡ belonging to us; as the particulars of each are more fully set forth in our charters and evidents, which it will suffice here to have noticed generally, as if they had been specially described:

TO BE HELD and had from [of] us and our successors, Earls Marischal, in pure and perpetual alms:

RENDERING therefor only the offering of pious prayers.

And because we bestow and confer all these possessions out of our

* This term is used elsewhere in the Charter only twice (p. 73, ll. 26, 38), though the Principal is throughout styled “Gymnasiarcha”. “Academia” is applied to the foundation fifty-six times; “Collegium” seven times; and “Universitas” once (p. 74, l. 14). On p. 75, l. 22, and p. 76, l. 6 “Academia” and “Collegium” are distinguished; elsewhere they seem to be used indifferently, to denote either the building or the corporation.

† See the subsequent grant of the Grayfriars’ property by the Town Council, p. 85.

mere liberality on our Academia, therefore we free ourselves and our heirs from every bond of eviction and warranting, our own deed alone excepted.

And we desire that these revenues and annual rents, freely bestowed for the up-bringing and training of youth, be distributed among so many persons, namely, a Principal, three teachers (Regents as they are called), six alumni of the Academia, a Steward, a Cook; and to ensure that the buildings of the Academia be kept in sufficient repair, we desire that all these persons live in a collegiate manner, that is, having their meals and sleeping within the walls of the Academia.

THE PRINCIPAL, it is especially requisite, must be an upright and godly man, who shall look after the whole Academia and each of its members, and to whom we entrust the ordinary jurisdiction over each individual of our "College". He must be well versed in the Scriptures, able to unfold the mysteries of faith and the hidden treasures of the Word of God. He must also be skilled and learned in languages, and especially in Hebrew and in Syriac, which we wish to be spread abroad. Every week upon Monday he shall teach in the Scriptures one hour. He shall also (after the eight acroamatic books which the third Regent will explain) 'set forth all the rest of Physiology from the Greek text of Aristotle, to which he shall add a short explanation of Anatomy. He shall also expound Geography, History and the outlines of Astronomy. Moreover, he shall also add Hebrew Grammar, together with some practice in the rules. After the course of studies has been completed, he shall invest those that are qualified with the Master's cap. And as the charge of public discipline falls to him (for such is our desire), we assign to him and his servants what we think to be necessary, three chalders of barley and one hundred merks money of this realm.

THE REGENT next after the Principal shall expound the elements of Arithmetic and Geometry, selections from Aristotle's books of Ethics and Politics from the Greek text, to which he shall add Cicero's books De Officiis, to mould the character and extend acquaintance with the Latin tongue, and towards the end of the third year he shall interpret the acroamatic books of Aristotle's Organum Physicum. The third in order shall teach the Organum Logicum and a system of rules of invention and judgment from the best authors of both languages, and shall exercise the youths both in writing and in public speaking, that they may make equal progress in mastering both languages. The fourth, and lowest, shall profess instruction in Greek, explaining also the easiest authors of both languages, and shall accustom the students, by frequent written exercises, for the first six months to compose in Latin, and during the rest that follow to write Greek, to which he shall add a short compendium of logical invention and judgment. These three teachers are to have equal salaries of twenty-four bolls of barley and forty pounds each, for their living and annual salary.

AND THE ELECTION and Admission of all shall be as follows:—The nomination of all the teachers, or presentation, as it is called, whenever a place is vacant by death, dismissal or resignation, shall be in the hands of Earl Marischal, the Founder, and of his heirs; but the examination and admission shall be in the hands of the following persons, or of a majority thereof—namely, the Chancellor of the Academia, if he be a minister of the Gospel,* the Rector, the Dean of Faculty, the Principal of the old Academia, the Minister of New Aberdeen, the Ministers of the Gospel in Fetteresso and Deer. And if a Principal is to be elected for this new Academia, the three Regents of the Academia shall have a single conjoint vote; but in the election of the Regents the Principal shall have a vote. If all the electors are not present at the election, the majority as aforesaid shall make a valid election. But the election must take place within sixty days from the occurrence of the vacancy, by means of a public edict affixed to the doors of the College and of the Church of New Aberdeen by the Dean of Faculty and the teachers of the Academia, the same persons having to cite the Ministers of Deer and Fetteresso for the day appointed for the election.

IT IS OUR DESIRE that the teachers of our Academia shall not shift about to new professorships, but shall work in the same professorship, that the youths who ascend step by step may have a teacher worthy of their studies and talents; unless, for the benefit of the Academia, it be otherwise determined by the Chancellor, Rector, Principal, Dean of Faculty and minister of New Aberdeen with respect to one or other of the teachers.†

* The Earls Marischal seem to have acted as Chancellors till the forfeiture of the title in 1716.

† There can be no doubt that for about half a century this provision of the Charter was complied with, the teachers of the bajan, semi, tertian and (after 1620) magistrand classes being styled Professors of Greek, Logic, Moral Philosophy, and Natural Philosophy respectively. Thus William Forbes is Professor of Logic circa 1601 (Irving's Lives of Scottish Writers, ii. 2), and Patrick Dun seems to have succeeded him before 1610 (MS. C<sup>2</sup>. 3. 70, Aberd. Univ. Library). William Wedderburn, Andrew Massie, and James Sibbald sign epitaphs in Lachrymæ Academicæ Marischallanæ sub Obitum Mæcenatis et Fundatoris sui munificentissimi, nobilissimi et illustrissimi Georgii, Comitis Marischalli, &c. (Aberd., 1623), as Professors of Greek, Logic, and Natural Philosophy. William Ogston, after teaching the tertian class for seven years, receives in 1626 a presentation to the chair of Logic "the key of the whole College and the coursse throuv verie long and thairfoir requyring ane learned diligent

But, that the teachers may preside over the youths with advantage, and that the youths may make excellent progress in their studies, it shall be the duty of the Principal, Rector, Chancellor and Dean of Faculty to prescribe the authors that are to be laid before the youths, provided, however, that all the authors be explained to the students in those languages in which they originally wrote. It is also our desire that our foresaid Regents shall accustom those committed to their care to teach, write, declaim, dispute, with the utmost diligence in the literary arena, but especially the students of the two lowest classes, to compose daily; and shall devote one hour at least to this every day. Likewise, after the first eighteen months, all the students are to be exercised every month in public declamation in Greek and in Latin alternately, and, with a view to encourage their studies more by this worthy emulation, all the students are to be divided into sections of ten, and every month a trial is to be held, so as to put the most proficient among them at the head of the rest.

MOREOVER WE DESIRE that none be admitted into the first class of the body of students unless he be deemed fit for that class after a careful examination by the Dean, Principal, three Regents, the teachers of both Grammar Schools, or one of them, all being sworn for that purpose. Every year, too, we desire the promotion of the classes to take place by steps of advancement, the students of the first class passing to the second, those of the second to the third, those of the third to the fourth, and those of and cairfull maister to teach the same . . . quhairin if he should be found to be deficient and after due admonition not amending then and in that caise the said Mr William to be bound . . . to demit the said second class absolutelie and to tak him to the third class" (Mar. Coll. Ch. Ch., "Professorships," No. 1). On the title page of his Oratio Funebris, in Obitu maximi virorum Georgii, Marischalli Comititis, &c. (Aberd., 1623), Ogston is styled Professor of Moral Philosophy. John Seton is Professor of Natural Philosophy in 1627, and Hugh Gordon, Professor of Logic in 1630. William Aidie, William Blackhall, and John Ray sign epitaphs in Lachrymæ Academiæ Mareschallanæ in Obitu illustrissimi Comititis Mareschalli, Wilhelmi, &c. (Aberd., 1635), as Professors of Greek, Logic, and Moral Philosophy.

Further proof is afforded by the names of the Regents presiding at the annual defence of Theses by candidates for degrees. In Session 1642-43 John Ray presides, and from that date to Session 1714-15 the names recur in cycles of four; from 1717-18 to 1752-53 in cycles of three.* But James Sibbald presides annually from 1622-23 to 1625-26, and John Seton from 1626-27 to 1636-37 (Cf. J. P. Edmond's Aberdeen Printers).

* No classes met during Sessions 1715-16 and 1716-17. In 1717 one of the Regents was, in tardy compliance with an Act of Visitation of 1700, set apart for the duties of Professor of Greek. In 1753 the other Regencies became Professorships of Civil and Natural History, of Natural Philosophy, and of Moral Philosophy respectively. The sister University in Old Aberdeen adhered to the Regency system till the close of the century.

the fourth, having completed the curriculum of philosophy, being invested with the Master's laurel. In these steps it must be carefully guarded against that no one unworthy of promotion pass into a higher class except after a fair trial, conducted by the Dean of Faculty, Principal, three Regents, the masters of the schools of Old and New Aberdeen or one of them, all being sworn publicly for that purpose. If anyone is considered unworthy of promotion, he must remain in the same class as before until he is by them considered worthy of promotion to a higher class. These examinations, promotions and admissions into our Academia we desire to begin every year on the first day of October. Every Lord's Day, we desire that in each of the classes the reading of a sacred Sunday lesson be given from the Greek New Testament, so that at six o'clock in the morning the first class shall have read to it by its teacher St. Luke's Gospel, the second class the Acts of the Apostles, the third the Epistle of St. Paul to the Romans, and the fourth the Epistle to the Hebrews, and that at four o'clock in the afternoon each teacher shall examine his students upon the same lesson.

THE POWER to check and correct the said Regents shall belong to the said Principal, who shall be authorised to expel and cut off from the Academia, if on occasion of negligence in their duties after three admonitions as aforesaid they refuse to reform; but the case must be investigated, and advice taken from the Rector and the Dean of Faculty.

FURTHER, having a care to provide for poverty, and inasmuch as many are prevented by indigence from enjoying a good education, we have added six alumni, bursars as they are called, and we assign each of them as his annual living from the revenues of the said Academia thirty pounds, desiring them to be recommended on the ground of poverty, being such as their parents and friends cannot support from indigence, and being distinguished for talent, acquaintance with grammar, and good character. The election, admission and comparing of the said bursars shall be in this form. The Principal (in his absence by a public proclamation affixed to the gates of the Academia) shall give notice twenty days before the first day of October to all desirous of a bursary to appear on that day for examination by the Rector, Dean of Faculty, Minister of New Aberdeen, Principal and three teachers (to whom we grant a single conjoint vote), they being all sworn; in order that, after a careful examination has been held, those candidates found to be most in need of a bursary in respect of poverty and scholarship, and to be worthy thereof, may have their names enrolled in the bursars' album. In place of this election, the nomination of bursars shall belong to the Marischal and his heirs. The examination, admission and comparing of such shall be in the hands of the Chancellor, Rector, Principal and Dean of Faculty, whose duty it shall be to provide against the admission of the rich in place of the poor, and the plundering of the hives by drones, and to receive into the Academia only such as may prove ornaments to the Country and of service to the Church. We desire, moreover, these our poor students to be a pattern of humility and obedience, complying with the wishes of the teachers in every respect; and if they fail to do so, we empower the said Principal and teachers to punish them in proportion to their offence, even to their expulsion from the said Academia, if they have deserved it by their contumacy. These bursars are to wear long gowns, girt with a white leather belt four fingers broad; and it shall be their duty week about at five o'clock to go round the apartments of all sleeping within the Academia, to waken the students for their work, and to bring light in winter, and also not to decline other lighter duties in the dining hall or at supper time, particularly in placing the dishes and courses on the table and in supplying water, such as may be imposed on them by the Principal and other teachers without injury to their studies. Their entry to the Academia shall be on the first day of October, and they are to remain in the course of literary study and to live at the expense of the Academia as aforesaid for four whole years, a time we consider sufficient to finish the study of philosophy and to obtain the laurel, at the end of which period new bursars shall be provided for till they in turn have reached the goal.

THE STEWARD and Purveyor we require to be an honest and industrious man, who prefers the welfare of the Academia to his own. At the beginning of his duties he shall give security that the property of the Academia shall be safe, and that he will faithfully manage its affairs. It shall belong to him to collect all the income and revenues of the Academia whatsoever, to call debtors to account, to appear in court for the Academia, and to do everything lawful on its behalf. It shall be his duty regularly to provide the Academia, according to the will of the teachers, with all the necessaries of life, to go to market every day, purchasing articles for the maintenance of the Academia, to distribute the income and revenues derived by the College among the Principal, the three teachers, and, indeed, all the persons on the foundation, and to make these payments regularly in good faith, according to the assignment aforesaid in this our foundation. He shall not satisfy the Principal or Regents before the lowest persons on the foundation, paying to all without distinction, according to the stated proportion of each, the alimient and salary regularly due. And of all he shall be bound to give an account every week to the Principal and the rest of the teachers, lest any the least injury be done to any person on the foundation: and they shall also enquire into and punish the negligence of the Steward, and his injustice if there has been any; consulting, however, when necessary, with the Rector and the Dean of Faculty, so as to provide in time against all losses threatening the Academia. The election of the Steward shall be in the hands of the Chancellor, Rector, Principal, Dean of Faculty, Minister of New Aberdeen, and Regents, or a majority thereof. His approval and admission shall be in the hands of Marischal and his heirs; and he shall continue at least three years in the office. And as it is the duty of this official regularly to provide the necessaries of life for all members of the Academia, in order that this may be more conveniently done at a just and equal price, we desire that every year, on the first day of October, with advice of the Rector, Dean of Faculty, Principal, Provost and Bailies of New and of Old Aberdeen, together with other four Councillors of New Aberdeen, the prices of provisions be estimated and fixed, in proportion to their dearness or cheapness, for the maintenance of all on the foundation of the College, and also of the other inmates of the Academia, though not on the foundation thereof; and that it be at the same time settled what shall be the number of dishes and courses, what the quantity and quality of bread and drink, and what the manner of the whole treatment; and their advice in this matter we desire our said Steward to observe and follow. And as prices frequently vary, to prevent loss to the Academia or to the said Steward, we desire that at later periods in every year—viz., on the first days of February, May and August—the said Steward, with advice of the Rector, Dean of Faculty, Principal and Regents of the Academia, together with two citizens, Bailies or Councillors of the New Town, be at liberty to raise or lower the prices of provisions previously fixed, according as things are dear or cheap. And as our Purveyor will be troubled with various cares and duties, we assign and allot to him by way of salary the sum of . . . in addition to his necessary expenses in collecting the College revenues, which it is right should be repaid to him in settling his accounts.

A suitable Cook also shall be appointed by the Principal, Regents and Purveyor, whose duty shall be to prepare the food and cultivate the garden of the Gymnasium. For his services and maintenance we allow . . . He shall supply vegetables at his own expense for the use of the members on the foundation in the said Academia, and shall see that the garden and grounds are neatly kept for the use of the Masters and Regents, being allowed to appropriate to himself the remaining garden produce.

AND THAT each master in this Academia may attend more freely to his own duty, we forbid any of the masters to accept any other public office without the walls thereof beyond what we have enjoined in our foundation and erection; so that no one of them shall discharge the duty of Rector or Dean of Faculty. And if any of the persons on the foundation be married, we forbid his wife, daughters or maidservant to dwell, or in any way stay or spend the night, within the walls of the Academia.*

AND THAT this our Academia in the advancement of learning and the refinement of manners may flourish more and more, and that this our institution may produce more abundant fruits, we desire that all the persons on the foundation, as also all students resorting to our Academia, be governed by a strict code of discipline; and, to prevent injury to learning and morals by intermission from studies, that all vacations formerly allowed be entirely done away with. We prohibit also any sumptuous feasts taking place on * A blank form of presentation, dated 1626 and preserved in the Mar. Coll. Charter Chest ("Professorships," No. 1), is interesting as showing the strict celibacy enforced in practice on the regents.

But especially we forbid any of the students, with the exception of teachers, to possess any arms either of offence or defence, such as a coat of mail, steel breastplate, helmet, steel gauntlets, sword, dagger,

* In the pleadings in the Catanach case it was maintained that the phrases, "ad quemcunque gradum" and "ad gradum aliquem" should be translated "to any Degree". But cf. p. 65, l. 20, and p. 74, l. 29. The case is interesting as establishing the right of Marischal College to be considered a separate University, and as such to grant degrees in the higher faculties.

On 31st May, 1743, James Catanach, Advocate in Aberdeen, "after strict examination," by David Verner, LL.D., one of the Regents,* was made LL.D. of Marischal College. This was preparatory to his being nominated for the office of Civilist in King's College, vacant through the death of Sir William Forbes, Bart., of Monymusk.† The only other candidate was Charles Hamilton Gordon, a member of the Edinburgh bar, and an alumnus of King's College, who, however, did not pretend to be a graduate of any University.

The election was appointed to take place on the 8th of June, when five of the King's College Senatus voted for Catanach, ‡ and four for Gordon.§ Commissary Paterson, who acted as returning officer, refused to admit either candidate, and brought an action of multiplepointing before the Lords of Session, praying the Court to determine which had been duly elected.

Gordon, who appeared for his own interest, maintained: ||

1. That Marischal College had been founded as an institution for teaching in Arts only, and had been authorised to confer degrees in that faculty, but had never received legal authority to grant degrees in Divinity, Law, or Medicine.

2. That even if Marischal College had received legal authority to grant degrees in Divinity, Law, and Medicine, as well as in Arts, it could not yet exercise this authority in Law, in consequence of its not possessing any founded professor in that faculty, as it possessed in the three other faculties.

3. That even if Marischal College had the power to confer the degree of Doctor of Laws, such degree did not constitute the Doctorate in Civil Law contemplated in the foundation, where it is implied that the graduate has undergone a curriculum of study in that faculty, * Dr. Verner, though one of the Professors of Philosophy, had studied Law in the Universities of Edinburgh and Glasgow, and in 1724 was appointed by the Senatus of Marischal College to lecture on Law to professional students.

† In Bishop Gavin Dunbar's refoundation of the College of St. Mary of the Nativity, afterwards called King's College, it is provided that the College shall consist of forty-two members "ex quibus in primis erunt quatuor doctores . . . tertius in jure civili . . . si tales commode haberi possunt: alioquin in eisdem facultatibus licentiati cum rigore examinis, qui infra annum a die admissionis eorumdem in dicto Collegio ad doctoratus gradum singuli in prefatis facultatibus se faciant promoveri".

shield, instruments of war, spear, guns, and all such kind of arms, or to use them in any way, either within or without the Academia; allowing them to use only open and table knives. The breaker of this rule shall, on his first offence, be punished by the Principal and teachers with the loss and confiscation of the arms; on his second offence he shall receive stripes in the public school, and has passed through the degrees of Bachelor and of Licentiate, before being received as a candidate for the Doctorate; that it was after such ancient degrees in Civil Law had ceased to be conferred, amidst the changes that attended the Reformation, that Marischal College was erected, and consequently that it never possessed at all, in regard to such degrees, the powers of the Universities of Papal origin; and that an Advocate at the bar of the Court of Session, in virtue of his trial in Civil Law by the Faculty, was a Licentiate in Civil Law, and in virtue of his admission by the Court, subsequent to such trial, was equal if not superior to a Doctor in Civil Law.

4. That even if Marischal College had power to grant degrees in Civil Law, it had not conferred the degree in question in a proper manner, or on a candidate properly qualified to receive the degree, but had conferred it only as a colourable and fraudulent qualification.

Catanach contested each of these propositions, maintaining, at great length, the right of Marischal College and University to confer qualifying degrees in all the faculties, including Law.*

The Lord Ordinary (Lord Kilkerran) remitted the question to the whole Court, who decided, July 20, by a majority, that Catanach was not duly qualified; and, after a renewed and more searching discussion, December 4, adhered to this decision.†

Upon appeal, the House of Lords reversed the decision of the lower Court, April 11, 1745, finding that Dr. Catanach did possess the indispensable qualification.‡

In the Charter Room at Marischal College is preserved § a copy of a Memorial to the House of Lords (in connection with the Catanach case) "on behalf of the Rector, Principal, and Professors of His Majesty's Marischal College and University in the City of Aberdeen," who assert their privileges as a University. The paper is well written: it contains seven arguments:

according to the laws of the Academia; and if he break the law a third time, he shall then, as being unworthy to be reckoned a student, be expelled from the Academia.

All the foresaid persons on the foundation shall eat and sleep within the walls of the Academia; and if any one of the bursars, without obtaining

1. The Foundation Charter contemplates regular matriculation "dum albo Universitatis inscribuntur"; graduation "dum ad gradum aliquem promoveantur" and "in promotionibus ad quemcunque gradum"; and the erection of new chairs "personæ constitutæ et constituendæ".

2. The ratifying Act of Parliament (21st July, 1593) recognises the University's absolute jurisdiction within its own precincts—"which no simple College ever had":—"the maisteris memberis studentis bursaris and hail inhabitantis of the said college is and salbe in all tymes herefter subject to the iurisdiction of the provest ballies and counsaill of the said burgh of Abirdene in all things to be done or committit be thame outwith the wallis of the said college". So in the Act of Confirmation of 20th March, 1661.

3. The Charter institutes a Chancellor, a Rector, and a Dean of Faculty, with the same powers as in St. Andrews, Glasgow, Edinburgh, "Vel alterius cujusvis laudabilis Academiae".

4. The Acts of 1593 and 1661 grant "all fredomes franchises liberties frie privilegis and iurisdiction that to any frie college within this realme be law and practik is knawin to apertene".

5. Other Acts of Parliament acknowledge it as a separate University e.g., that of August 21, 1663, "for the establishment and constitution of a National Synod".

6. Successive Sovereigns have addressed and treated it as a University.

7. Its members have enjoyed and exercised all the powers and privileges of a University undisturbed and unquestioned for upwards of 150 years.*

On the whole, King's College derived benefit from this suit, for it prevented in all probability the introduction of a custom of giving the office of Civilist to a non-resident Edinburgh lawyer. The recognition of the University status of Marischal College by the highest Court of Law in the Kingdom checked, for some time, the revival in an acute form of the exclusive pretensions of King's College; but during the "Fusion" controversy the jealousy of the rival colleges again found an outlet in print. Much curious information regarding obscure points in local academic history will be found in two pamphlets, now somewhat scarce: "Has Marischal College, in New Aberdeen, the power of conferring Degrees in Divinity, Laws, and Medicine?" Aberdeen: D. Wyllie & Son. 1850. 51 pp. ["Drawn up by a Committee of Senatus"—but mainly the work of Professor David Thomson.] "The Right of Marischal College and University, Aberdeen, to confer Degrees, not only in Arts, as admitted, but in Divinity, Laws, and Medicine; Vindicated against the Attacks of the responsible Administrators of King's College and University, Old Aberdeen; and shewn to have been affirmed, more than a Hundred years ago, by the House of Lords, as the Supreme Court of Appeal, under the Instructions of Lord Chancellor Hardwicke. By one of the Professors [Thomas Clark, M.D.]. leave (as aforesaid), sleep without the Academia, and, on being admonished and punished, do not amend, he shall be instantly deprived of his bursary ; and the other students that have chambers within the Academia must retire to rest and pass the night therein, otherwise they shall be ejected from their chambers. Those living without the Academia shall never be found without it, except at the hours appointed for meals ; if they sleep without, they must enter exactly at six o'clock in the morning, and not go out before nine o'clock ; and when they return from breakfast before ten o'clock it shall not be lawful for them to go out before twelve o'clock ; and they must remain within till six in the evening, unless leave of play be given to all ; and when having entered together they are taken out into the fields and brought back by the teacher that has this duty for the week, they shall not extend their time of play beyond two hours from the time when they leave the Academia, in order that they may more seasonably return to their lessons. This teacher we also enjoin to visit all the chambers at five o'clock in the morning and nine o'clock in the evening. We also desire all the students to live peacefully and in the greatest mutual harmony ; to injure each other by neither word nor deed ; to speak in the Latin or in the Greek tongue ; to abstain from unmannerly and indecent conversation, and from all cursing and swearing and blasphemy of any kind ; to attend most diligently at the hours, sacred addresses, prayers, sacred readings and the interpretation of Scripture (which we call prophecy), all as prescribed ; in fine, in all matters appertaining to the discipline of the Academia, to obey the laws that have been made, or that may hereafter be made, by the Principal, with the advice of his colleagues ; to whom, also, we give the power of drawing up and enacting just statutes for preserving intact the discipline of our Gymnasium as occasion may demand, and for special purposes. Those persons, also, who, although not yet promoted to the dignity of Master, have determined to live within the bounds of the Academia, shall submit themselves to the disciplinary laws thereof, and give an account of their studies to the Principal and the rest of his colleagues. And if living without the Academia they nevertheless desire to be present at public or at private lectures, they must enter with all modesty, and setting no evil example, and must in no way hinder the studies of the rest or injure them by their example ; if they act otherwise, they are not to be permitted to enter the College.

AND THAT all these rules be more diligently observed, we ordain that this our Gymnasium shall be visited and inspected by the Chancellor, the Rector and the Dean of Faculty thrice every year—that is to say, on the first days of October, February and June—to the end that if anything either in doctrine or discipline have been neglected or corrupted, it may by their advice and warning be amended and corrected. But above all things shall diligent inquisition be made concerning religion and the profession of faith; and since such is the cunning of Satan that in every way he endeavours to lead away youth from the profession of the Gospel back to the darkness of Popery, from which by the grace of God this kingdom has been once freed, we strictly command that all who shall be elected into this Academia shall make a profession of faith, that Confession, namely, which, taken and transcribed from the Word of God, has been put forth and published in the Parliament of the realm; and this shall be done once at least every year. But especially before the Principal at their admission into the Academia, before the Rector at their matriculation in the album of the “Universitas,”* and before the Dean of Faculty at every step of advancement,† each shall make a public profession of faith and true religion, and shall promise faithfully to abide in that profession.

THE STUDENTS admitted into the Academia not only must be diligent in their studies and pure in their morals, but must show themselves grateful towards the teachers, the Academia, and the public officers. Therefore each one of the students shall every year pay to his teacher a fee according to the judgment and estimate of the teachers; in such wise that the children of the nobles and of the higher gentry be ordered to pay three pounds; the sons of the lower gentry, forty shillings; the children of farmers and of merchants of the middle class and of craftsmen, twenty shillings: from these payments the poor shall be altogether exempt. To the common servant, called the Beadle, each student shall pay two shillings yearly. At examinations, moreover, and at promotions, each shall pay into the general fund of the Academia as follows:—At the first step and the examination of the first year, six shillings and eightpence; at the second, thirteen shillings and fourpence; at the third, twenty shillings; at the fourth, and last, thirty shillings; in such wise that from all these payments the poor shall be exempt, who are to be reckoned poor being left to the judgment and estimate of the teachers.

FURTHER, because in this our Academia we have provided many duties for the Rector and the Dean of Faculty thereof, we desire that these officials be elected annually on the first day of March. THE RECTOR shall be a grave, godly man, a lover of law and justice, and well skilled therein. He shall have ordinary jurisdiction over all the enrolled members of the Academia (called Supposts); shall be present at all the more important meetings of the Academia, especially at elections, as above prescribed, and preside thereat, especially in the absence of the Chancellor; and shall conduct, manage and execute all matters that the Rectors of St. Andrews, Glasgow, Edinburgh or any other [Academia] are, by law, custom or usage, understood to be able and bound to conduct, manage and execute. He shall be elected by all the Supposts of the Academia divided into four nations, in such wise that the Diocese of Aberdeen, on account of the greater number, be divided into two nations, Mar and Buchan, the Garioch being included in Mar, and the rest, as far as the river Deveron, belonging to Buchan. The remainder of the kingdom north of the Grampians shall be comprehended under the name of the Moray nation. All to the south of the Grampians shall be known as the Angus nation. Procurators, chosen one by each of the nations, shall elect the Rector and his Assessors.* The Rector, when elected, shall swear that he will faithfully and diligently perform the duties; that he will, with good faith, administer equal justice to all, without any respect of persons; that in elections he will give his vote with the same good faith, according to his conviction, and for the interest of the Commonwealth and the Academia; that he will zealously forward the interests of the College and the Academia so far as consistent with religion, and never in anywise knowingly and willingly do what is detrimental to them; in fine, that, to the best of his ability, he will adorn and augment this Republic of Letters.

* The only occurrence of this term in the Charter.

THE DEAN OF FACULTY shall be elected at the same meeting, but by the Rector, Chancellor, Principal, the three teachers, and the Minister of New Aberdeen, provided that the Principal, with the Minister of the new town, shall be always present at his election. He shall be a godly man, and well read, and conversant not only with the so-called polite letters, but with all philosophy. He shall be present and preside at the annual examinations and promotions, and shall administer to the examiners an oath that they will faithfully perform their duty; shall have a care of the teaching and diligence of the teachers; shall see to it that the Academia suffer no loss by his neglect; shall give an uncorrupted vote in elections according to the good of the Commonwealth; in fine, shall execute all those matters that in [St. Andrews], or in any other Academia, are understood to appertain to the duty and office of a Dean of the Faculty of liberal Arts. He shall swear that he will faithfully perform the duties; that in promotions and steps of advancement he will decide with good faith and without respect of persons, according to the judgment of the Examiners and Assessors and his own conviction; that he will promote the interests of the College and the Academia so far as consistent with religion; in fine, that he will diligently do everything that he shall understand to belong to the office of Dean at St. Andrews or at any other praiseworthy Academia, and shall assuredly know to be for the advantage of the Christian and literary Commonwealth.

WE FORBID any perpetual leasing out of lands or feus, or alienation to emphyteusis, or commutation of victual for money, whether on pretext of augmentation, or improvement, or for any other reason, or under any name whatsoever. But they shall remain for ever in the same circumstances, state and condition in which they now are, notwithstanding any consent, approbation or confirmation whatsoever.*

IN WITNESS OF ALL WHICH we have caused our seal to be appended to this our Charter and Erection, subscribed with our hand at Aberdeen, the second day of the month of April, in the year of our Lord one thousand five hundred and ninety-three, before these witnesses:—John Forbes, of Pitslego; Master Peter Blackburne, Master Robert Howie, Ministers of Aberdeen;

* Notwithstanding this stringent prohibition a perpetual feu was granted five years after the foundation of the College. The charter, which is preserved in the Mar. Coll. Charter Chest (Mass xii., No. 72), narrates that the principal Master Gilbert Gray "cum expressis consensu et assensu nobilis et potentis domini Georgii comitis Mariscalli domini Keyth et ab Altrie etc patroni et fundatoris dicte academie necnon vnanimi consensu omnium membrorum eiusdem vtilitate dicti collegii in hac parte vndique preuisa pensata et diligenter considerata matura et diligenti habita deliberatione inter membra eiusdem cum dicto patrono . . . ad feudifirmam seu emphyteosim perpetuam hereditarie dimittere . . . honesto viro Andree Williamsoun textori burgensi . . . totum et integrum illud tenementum vastum et penitus dirutum et inhospitatum cum horto eiusdem et suis pertinentiis olim occupatum per Ingramum Skletter dicto collegio nunc in proprietate incumbens jacens infra dictum burgum in vico viridi ex parte boreali eiusdem vici inter terras dicti Andree Williamsoun Joannis Patric Jacobi Wyisman et Alexander Jaffray ex orientali parte terram olim Vilhelmi Voss in Birsbeg nunc vero Andree Adye pollentarii ex occidentali parte hortum Vilhelmi Fraser versus boream et communem viam regiam versus austrum . . . Tenendum . . . de nobis . . . Reddendo . . . firmam quatuor librarum monete Scotie . . ." The charter is signed by the Earl, the Principal, the Dean of Faculty, and the Minister of Deer.

The next alienation of property that can be traced is the feu to the Magistrates, in 1732, of the ground on which Gordon's Hospital was built.

[James] Crichton, younger, of Fren draucht; and Master David Cunningham, Minister of Aberdeen.

(Signed) GEORGE ERLE MARSHALL.*

* The following criticism on the Foundation Charter is inserted in the volume of "College Rentals, 1593-1764". The paper is undated, but from the reference to three Regents must be earlier than 1620.

NOTE ON THE UNIVERSITY OF FRASERBURGH.

It is not generally known that for a brief period there existed in Aberdeenshire, in full working order, not merely the "Keingis Colledge of Auld Aberdene" and the "Academia" of George, Earl Marischal, but a third legally constituted university, having its seat in the not far distant seaport of Fraserburgh.

On 1st July, 1592, Sir Alexander Fraser, lineal ancestor of Lord Saltoun, obtained from James VI. a charter of Novodamus of the lands of Philorth. In the new grant the town of Faithlie is erected into a burgh of barony, to be called in all time coming the Burgh and Port of Fraser. "Insuper," so runs the deed, "damus et concedimus plenariam libertatem et potestatem prefato Alexandro Fraser . . . collegium seu collegia infra dictum burgum de Fraser edificandi, universitatem erigendi . . . et generaliter omnia alia et singula immunitatem et privilegium unius universitatis concernentia, in amplissima forma et modo debito, in omnibus respectibus, ut conceditur et datur cuicunque collegio et universitati infra regnum nostrum erectis seu erigendis, faciendi, agendi et exercendi" (Reg. Mag. Sig., xxxvii. 481).

Sir Alexander did not allow the powers thus conferred on him to lie idle, for he at once began to erect buildings for the contemplated university. Five years later we find the Scottish Parliament recognising his patriotic exertions, and providing that he should be reimbursed for part of his outlay.

"Our Souerane Lord and thrie estatis of this Parliament vnderstanding that Sir Alexander Fraser of Fraserbrughe, knycht, being of deliberat mynd and purposis to erect ane Vniuersitie within the said brughe, with all priuelegis appertaining thairto, according to the tenour of hes infestment, his begwn to edifie and big vp collegis, quhilkis nocht onlie vill tend to the great decorement of the cuntrey, bot also to the advancement of the loist and tint youthe in bringing tham vp in leirning and vertew, to the great honour and weill of our said Souerane Lord and natioun, quhilik honorabill intentioun and pollicie maid and to be maid be the said Sir Alexander, vpone his exhorbitant and large expensis, aucht and suld be furtherit and advancit, and the said Sir Alexander nocht onlie allowit thairintill, bot also helpit and supportit to do the samin; Thairfoir our said Souerane Lord and thrie estatis of the present Parliament, for the further advancement of the said brughe and collegis, and for the sustentation and intertenement of maisteris, teichearis and officemen, within the collegis of the samin, hes, with expres consent and assent of the said Alexander, dotit, gewin and mortefeit the personagis, vicaragis, prebendareis, chaplanreis and altarageis of the parochie kirkis of Philorthe, Tyrie, Kremound, and Rathyn, haill teyndis small and great, landis, rowmes and possessionis appertening thairto, proffitit, dewteis, annualrentis, and emolumentis quhatsumevir, and ad manum mortuam disponit the samin to the saidis college or collegis; Provyding alwayis the saidis ministeris of the saidis college or collegis ather serve the cure of the saidis kirkis, or then the saidis maisteris, with advyis of the patron, furneis sufficient men for serveing the cure of the saidis kirkis, sua that the parochineris be nocht frustrat of the sacramentis, teicheing and preicheing of the word of God" (Acts of Parliament of Scotland, Vol. iv., p. 146; December 16, 1597).

There can be no doubt that the arrangement for the supply of teachers herein set forth was actually called into operation. In 1598 Charles Ferme, M.A., "a man of obscure parentage but exceedingly pious," who had been elected one of the Regents in the University of Edinburgh in 1589, was called to the ministry at Fraserburgh, "where there was ane beginning of an Univeristy, over which he had charge". (Craufurd's Univ. of Edinb., pp. 33, 42, and Wodrow's Collections on Life of Ferme, to be printed for New Spalding Club.)

The sanction of the supreme court of the kirk was, however, necessary to reconcile Mr.

Ferme to his double duties. This was given by the General Assembly which met at Montrose in March, 1600: "Anent supplicatioun given in be the Presbiterie of Deir, makand mentioun that quher the Laird of Philorth having erectit ane Colledge vpon the toune of Fraserbrughe, and agreit with Mr. Charles Ferme to be both Pastour of the said brugh and Principall of his Colledge; quhilk burdein the said Mr. Charles refuses to accept vpon him, without he be commandit be the Generall Assemblie: Desyreand, therfor, ane command to be given to the said Mr. Charles to accept both the said charges, as at mair length is containit in the said supplicatioun: The Generall Assemblie having at length considerit the necessitie of the said wark, and how the said Laird of Philorth has refusit to intertaine a Pastour at the said Kirk, vnlesse he vndertake both the said charges, therfor commands and charges the said Mr. Charles Ferme to vndertake and awaite vpon, as weil the said Kirk, as to be Principall of the Colledge of Fraserbrughe". (The Booke of the Universall Kirk of Scotland, Vol. iii., p. 958.)

The then incumbents of the other three charges mentioned in the Act of Parliament were—Crimond: John Gordon, M.A., second son of Alexander Gordon of Lesmoir. Rathen: Duncan Davidson, previously Regent in University and King's College, Old Aberdeen. Tyrie: John Howesoun, son of David Howesoun, Minister of Aberdour.

For five sessions the work of the newly founded college probably went on without interruption, but in 1605 the ecclesiastical troubles of the time gave a death-blow to the scheme. Mr. Ferme was one of those devoted sons of the Church who convened at Aberdeen, and constituted the Assembly there in July, 1605, irrespective of the royal pleasure. The inevitable result was that, with seventeen others, he was denounced by the Privy Council on the 18th of the same month "for unlawfully assembling against the letters and charges of his Majesty". Having undergone imprisonment at Stirling, in the Castle of Doune, and for three years in the Isle of Bute, Mr. Ferme was finally allowed to return to his cure, where he zealously discharged his duties, teaching both in public and in private, till, worn out by study and shattered by incessant toil and sufferings, he died Sept. 24, 1617, aged fifty-one. "Through his industry, by the divine blessing, such a light blazed forth that even children could render an account of their faith, and that not without some feeling of piety. A Tydeus in body, he was a Hercules in spirit." (Hew Scott's Fasti Ecclesie Scoticanæ, Vol. iii., p. 626.)

After the death of Mr. Ferme we find no trace of the university. It was, indeed, unlikely that it could survive the removal of its head and the rivalry of the now flourishing Marischal College of Aberdeen. Nor have we any evidence as to the nature of the course of study at Fraserburgh. But there is no reason to suppose that it differed in any essential details from that enjoined in the charter of Marischal College (1593), and in the Nova Fundatio of King's College, ratified by the same Parliament of 1597.

So late as 1793 a portion of the college buildings was still to be seen in Fraserburgh—a quadrangular tower of three stories. (Sir John Sinclair's Stat. Acc. of Scotland, Vol. vi., p. 9.) But this tower was demolished many years ago. A large house to the left on entering the town is said to have been erected with materials taken from the college. Four stones built into the front of this house bear inscriptions, probably renewed at the time of the removal. These are:

Trust in God, for He is good.
His Mercy is for ever.
Give Him thanks for all you have.
For He is the only giver. (Pratt's Buchan, p. 158.)

These stones alone now remain to tell of the University of Fraserburgh.

A portion of the leaf has been torn, but the tenor of what is missing can be learnt from an account of the transaction given in A Memorial for the Right Honourable the Earl of Findlater, from the Magistrates and Council of Aberdeen, concerning the Union of the two Colleges of Aberdeen, laid before his Lordship as sole Arbitrator, for determining the points underwritten, November, 1754.

“There was in the royal burgh of Aberdeen in the time of popery several orders of churchmen, as the Grayfriars, Blackfriars, Whitefriars, and Trinityfriars; and after the reformation, the town of Aberdeen obtained a right to the place, mansion-houses, church-gardens, &c., which was possessed by the Grayfriars, not only by a grant from the crown, but also by purchasing in several claims and titles which private persons had thereon, which cost the town a good deal of money, as appears by their ancient records, and so they obtained full possession of the same, and uplifted the rents forth of houses and gardens for several years, and applied the same for subsisting poor persons in the town's hospital, until the year 1593, when the Earl of Marischal set a project on foot, of founding and erecting a regular College within the burgh of Aberdeen, and endowing the same with the rents of several lands, particularly those which belonged to the Black and Whitefriars of the said burgh, whereof he had obtained a grant from King James VI.

“But the mansion-houses of the Grayfriars were thought to be the most proper place for a seat to the college; and as that was the possession and property of the town of Aberdeen, the Earl applied to the then magistrates and council, to see if they would encourage so good an undertaking for the benefit of their town, and make a donation of the Grayfriars manses and gardens for a seat to the college, being in the centre of the town.

“Accordingly, the town council upon the 24th September, 1593, agreed to resign the said Grayfriars place, mansion-houses, kirk, and yard, in favours of the Earl of Marischal, to be given by him the said Earl, to be a college, according to the institution and erection thereof. The said Earl making . . . and no otherwise [ut supra].

“This act was not unanimous, some of the members of council dissented, and contended that the Town should only make the donation directly in favours of the masters and members of the college, to be holden in all time thereafter of the town-council as immediate superiors thereof. However, as the majority was for resigning in favours of the Earl of Marischal, he made an ample foundation and erection of a college, called in all time thereafter, The Marischal College of Aberdeen, and the Earl to be undoubted patron thereof”. Memorials, &c., relating to the Union of the King's and Marischal Colleges of Aberdeen [Aberdeen] 1755, pp. 21-3. (A scarce tract, not reprinted in A Complete Collection of the Papers relating to the Union of the King's and Marischal Colleges of Aberdeen. Aberdeen, 1787.)

On the 13th of June preceding, the Council "deuysit decernit concludit and ordainit all in ane voice the soume off Auchtene hundreth merkis vsuall scottis moe to be payit and delyuerit to the said Patrik [eldest lawfull sone to umquhill Andro Jak burges of the said burgh] for himself and in name of the said Gilbert his brother for the heretabill richt disposition and resignatioun maid be thame to the toun off the saidis gray freris place houssis yardis and pertinentis" (T. C. R., xxxiv., 841). On 19th October, 1576, the property in question had been "sett heretabile in few ferme" by the Council to David Indeauth, Andrew King, and Andrew Jak, the highest bidders, for a yearly feumail of forty pounds, to be "deput and consignit to the support of the indigent and puir in thair hospitall": under special reservation of the "kirk and the lytill hacht howss passand furth of the queyir on the eist syd wall of the said kirk callit the Jowalhowss as it is presentlie mercheit betuix four stane vallis," and of the "grait foryett cloiss and passage to the kirk be the grait dur and be the lytill dur" (T. C. R., xxix. 18).

It is difficult to see how the intention expressed by the Council on 24th September to resign this property in favour of the Earl, can be reconciled with the definite grant by him of the same, contained in the foundation charter, dated 2nd April preceding. (See p. 41.) The Act of Parliament of 21st July states that "the provest ballies counsaill and commwnitie of the said burgh hes gevin to the said Erl the place, kirk, &c." (p. 84).

Parson Gordon's account of the transaction is as follows: "Cœnobium ipsum abrenonenses anno 1593 Septembris 4 dono dederunt ea tamen lege ut academiam philosophicam conventus loco subrogaret Georgius Kæthus illustrissimus Mareshallanus comes nec abnuitt Mareshallus qui vel eodem anno academiam istam ejusque jura diplomate Regis serenissimi Jac. 6ti sancita rataque instituit" (Adv. Libr. MS., 34-2-8). Thus rendered by the contemporary translator: "In the year 1593, Septtris the fourt, the tounsmen, by a publict deed, gave away the building of the convent itself to the richt honorable George, erle Marishall of Scotland; bot upon conditione that he would erect a philosophie colledge ther. Nor did Marishall declyne to doe so, for that same very yeir he foundit ane academie ther, whoes priviledges he procured to be ratified by the most illustrious Prince James the 6th his letters patents for that effect." Of such ratifying letters patent, other than the Act of Parliament of 21st July, I can find no trace.

NOTE ON EARLIEST COLLEGE BUILDINGS.

The original College consisted of such parts of the Greyfriars monastery as were saved from the fury of the Reformers. The Franciscans, the last of the monastic orders to obtain a settlement in Aberdeen, acquired in 1469 from Richard Vaus, dominus de Many, the ground belonging to him on the East side of the Gallowgate, "pro quo vt dicitur potuit accepisse centum libras". (MS. Necrologia Cœnobii—now in Univ. Library—Jan. xvii.) The consent of the Bishop, the King, and the Pope was subsequently obtained in the usual manner. (Mar. Coll. Charters, Mass i., No. 2).

It does not appear that at the time of the Reformation the Franciscans had acquired any other property in land save two small additions noted in the Necrologia.

Thomas Myrtoun, Archdeacon of Aberdeen, "contulit ad augmentum conuentus terram suam inter terram Andree Culan et conuentum a parte occidentali jacentem valoris septuaginta marcarum".

David Colisoun, "contulit particulam quandam tenementi sui pro ampleatione claustri: pro cuius anima primogenitus eius construxit transitum ad chorum".

The fabric erected by the Friars is described by Keith as "of a great length. . . . It has a Church, with a little Steeple, which was constantly rung for conveying the Scholars to all publick Lessons in the College." (Cat. of Scotch Bishops, p. 276.)

No plan of the monastery is extant. The shell of the church has been preserved, but in 1769 a portion, twenty feet in length, was sacrificed to enlarge the College entrance, a new aisle being erected at the same time, projecting from the east side.

The names of the contributors to the original building fund have been handed down in the Necrologia.

William Hay, Earl of Erroll, "qui murum australem totius conuentus in magna parte suis sumptibus construxit".

Master John Flescher, Chancellor of Aberdeen, "qui dedit pro structura domus nostre borealis xx libras".

Gavin Dunbar, Bishop of Aberdeen, "qui nouam ecclesiam funditus construxit : cuius constructure mille quadringentas marcas dedit".

Robert Colane, "qui suis expensis dormitorium pro magna parte construxit".

Andrew Ravynner of Davolr, "qui in sua vita contulit pro structura conuentus xx marcas : in morte vero reliquit xxiiij marcas".

William Steuart, Bishop of Aberdeen, "qui pro comparatione fundi ex parte ecclesie boreali xl libras contulit".

William Crechtone, Rector of Oyne, "qui in morte xl libras legauit ex quibus pro magna parte murus borealis orti nostri inferioris fuit constructus".

Master John Maitland, Subdean of Ross, "qui dedit pro structura huius conuentus infra mediam partem vnus anni centum marcas".

William Chalmer of Balnacrag, "qui dedit xx libras pro . . . fabrica loci".

John Murray, "qui dedit pro structura huius conuentus vna vice simul xx libras preter paruas elemosinas".

William Elphinstoun, Rector of Clat, "qui dedit . . . ad constructionem gabuli chori veteris x marcas : ac in fine dierum suorum pro constructione ecclesie nostre noue deposuit centum libras".

Robert Schand, Rector of Alves, "qui dorsum altaris Beate Virginis fieri fecit".

Duncan Scherar, Rector of Clat, "qui contulit pro fratrum structuris . . . supra quadraginta libras".

Duncan Burnat, Rector of Methlic, "qui contulit xiiij lib pro structura . . . conuentus".

Master Alexander Galloway, Rector of Kinkell. "Is ecclesiam nouam laudi diui Francisci dicatam Gauini Dunbeir episcopi sumptibus erexit : necnon et suis expensis aram in Sancti Iohannis Baptiste honorem construi fecit".

Egidia Blair, Domina de Row, "que . . . contulit pro constructione huius naue ecclesie . . . cxx marcas".

On 29th December, 1559, the Greyfriars resigned their property within the burgh "hospicia edes et ortos" into the hands of the Magistrates (Town's Charters, A<sup>2</sup> 18; Town Council Register, xxiii. 269; Register of Privy Council, i. 201), who eight years later obtained a charter from James VI. confirming their right to the same, they engaging to establish therewith a public hospital for orphans, poor children, and disabled persons (Charters, A<sup>2</sup> 19, T. C. R., xxvii. 232). This design was not carried into effect, and the grant fell under the King's General Revocation of 29th July, 1587, on which date a new deed was executed in favour of George, Earl of Huntly (Reg. Mag. Sig., xxxvi. 395), from whom we find the Council reacquiring the property in 1589. (T. C. R., xxviii. 292, xxxiii. 158; Reg. of P. C., ii. 391.)

James Leslie of Durno, with consent of his father, William Leslie of Wardes, and of his wife, Magdalene Erskine, in order to augment the insufficient rental of the newly founded college, mortifies to Master Robert Howie, principal and common procurator thereof, and his successors, four rigs of land commonly called the Brewcroft of the Miltoun, lying in the Garioch, formerly occupied by Alexander Anderson in Brigend and now by the mortifier, with rights of pasture and fuel in the fields and bogs of the Miltoun: To be held of the mortifier, his heirs, and assigns in blench farm, for yearly payment of one penny Scots at Pentecost: Providing that all sale or perpetual loca-

* No permanent benefit to the College was derived from this mortification. In the Rental of 1598 the Croft is valued at four bolls malt [infra, p. 92]; but from the Rental of 1606 [infra, p. 105] we learn that "We get presentlie nothing thrfor. For it is laid waist be discord betwixt the laird of Wardes and James [Leslie]". In a return made to the University Commissioners of 1826-30 (Evidence, Vol. iv., p. 255) reference is made to "A Charter granted to the College in 1596, on a croft called the Brew Croft, the situation of which has not been at present clearly ascertained". It is believed that the croft now forms part of the estate of Logie Elphinstone. (Cf. Scottish Notes and Queries, ii. 13, 159.)

tion of the lands shall be forbidden; and that deserving youths descended from the family of the mortifier, or that of Wardes, or bearing the name of Leslie, shall be entitled to claim bursaries at the said College. Sealed at Miltoun of Durno, 9th October, 1596, and signed by James Leslie, Magdalene Erskine, John Leslie of Balquhain, John Leslie, younger of Balquhain, and William Leslie of Wardes.

fall on the Colledge hand the nixt witsunday to witt 1607: thes croft then will pay 10 bolls yeirlie is 10 bolls

71 bolls 2 fir<sup>s</sup>

Sua the hail bear Rentall that the Colledge can be advancit till if all the crofts be sett to the outermost by our present rentall qlk is 61 bolls will draw to 35 bolls bear onlie For thes tuo being eikit makes up againe the hail number of fourscoire and sixteen bolls bear as wes aforsaid above the qlk the Colledge can nothing be eikit till the deaths of Mr Robert Chalmer and Gilbert Black and 19 yeirs therafter except onlie in three bolls for the ruides of Kintoire

Now these 35 bolls qrby the Colledge may be onlie advancit may be gottin in at the nixt Sett For at this present witsunday 1606 wee have obtanit decreits of removing befor the Provost and Baillies of Aberdein against all the possessors of the hail Colledge croftes Sua if they be putt at and the lands sett to the outermost the forsd rentall may be fullfillit

These hail croftes within this Brughe reckonit at the hiest as they now pay if they were all in our possessione would be only 167 bolls yeirly, but thereof first is to be deducit of fewes and lyfrents 69 bolls as sd is, Sua will rest of all to be gottin in at any tyme heirafter to the Colledge only the number of 98 bolls of the qlks presently wee have but 57 bolls qrof Mr Robert Howie in his tyme wan in 36 throf, And I in my tyme hithertill is 21 therof as the rentall forsd bears, sua tht of the hail 98 bolls forsd will rest yet to be gotten in only 41 bolls bear qlks now is in the hands as followes, viz (betuixt the In and Fore crofts 18 bolls, betuixt the buttes of James Menjeis and Mr George Bisset 5 bolls vpon Alex<sup>r</sup> Mollesones riggs 3 bolls vpon Mr William Andersones 2 bolls vpon Robert Forbes croft 3 bolls vpon Fill the coipe and Barbors rigs 10 bolls) if the forsd crofts stand at the present rentall Qlk 41 bolls being gotten in as said is then the hail rentall of the 98 bolls might be fullfillit to the Colledge qlks will be the hiest that ever it can be advancit till qll Mr Robert Chalmers and Gilbert Black lyfrents and 19 yeirs tacks run out except onlie if for the ruides of Kintoir wee perchance gett 3 bolls and reckoning Nicolsones yeard for 4 bolls qlk now gives onlie 27 merks, qlks tuo eikit to the former 98 bolls if wee were in full possessione of all as they now pay would make in all ane hundreth and foure bolls, the qlk althoughe it were made present payment of to the Colledge yet would not satisfie ilk master conforme to the fundatione his stipend, For therby wee should have amongst ws sex scoire bolls bear yeirlie, to witt the principall 48 ilk ane of the 3 regents 24 bolls, So wee would want of our full stipend yet 16 bolls althoughe the rental forsd were haillie fullfillit as it is here designit, Of the qlks wee want presentlie as said is 41 bolls by the ruides of Kintoir and vther things and also the forsd sextein bolls

On 3rd July, 1616, the Town Council, “because the said Issobell Boyes [Johnston's mother] is latlie departit this lyiff,” admit Master John Sanders, sister's son to the testator, to the benefit of the Burse for four years, in terms of the Will (Town Council Register, xvii. 624). On 22nd May, 1621, he is succeeded by William Johnstoun (T. C. R., i. 6); and on 29th January, 1623, Alexander Wedderburn, brother to William Wedderburn, Regent, and to David Wedderburn, Rector of the Grammar School, is admitted to this bursary, he being “now presentlie in England occupiet in a pedagogie, yit being resolutit to sequesterat himself from all suche cares” (T. C. R., li. 31.)

The earliest entry in the Town's Accounts relative to this Mortification is as follows:—

- “Maister Johne Johnstone's Mortificatioun of Ane Thousand Merks to ane poore scholer student in divinitie for four yeris successiue ane efter ane vther “Item the said soume of ane thousand merks is restand in the hands of Johne Forbes of Petsligo and John Forbes at the mylne of Melgum his cautionar to be payit at Martimes 1618 conforme to their band 1000 merks

As regulated by the Aberdeen (Endowed Institutions) Provisional Order, 1881, the Johnston Bursary is in future to be of the value of £15 per annum.*

NOTE ON HERALDIC CEILING IN OLD MARISCHAL COLLEGE.

On 29th November, 1678, Robert Paterson, younger son of John, Bishop of Ross, † was promoted from a regency to the Principalship. He became the leading spirit in carrying out a restoration of the College buildings, effected in face of many difficulties, between the years 1682 and 1700. The part restored included a “principal's chamber,” the ceiling of which was adorned with thirty coats of arms, being those of the Founder, of Paterson and his seven predecessors in the principalship, and of twenty-one early benefactors of the College. The ceiling seems to have been erected at Paterson's expense, for in the accounts of the “New Work, 1682-1700,” the only references to armorial decoration are—

1689. “Item for putting up Tourner's arms in the Colledge 3 lib.”
 1698. “Item to Charles Whit for drawing Dr. Sibbald's coat of arms in the principall's chamber 2 lib. 13s.”

The arms were painted on three rows of wooden panels, which in 1790 were removed to form a ceiling for the "Public School". There they remained for half a century, but in 1836-40 the old building was taken down, and the panels appear to have been wantonly destroyed. It is fortunate that in 1833 an exact coloured drawing of the ceiling was executed by Mr. Alexander Dingwall Fordyce, now of Fergus, Ontario,* who has presented the drawing to the New Spalding Club.

The ceiling, which seems to have measured 82 ft. by 22 ft.,† was divided longitudinally into three rows of panels running north and south, and separated by blue bands. The panels of the centre row, six in number, were slightly larger than those of the side rows, and each contained one shield, the upper part or chief lying towards the north, at which end was the entrance to the room. Each shield was placed on a plain blue field encircled by a floral garland, the same for all the six. Behind the garland was a white background bounded by Renaissance scrollwork, differing slightly in details throughout the series. This again was surrounded by the natural brown of the wood, broken only by two straight white ‡ labels above and below, containing the inscriptions. From the extremities of the upper label depended two ribbons, the other ends of which were held by two nude winged figures seated on part of the scrollwork.

The panels of the side rows contained each two shields lying east and west, the upper ends turned away from the centre row. The field on which they were placed was red, with floral ornamentation, and the backgrounds and scrolls as well as the garlands were identical throughout the series. To correspond to the altered position of the shields the labels ran north and south.

The arms emblazoned were those of—Liddell's memory was also celebrated by Principal Gilbert Gray (v., infra, p. 136) and by Professor Andrew Ramsay (Poemata Sacra, Edin., 1633). An account of his life and writings by Professor John Stuart of Marischal College was printed at Aberdeen in 1790, with a portrait from a memorial brass which the magistrates caused "sinck and graive in the toun of Antwerp" for "Sanct Nicolas Kirk of this burgh in the pairt quhair the said doctor Liddell wes bureit," paying therefor "the soume of fourteine hundreth merkis" out of "the superplus of the fermes of Pitmedden . . . attour the payment of the bursars and the superplus of the profitts quhilk hes accresceit of the money mortified to the professor of mathematicques". (See entries for 5th and 28th June, 1622, in Town Council Register, Vol. 1., pp. 302, 326, and "Notices of the Brass," by Mr. Andrew Gibb, in the Proceedings of the Society of Antiquaries of Scotland, 1875-76, p. 450, and by Mr. A. M. Munro in Scottish Notes and Queries for December, 1887). This account was reprinted in the Aberdeen Magazine for 1796, pp. 209-217, and in Professor Stuart's Essays, Aberdeen, 1846. Its substance was also reproduced in Chalmers' Biographical Dictionary, Irving's Scottish Writers, Chambers' Scottish Biography, and Bruce's Eminent Men of Aberdeen.

From the original deed in the Town House Charter Room. "Pitmedden"

* As appears from the next deed (No. XVII.) Liddell, after the date of this mortification, feued the lands of Pitmedden to George Strachan of Glithnot, and a crown charter (24th May, 1614; P<sup>l</sup>. No. 2) is in existence confirming his feu charter of 8th December, 1613. The Council also granted a feu charter of the lands to Strachan and his heirs, but the transaction seems never to have been completed, as the rental of the lands appears in the Burgh Mortification accounts till 1748. In the following year the Council ordered the lands to be feued, and Articles and Conditions of Roup are extant dated 17th August, 1749, when the lands were taken out by John Forbes, merchant in Aberdeen, at £256 Scots of yearly feu duty. One fourth of this was redeemed at 24 years purchase and the remainder = £16 stg., fixed as the annual feu duty. This is the amount still drawn from these lands. The earliest regular entry in the Town's Accounts relative to this Mortification is as follows:—

"Charge of the Rent of Petmedden mortifiet be Doctor Liddell for Interteane-

At the Union of the Universities in 1860 the account stood thus :

" 5. Dr. Duncan Liddel's, to Six Bursars, being Children of Decayed Burgesses	Balce 1859	Revenue	Expendre	Balce 1860	Stock

—Burgh Accounts, 1859-60.

As regulated by the Aberdeen (Endowed Institutions) Provisional Order, 1881 (supra, p. 118), the Liddell Bursaries are in future to be four, in connection with the Faculty of Medicine, value £20 each per annum.

The Town Council Register contains many entries regarding the Liddell bursaries. Subjoined are two specimens of early date.

"Oct. 20, 1634.

"The samen day It wes statute concludit and ordainit be the Prouost Baillies and Counsall, That all bursares alsweill presentit and admittit, as to be admittit heireftir to any of Doctour Liddellis burssis within the colledge of this burghe, sall wear a blak gowne and black bonnet both on the streittes, and in the kirk and colledge during thair four yeiris in philosophie to the effect they may be knawin be thair habite to be bursares, And if any salbe fund defective heirin, in not havinge and wearing of the said blak gowne and bonnet, to be depryveit of his burss fra thane furth ipso facto" (T. C. R., lii. 181. Cf. "Ordinance anent bursars," Oct. 26, 1642, lii. 763).

† This oration was pronounced 23rd December, 1613. It was printed at Edinburgh by Andro Hart in 1614. Poetical eulogies are subjoined, among which is an apotheosis of eight pages by David Wedderburn. Wedderburn, the Poet Laureate of Aberdeen, den with this inscriptione Anno a nato Christo 1614 autoritate regis ordinisque regni hujus villam agrosque de Petmedden sex alumnis literarum studiosis in academia Aberdonensi dicavit confirmavitque obtained, 6th February, 1620, a salary of 80 merks yearly from the Town Council, for which he undertook to teach a weekly lesson of Humanity in the College, and "to compose in Latin both prose and verse whatever purpose or theme, concerning the common affairs of the Burgh, either at home or afield, that he shall be required by any of the magistrates or Clerk". In the Apotheosis we have a curious specimen of his powers of panegyric.

As a guardian angel is conveying a soul to the upper regions an anxious enquiry as to the owner is begun among the Saints. At the mention of Liddell's name all doubt is set at rest: his fame has preceded him,

*Animæ nam prævia fama
Iam prius æthereas superùm penetraverat ædes.*

But to make it clear with what special honour Heaven's gate is to be unlocked on this occasion, Christ comes forward and makes a speech.

The life of man, He points out, is short and uncertain, yet too often spent in disputation instead of in acts of faith. Man revives the crime of his first parent, præcepsque ruit dum scire laborat.

But here is one who has not followed the example of the common herd, whose life from his youth upwards has been fruitful of good works.

Et quia nulla Venus, nulli hunc flexere hymenæi, the Saint Virginitas shall introduce him to the mansions of the blessed, supported on the one hand by Simplicitas, on the other by Sobrietas.

Liddell meanwhile has been making good use of his time on the other side of the gate. Being nearer the constellations than ever he was in his lifetime, he marks them well: the lofty Way, lactea nomen habet, Watery Orion, the Hyades, Perseus, Erigone, thy Waggons Bootes, etc.,

*studioque indulget, utrinque
Assueta in varias classes dum digerit arte.*

But the old man's meditations are interrupted by Virginitas, who seizes him in her arms, presses him to her bosom and imprints kisses,

pura Oscula, nec fædas animi exhalantia sordes, on his lips. She congratulates him on his continence. Nothing has prevailed to tempt him from the paths of purity,

*non lubrica cerni
Lumina, non sobolis spes ulla incerta futura.*

Entering the celestial portals, they are met by the heathen muse Urania, who raises an important question. Rest and eternal reward have been assigned to Liddell, but in what particular region of Heaven is he to enjoy these blessings? Among the Mathematicians, suggests Urania,

*ut quibus artibus illum
Evexi has vicibus gratis iterum evehat artes.*

This proposal is, however, warmly opposed by Hygiæa, who deems the Doctors more

Duncanus Liddelius medicinæ doctor* Ane other salbe erectit in the kirk of new Abd as Mr Thomas Nicolsone and the counsall of new Abd think is expedient † the expenssis taken off the lands of Petmedden to doe the same and to bestow wpon my funeralls and destrubutione to the poor the sowme of ane hundreth pounds And this my latter will dispositione and mortificatione to be extended in ample and autentick forme and because thir presents are maid wpon ane suddentie keipand the substantiall heids therof and redactit honourable company, and extols Liddell's medical abilities, mentioning the honours they had acquired for him upon Earth.

The dispute is referred for decision to Christ, who commissions the saint Munificencia to settle the matter. She, after spending some time in looking alternately at Liddell and at Christ, pronounces an oration, in which she takes credit to herself for the liberality of her hand and of her words, and declares that she is neither awed by servile fear nor overpowered by bashfulness when she suppresses the many topics that occur to her, leading to a decision of the controversy between Urania and Hygiæa. Long-winded speeches and subtle disputes are not the proper business of the Animæ Sacratæ. She therefore prefers to ignore the other's pretensions, and to claim Liddell as her own. His Munificence is as famous as his Mathematics or his Medicine. The Earl Marischal, nobilis Keytheius heros, had laid the foundations of the College, and Johnston had yielded his aid, but it remained for Liddell to exalt the Lycæum from its humble origin to the very Heavens, to make its head to touch the clouds. His place is therefore amidst Benefactors.

*Hactenus illa, probant superi, fremituque secundo

* The monument, which is in an excellent state of preservation, stands in the middle of a field about a mile to the north of Pitmedden House, not far from the railway station. It bears the above inscription * on the north side. On the south: Æternæ memoriæ Domini Duncani Liddelli M.D. Civ. Abd. monumentum hoc ædificari curavit Senatus Abredonensis A. Do 1637. † On the west: the arms and motto of the city of Aberdeen. On the east: the arms of Liddell flanked by the letters D.D.L., and having underneath the motto Sic Luceat Lux Vestra. The arms are: On a bend between a mastiff's (?) head in chief and a greyhound's (?) head in base both coupé, three stars. On the Marischal College ceiling (supra, p. 118) the field and stars were argent, the heads and bend (which was sinister) were gules. On the "broad" (supra, p. 114) the field is gules, the bend (dexter) argent, the heads (erased) or, and the stars sable. In all three representations, as also in that on the brass (supra, p. 122), the two heads are different, but it is not quite clear to what animals they belong. Stodart (Sc. Arms, ii. 301) notes the forms: On a bend between an eagle's (?) head in chief and an otter's (?) head in base both erased, a mullet (Liddell of Halkertoun, 1594); On a bend between a bird's head erased in chief and a horse's head coupé on base, three mullets (Liddell of Hammer, 1681).

† See note supra, p. 122, and entry for 2nd September, 1618, in Town Council Register, Vol. xlviii., p. 507.

* Ordinvm and donavit in place of ordinis and dicavit.

† See entry for 9th November, 1636, T. C. R., lii. 312.

From Copy Testament Testamentar extracted from the Commissary Records of Aberdeen (in which the deed was registered on the day of its execution) and entered in "The Buik of Register".*

* The Commissary Records, and the original deed, were destroyed by fire, 30th October, 1721. In accordance with the provisions of the Acts, 8 Geo. I., cap. 27, and 9 Geo. I., cap. 25, the will was re-registered (from an extract) in the Commissary Court on 18th February, 1723. Another copy is entered in the Town Council Register, Vol. li., p. 577.

—Burgh Treasury Accounts, 1617-18.

In 1704 part of the funds of Dr. Liddell's Mortification for a Professor of Mathematics, etc., Dr. James Cargill's for bursars, Patrick Copland's for a Professor of Divinity, Sir Thomas Crombie's, Alexander Jaffray's, and Dr. Guild's, for non-academic purposes, was invested in the purchase of the undivided half of the barony of Torry. The purchase was made from Sir William Forbes of Monymusk, then proprietor of the undivided half, and the disposition was taken in favour of the Master of Mortifications for behoof of the six mortifications. The barony remained undivided till 1785, when a submission was entered into with John Menzies of Pitfoddels, the heritable proprietor of the other half of the lands, with the result that the east half of the lands was taken over by the Master of Mortifications for his share. Shortly afterwards—viz., in 1786—a start was made in feuing out the lands, and by 1796 they were all disposed of by way of feu, including a strip known as the reserved ground, which was taken out for behoof of the Treasurer of Aberdeen. This transaction, in so far as regards the reserved ground, was in 1877 declared illegal by the House of Lords, and the ground reverted back to the Master of Mortifications for behoof of the various mortifications interested. The revenue is allocated proportionally among the mortifications according to the sum contributed by each towards the purchase price, and for convenience is divided into 100 parts of which—Dr. Liddel's interest is 27 parts, Dr. Cargill's (now the Bursary Fund) 10 parts, Pat. Copland's 12 parts, Alex. Jaffray's 13 parts, Sir Thomas Crombie's 16½ parts, and Dr. Guild's 21½ parts. The 27 per cent. credited to Dr. Liddel is again divided into 22 parts, of which his Mortification to the Professor of Mathematics receives 20 parts, and that to the University Library and the Poor of Aberdeen 1 part each.

At the Union of the Universities in 1860 the Account stood thus:—

	Balce 1859	Revenue	Expendre	Balce 1860	Stock
" 1. Dr. Duncan Liddel's Mortification — 10- 11ths to a Professor of Mathematics in Ma- rischal College, and the remaining 1-11th to the Library of the College and the Poor of Aberdeen equally	4 9 1	134 5 6	133 12 9	5 1 10	3706 10 3"
					—Burgh Accounts, 1859-60.

But since the decision of the House of Lords the value of the endowment has been largely increased, and it now stands thus:—

" Do. do.	0 0 0	271 13 9	271 13 9	0 0 0	7423 6 5"
					—Burgh Accounts, 1887-88.

NOTE ON THE PROFESSORSHIP OF MATHEMATICS.

The subsequent history of the Mathematical Chair may be traced in the following Extracts from the Town Council Register:—

C. R., lii. 375).

Jan. 13, 1641. Mr. William Moir, late baillie, is appointed to succeed Dr. William Johnston, deceased (lii. 611).*

July 3, 1661. Mr. Duncan Liddell, nephew to Dr. Liddell, is, on his Majesty's recommendation, appointed to succeed Mr William Moir, resigned (liv. 270).

Mar. 23, 1687. Mr. George Liddell is appointed professor, in respect of his father's "present inhabilitie" (lvii. 250).

May 8, 1706. Mr. George Liddell is deposed because of his fornication with Jean Bisset, and other offences (lviii. 40).

June 11, 1707. He is reponed (lviii. 68).†

June 13, 1716. Mr. George Liddell to be prosecuted for "several crymes and misdemeaners" (lviii. 473).

May 1, 1717. He is deposed by the Commission of Visitation (lviii. 530). A program is issued in the following terms :

"Præfectus, Consules, Reliquisque Senatus Abredonensis, Bonarum artium studiosis S. Inter alias curas, quæ nobis in hac Civitate Abredonensi, pro Republica, ex officio administranda, incumbunt, Iuventutis rite instituendæ, rationem ut primas obtinere ducimus, ita de viris ingenio et probitate præcellentibus, qui id muneris recte

* According to Sir Thomas Urquhart (Tracts, ed. 1782, p. 126), Liddell, who succeeded Moir, was a candidate at this time. "Did the good men rulers at the helm there make any conscience of the honest doctor's latter will? No, forsooth . . . for, say thay, Master Duncan hath committed the hainous sin of fornication and begot a young lass with child, therefore his uncle's testament must be made voide, in what relates to his enjoyment of that dotation. O brave logick, and curious commentary upon a latter will, for the better explanation of the mind of the defunct! Which presbyterian doctrine, had it been in request in the days of Socrates, what fine pass would the world have been brought to ever since that time, by that ignorance which should have overclouded us through our being destitute of the works of Plato, Aristotle, and Euclid."

† "John Gordon, provost of Aberdeen, finding fault with Mr. George Liddell, professor of Mathematicks in the Marischal-College, turned him out of his post, and caused affix an edict upon the most patent door of the said College-gate, inviting all men to come and dispute for the said Mr. Liddell's post, assuring them of detur digniori. But the said Mr. Liddell applied to the king's advocate, who assured him of his post; so that there was no diet appointed for the dispute. One Dr. Thomas Bower came from London to dispute for it; being disappointed, he protested against the magistrates of Aberdeen, for cost, skaith, and damage, &c." (Orem's Old Aberdeen, ed. 1791, p. 116).

Sept. 11, 1717. Mr. Colin M'Laurine, student of Divinity in the College of Glasgow, and Mr. Walter Bowman, son to Walter Bowman of Logie. undergo trial for the vacant chair, before Mr Charles Gregorie, professor of Mathematics, St. Andrews, and Mr. Alexander Burnet, Regent in King's College. The Examiners report: "They doe think that both the saids Mr John M'Laurine and Mr Walter Bowman are capable to teach the Mathematicks anywhere In most of the tryalls in the inferior pairts of the Mathematicks ther wes no great odds Only in Euclid Mr Bowman wes much readier and distincter, And in the last tryall Mr M'Laurine plainly appeared better acquainted with the speculative and higher pairts of the Mathematicks, And they conclude that they both excell in their own way, Mr Bowman only hath applyed himselfe to those things that are commonly taught and Mr M'Laurine hath made further advances So subscrivit Charles Gregorie Al. Burnet". M'Laurine is accordingly appointed (lviii. 555).

Dec. 23, 1724. On consideration that M'Laurine has "been abroad and not attended to his charge for near thir three years," the Council appoint Mr. Daniel Gordon, one of the Regents "who had formerly taught Mathematicks at the University of St Andrews," to teach the class during the current session (lix. 151).

Jan. 20, 1725. M'Laurine having returned, a Committee is appointed to confer with him anent "1st His going away without Liberty from the Counsell. 2nd His being so long absent from his charge" (lix. 159).

Apr. 27, 1725. M'Laurine appears before the Council, expresses regret, and is reponed (lix. 180).

Jan. 12, 1726. The Council, learning "by the Publict News Prints" that M'Laurine has been admitted conjunct professor with Mr. James Gregorie in the University of Edinburgh, declare his office vacant (lix. 225).

Jan. 18, 1726. A committee is appointed to confer with the Masters of the College anent the vacancy (lix. 230).

- Feb. 23, 1726.* M'Laurine intimates that he has sent his demission to the Masters (lix. 233).
- Feb. 23, 1726.* The committee of Jan. 18 is increased and instructed not to allow "any Sight of the Toun's Registers to the Masters of the Colledge anent any former Admissions of Professors of Mathematicks, And that they should not be allowed to have any Extracts of such Admissions, But that the Communing upon both sides should be Viva voce, And only allowed the Magistrats to produce at the said meeting the old printed Programs" (lix. 233).
- Mar. 23, 1726.* A program is issued similar to that of 1717 (lix. 240).
- June 8, 1726.* Patrick Duff of Premnay presents a Commission of Substitution from his Majesty to vote at the ensuing election to the Mathematical Chair—"part of the patronage thereof being by the present Establishment and Laws of our Realm devolved upon our Crown". The Commissioners to the Convention of Royal Burghs are enjoined to seek advice regarding this" (lix. 251).
- Aug. 23, 1727.* After trial by Mr. Charles Gregoric, Mr. Alexander Burnet, and Mr. Daniel Gordon, Mr. John Stewart, son to Robert Stewart, late provost, is appointed (lix. 352). Mr. Alexander Charles, Advocate in Aberdeen, gives in a protest against the election on behalf of his son, George Charles, who "as a near Relation to the Mortifier ought to be prefer'd to the said office without disputing, seeing he is qualified". The protest and answers made to it by the "Principall and Members of Rectorall meeting" are entered at length in the "Admission Book".
- Aug. 28, 1766.* After trial by Prof. Vilant, St. Andrews, Prof. Thomas Reid, Glasgow, Prof. Gordon, King's Coll., and Prof. Skene, Marischal College, Mr. William Trail is chosen (lxiii. 56). The unsuccessful candidates are Mr. Robert Hamilton, son to Mr. Gawin Hamilton, bookseller in Edinburgh (afterwards the occupier of the chair); Mr. George Douglas, private teacher of Mathematics in Edinburgh; Mr. John Playfair, student of Divinity, son to the Reverend Mr. James Playfair, Minister of the Gospel at Liff (afterwards Professor of Mathematics and of Natural Philosophy at Edinburgh); Mr. Adam Fullarton, one of the masters of the Grammar School of Aberdeen; and Mr. Robert Stewart, eldest son of the deceased Professor Stewart. The arrangements for, and the scope of the examination, are detailed in the Minute. The examiners unanimously report Trail to be the best qualified candidate. The marks obtained were: Trail, 126; Hamilton, 119; Playfair, 90; Fullerton, 58; Stewart, 47; Douglas, 16.
- Sept. 3, 6, 1776.* Dr. John Garioch is appointed Assistant and Successor to Dr. Trail (lxiv. 85-6).
- April 8, 15, 16, 1779.* Mr. Patrick Copland, Prof. of Natural Philosophy, is chosen to succeed Dr. Trail, resigned (lxiv. 164-6).
- Oct. 31, 1780.* Professors Copland and Hamilton (Natural Philosophy) propose to exchange classes and duties, and the Council consent (lxiv. 210).
- May 31, 1817.* They formally exchange offices, Dr. Hamilton being elected Prof. of Mathematics by the Council (lxx. 124).
- June 5, 1817.* Mr. John Cruickshank, Preacher of the Gospel, is appointed Assistant and Successor to Dr. Hamilton (lxx. 127). Dr. Hamilton died 1829; and Mr. Cruickshank held office till the Union of the Colleges in 1860.

—Dr. William Johnston in Liddel's Ars Conservandi Sanitatem, 1651.

"Of Dr. James CARGILL, of Aberdeen, I can produce no material anecdotes, though he merits particular remembrance; since it is manifest, from the nature of his communications to his friends, both on the continent, and at home, that he must have been extremely well acquainted with the botany of the age. There is sufficient evidence that he had studied botany and anatomy at Basil, during the time that Casper BAUHINE held the professorship in these sciences, for whom a chair was erected in that city in 1589. This celebrated professor enumerates Dr. CARGILL among those who transmitted seeds and specimens to him. GESNER records the same services on his part. At home, LOBEL, in his 'Adversaria,' acknowledges the like communications, and repeatedly speaks of him in very respectable terms, as a philosopher, and as well skilled in the sciences of botany and anatomy. He appears to have been living in the year 1603; at which time he sent to Casper BAUHINE specimens of the Fucus digitatus, with the description, which is seen in the 'Prodromus' of that author [page 154]. I know not of any publication from Dr. CARGILL." Pulteney's Sketches of the Progress of Botany in England. London: 1790. Vol. ii., p. 2.

Cargill's arms appeared on one of the panels in the heraldic ceiling (supra, pp. 114, 118) as, Gules three birds [?] martlets] argent. On the "broad" the birds resemble ravens.

At the Union of the Universities in 1860 the account stood thus:

"2. James Cargill's Mortifi- cation to Four Bur- sars at College being Town's Bairs of Aberdeen	Balce 1859	Revenue	Expenditre	Balce 1860	Stock
	34 6 4	92 18 10	100 18 8	26 6 6	2674 16 4"

—Burgh Accounts, 1859-60.

Of the revenue, £49 9s. 7d. came from the Torry feu-duties (supra, p. 141). Since 1877 the endowment has been largely increased, Torry alone in 1887-88 contributing £102 2s. 11d., representing a stock of £2741 19s. 5d.

As regulated by the Aberdeen (Endowed Institutions) Provisional Order, 1881 (supra, p. 118), the Cargill bursaries are eight in number, of £20 each per annum, tenable for four years.

NOTE ON COPLAND'S ENDOWMENT.

Mr. Copland's first intention had been to found Bursaries. The original of the following letter to the Rector of the Grammar School is the first of a series of twelve preserved in the Town House archives :—

I.

To my very loving friend Mr Dauid Wedderburne this be delivered Very loving friend Mr Dauid Wedderburne, meeting with the berar Robert Buchan yor townes man ; I thought good by him to remember my self vnto you and all or good friends with you namely Mr Archibald Blackburne, Mr Charles Ferme, M<sup>rs</sup> Robert Mercer and W<sup>a</sup> Guild &c. And would be glad to heare from you and them, specially of the state of our poore church with you, wch now I feare is fallen into the mouth of the wolf the Shepherd being banished away. I heare of the death of my worthie and reverend master
Mr Gilbert Gray, wch wounds me to the heart, becaus of yor colledge. I intended, if hee had been alive, to have presently bestowed two thousand marks scots for the mantainance of or (at least) to help to maintaine 4 poore bursers 50 m'ks a peece per annum ; and though the Lord hath removed him, yet if yor towne make choise of a learned and able principall that hath a care of the flourishing of yor colledge, specially if they choose Mr Charles Ferme, I meane to prosecute my purpose, and to have the money readie at an houre : It is in the East India Companies hands, and I can lift when I will. Wherefoir I pray you signifie my purpose to the town Counsel ; and my word, godwilling shalbe my deed. Thus looking to heare from you with the first berar, I commit you and all or christian friends with you (to whom I pray you commend mee) to God. London this 2nd of Maj 1615.

direct yor letters when you write to Mr Jon Mitchel dwelling in Coleman street, that hee may send them to mee at my house in Norton in Northampton shire.

Yor loving brother
Pat. Copland

The Town Council, however, call his attention to the bursaries already founded—six by Dr. Liddell and four by Dr. Cargill (the six bursars of the Foundation charter it will be observed are ignored); and to the defective stipends of the Masters.

June 21, 1615.

The Baillies and Counsell having aduysedlie considerit the freyndlie letter direct be Maister Patrik Copland to Mr David Wedderburne schoollmaister of this burgh daited at Londoun the 2 of Maj last Berand that gif ane learned and qualifiet persone might be had to fill the rowme of Mr. Gilbert Gray last principall of the college of this burgh laitlie departit this lyiff that the said Mr Patrik for the love and zeall he caries to the flourishching of the said college wauld bestow twa thousand merkis Scottis for the maintenance or at the least for a help to manteane four puir bursaris fyftie merkis a peice per annum And thairby desyrand the said Mr Daud Wedderburne to signifie that his purpose to the Counsell of this burgh and to returne to him thair answer Fand that heirby the said Mr Patrik is most cairfull to sie the standing of the said college And in ret thairof ordainit ane answer to be sent back to the said Mr Patrik geving him hartlie thankis for his godlie intentione and designe foirsaid And to intreat him gif it might stand with his contentment that his said provisione might be bestowit to the vse and behuiff of the Principall and Maisteris of the saidis college seing thair is provision maid alreddie for ten bursaris and na competent provisione as yit for principall nor maisteris And to direct this letter with Robert Buchane merchand bringer of the said Mr Patrik his letter foirsaid With powar to the said Robert to ressaue the said twa thowsand merkis fra the said Mr Patrik togidder with his letter and direction to the Magistrattis and Counsell of this burgh how the same salbe bestowit The said Robert always finding caution incais of his resset of the said sowme fra the said Mr Patrik that he sall mack payment thairof to the Magistrattis and Counsell betwixt and Michaelmes nixt or sooner within        dayes efter his returne frome Londoun to be bestowet and imployit as the said Mr Patrik sall direct be his letter. (Town Council Register, xlvi. 201. Cf. Report of Buchan in Minute of Dec. 27, 1615, xlvi. 406.)

Mr. Copland seems to have consented (in a letter which has not been preserved) to the suggestion of the Council—but only on the understanding that Mr. Charles Ferme or Mr. Patrick Forbes of Corse should fill the vacant Principalship. Meanwhile the Earl Marischal makes a different selection.

June 21, 1615.

The Said Day the Baillies and Counsell having hard the report maid be Thomas Mengzeis and Robert Johnestoun commissioneris nominat be the Counsell to pas to the Erle Marshall tuicheing the provyding of ane learnit and qualefeit persone to be principall of the College of this burgh qlk wes this in effect that the said Erle is weil affected to provyid ane qualefeit persone for the said place and that his Lo. is content with any of thir twa persones towit Maister Patrik Sands and Mr Alexander Home quha wes nominat to his Lo. be the saids Commissioneris and that his Lo. desyris the Baillies and Counsell of this burgh To be earnest and diligent to travell with thame for thair acceptatioun of the said place vpon thame with sic possibill diligence as the necessitie of the tyme craveis. Aug. 1, 1615.

The Quhilk day the Baillies new and auld Counsall being conveyit Thocht meit and expedient That seeing my lord Merschall patrone of or Colledge be aduyse of the Commissionaris direct from the Counsall of this burt to his Lo. hes maid choose to sute Maister Patrik Sands to be principall of or Colledge now vacant be deceas of Mr Gilbert Gray last principall That thairfoir a Commissionar salbe direct frome this burt to the said Mr Patrik with all convenient diligence To deal with him to accept the said charge Lyke as thai instantlie nominat Thomas Mengzes of Cultis commissioner to the effect foir-said To quhome thai appoint the sowme of ane hundreth merkis for macking his expenssis in the said commissioun To be payit to him be the Thesaurar qlk salbe allowit in his comptis (T. C. R., xlvi. 247).

A letter of remonstrance from Mr. Copland follows :

II.

To the right worshipfull the Provost, Bailyeis and Counsel of Abirdeen

All these

Right worll my humble service and heartie dutie to you all remembred ; I received the last of Januarij yor packet of lettres, bearing date the 10th of the same. And according vnto my promise and your desire have delivered the rest of the money to Robert Buchan. In my former lettres (as may appear by them) I was moved at yor w. request to change my owne intent and purpose and to yeeld vnto yors. And that only because yor w. wrote vnto mee that yee were dealing wth the Laird of Corse and Mr Charles Ferme to procure ane of them to succeid in the roome of yor worthy principall who now is with God. By your present letters I can vnderstand nothing of the refusall of either of them to vndertake that care and burden ; only yee mention one Mr Patrick Sandis of whom you have made choise by the advise of the Erle Marshall yor fundator and patron. The man to myself is unknown, only by reporte I heare hee is a great Lawyer and Philosopher, but what Theologue and Linguist hee is I cannot learne ; and a Divine and Linguist, as a man most fittest and necessary for yor Colledge is chiefly intended by the foundation, as yor w. in yor former lettres wrote vnto mee. Wherefore except hee prove such a one I will in no wayes condiscend to change my first purpose and intention, but will that still the litle mite I have given may be a help and reliefe for poore scholers, such as once I was my self. A litle before the receipt of yor w. present lettres, I received a letter from Mr Charles Ferme himself, wherein he makes mention of another letter of his owne and Mr Archibald Blackburnes advise to mee touching my donation ; wch letter I vnderstand came to yor w. sight, but is detained from mee, whereof I marvaile not a litle ; It is safe I am sure and forthcoming, so be it, yr w. give direction I may see it, wch I doubt not yor w. will doe by the next convenient berar. Howsoever I have delivered the rest of the money to Robert Buchan and have taken his obligation for principall and profite, wch I have sent in my lettres inclosed to Mr Charles Ferme and Mr Archibald Blackburne, whom if yor w. doe satisfie that it shalbe employed to the wel of the Colledge according to my minde (wch I doubt not but yor w. will most willingly doe) then yee may receive from them Robert Buchan's present obligation, and receive the money when yee will. In the meane while I pray yor w. to discharge the said Robert Buchan and his suirties of his obligation wch yor w. haue of him. This being done vpon receipt of Mr Archibald and Mr Charles their lettres written to mee, I will according to yor direction write out on parchment my Mortification, and will seale and subscribe and send it back vnto yor w. that it may be recorded and kept as yor w. doe write. Only one thing there is in it wch I dislike, to wit, that if the Erle Marshel shall place a man without the consent of the Provost, Bailies and counsel of Abd for the tyme; that then the vse of the said tuo thousand markes shall goe to the maintenance of the Ministers of Abd serving the cure. Yor Bishoprick is fat enough and it may help the Ministry; or if it doe not, my desire is that yor Hospittal in such a case (as likewise if yor Colledge shall decay, wch God defend) may haue the benefite of this my donation and none else. Thus againe remembering my humble dutie vnto all of yor w. specially vnto yor worshipfull provest my very loving friend, I commend you and yor waightie affaires vnto the direction, protection and blessing of the Almighty. London this sixth of Februarij, 1615 [-16].

Yor w. townsman in all dutiefull obedience to be comanded, Patrike Copland.

III.

The right worshipfull the Provost Bailies and Council of the burgh of Abirdeen

All these

Right worshipfull my humble dewtie and heartie love to you all remembred, I received your lettres, and according to your desire haue written vnto Mr Archibald for delivery of Robert Buchans bond, that yee may receive and convert the tuo thousand merks scottis money to the vse of Mr William forbes, of whome yee haue now made choise, and his successors in all times comming. Befoire the receipt of yours, I had a letter from Mr Androw Aidee your principall, but til I heard from your selves I thought it not fitting to returne him answer. And now in that yee haue made choise of a Theologe to reade in the schooles, I have finally and fully agreed to your request, and given my willing and free consent to Mr William forbes, of whom yee haue made choise, and to such others as the Provost, Baylifes and Council, for the tyme shall make choise, hee being alwayes a learned Theologe and Linguist, and a resident in the Colledge or towne. It was neuer my purpose to comit the right of patronage and presentation to any vthers then the Provost, Bailies and Council (For who should have greater care of the flourishing of their Towne and Colledge then they that are Magistrats of it?). Indeed for the first setting of a man, I thought it fitting (as I wrote before) that Mr Charles ferme and Mr Archibald your present pastor should haue a special stroke; but it was never any part of my purpose to make them or any els Patrons and Presenters besids the Magistrats of the Towne. I have not set my letter of Mortification, nor cannot, til I see Mr Charles ferme and Mr Archibald Blackburne, their letter of advise. I marvel that order was not taken that Mr Archibald (who now hath it) should send it inclosed either in your or his lettres, seeing I intreated you in my last lettres to see it. Wherefore, I pray you againe as yee desire to haue my lettres of Mortification that yee wold send mee their letter of advise, and then I wil, godwilling, put an end vnto this busienes. Thus expecting to see them, I rest your w. to be commanded

To the right worshipfull the Provost Baillies and Council of the Towne of Abirdeen

All these

Right worshipfull, and dearly beloved in the Lord, I received yours, bearing date the first of January, the tuintie one of the same, from the right worshipfull Sr Thomas Smyth, Governor to the East India company. The thing yee by your letters desire to be by mee performed, I had done before your letters came to my hand: and now I am glad that ye haue procured Mr William forbes, whom I know to be both holy and learned; and I doe most heartily rejoyce that my small help hath been some meanes to procure so sufficiently wel qualified a man. Yee shall therefore receaue my letter of Mortification, written, sealed and subscribed with my owne hand, that it may be recorded both in your Townes bookes, and records of your Colledge to testifie my dutie towards God, and love to my native Towne and Colledge. I am now againe called by the right worshipfull East India company to goe back to the Indees, and after much intreatie, have now at last yeilded my consent to goe in the James royall the Admirall of their goodlie fleet, which within a few dayes is to put to sea. My humble sute vnto you all is that ye wold recommend mee in your best devotion vnto God, that hee would vouchsafe his blessing vpon my weake labours, that I may be serviceable in my place to gaine glory vnto him, and to doe good vnto his people. If God in mercy returne mee and withall blesse my voyage I will cast in one mite more into his treasure, how small soeuer it be. The many bussines which now lye vpon mee, and the short tyme I have, doe force mee to make an end, and to bid you all heartily farewell in the Lord.

To the right wor<sup>ll</sup> the Provest, Baillies and Councell of Abirdeen

These

Right hono<sup>ll</sup>, right wor<sup>ll</sup>, and wellbeloved, I received both yor welcome and louing letters; the one from Dr. Donaldson my kinsman, the other from Thomas Wenton your townsman; for wch and all yor loue expressed in them, I thanke you most heartily; beseeching the Almighty to vouchsafe mee a heart and meanes, that I may shew my thankfulness both vnto him and your selves by word and deed. You have by your letters in parte satisfied mee in that wch I desired to know; And likewise yielded to my request touching Mr John Welsh his sone. I was the more willing to desire that favor at your w. hands, because his father lyes here in the Citie of London vpon the poynt of death, hauing a great charge of wife and children, and litle or no meanes to sustaine them: for neither can hee obtaine that fauour now in the time of his extremity, to returne to his native countrey; nor any mantainance to comfort his comfortles family; and being thus cast vpon the providence of God, I was bold to become an humble sutor vnto your w. for one of his sones, to be brought vp at yor Grammer schoole and Colledge. And now that you have granted this request, both hee, I, and his sone shall acknowledge our selues alwayes bound and inobliged vnto you for this fauor. I am glad to heare of the repairing of the materiall edifice of your Colledge, but much more to heare of the floreshing of learning in it; and very sory I am to heare of the departure of Mr William Forbes from you to Edr, and that partly for your colledge sake, and partly for his owne, who I feare will never be so well respected and beloued in Edinburgh as hee was in Abirdeen. But now he is gone, I hope God will raise you vp another in his roome that shall be able and willing to doe as much good as ever hee did. The small token of my loue, towit Two thousand markes more, wch I intend to send you, I purposed it should haue gone for the helpe of that Theologicall lecture read by him. But now yor Schoolem<sup>r</sup>, mr Dauid Wedderburne writtes vnto mee of a Theologicall Profession erected by the Presbyterie in the old towne; and of a lecture of humanity by yor selves in your new Colledge: Wherefore if it seeme good vnto you to adde this vnto that wch formerly was given by my selfe, and bequeathed by mr Dauid Chamberlaine, I shall be willing to helpe forward the worke begunne by yor selves, specially if you procure some learned man to take charge of your Colledge, and to read this lecture of Humanity, or rather the grounds of Divinity, wch are most necessary to be taught; for I feare Dr Dunne will have too grave a burden to follow his owne Profession of Physick, and to attend your Colledge: And I wold be very loath that what I haue painefully gained with the hazard of my life, and sweat of my browes, should goe to any but such, as takes paines to doe his dutie. Till therefore you haue a Principall of yor Colledge that taketh paines himselfe by teaching as wel as ruling the youth, I desire that the present Two thousand Markes may goe for entertaining this youth, whome now I send: and that the annuel rent thereof may alwayes serue for entertaining One Burser (that is no Townes bairne) for his Four yeeres course; or Two Townes children, for the same space; Provyded alwayes that neither the poore Stranger nor Townes-child pay anything to Regent or Principall for their schooling and teaching. Further, my request vnto yor w. is, that if my Lord Marschall the patron of yor Colledge, should recall his gift, and so dissolue yor Colledge (as God defend hee should) that then what formerly I haue giuen, and what now I shall giue may be disposed of to such publike vses as Dr Howy in St Androis, Mr Archibald Blackburne your Minister, Robert Johneson of Cremound, and Mr Andro Clarke (whome I intreate to be my Overseers in this busines) or any Three of them shall think fit. Now if you send mee a Coppie of my former Mortification, amended as now I write, I will seale and confirme it, and, Godwilling send you the money, before my departure out of England; which how soone it will be, I certainly know not; but I hope not before I heare from you, and haue settled this matter. Thus returning my humble dutie vnto yor w. and loue vnto all my good friends, I rest a wel-wisher vnto yor Colledge and Towne

I haue dealt afarre off wth Mr Walter Donaldson, who shoves mee that though there be diuers conditions offend him; yet if hee may haue but competent meanes to doe good to Abirdeen where hee was borne, though they be meaner then hee may haue elsewhere; hee will be willing to embrace them before any other. And surely if you can haue a learned and painful man of your owne Towne that hath giuen good prooffe of his learning and diligence abroad, I see not why hee should not be entertained before any other. Wherefore if you haue a desire to haue him, let me know; and it will not be amisse to write to himselfe, what conditions you are able to make him, that you may haue his answer. Mr John Welsh, his sute vnto yor w. is that his sone may be placed in Mr. Dauid Wedderburnes house, that hee may haue an eye ouer him. [See Minute of Town Council, 25th April, 1622. T. C. Mr. Copland's subsequent letters give us interesting glimpses of College affairs.

All these

Right wor<sup>ll</sup>, my humble duty remembred, yors bearing date the Thrid of October, I receiued the 24th of the same. By wch I perceiue that you think it a matter very hard, if not altogether impossible, to procure Mr Robert Boyde to be Reader in yor Colledge and Preacher in your Pulpit ; because (as you write) he will not be admitted to such an eminent place as yours is, vnlesse he submit himselfe vnto your Episcopall Government, vnto wch hee will not yield. Vnto what passe have your Lordly Lords brought the estate of God's Kingdome with you, when they damme vp the gate thereof, and will suffer none to enter in but such as they themselves list ? Is Scotland become now so quaint and nice, that the best Wyne and Salt wch grew and was made wt you, cannot, the one finde a Sellar to hold it ; the other a Dunghill to lie vpon in their owne Countrie ? Must france and other Countries bereave you of yor peerles Pearles of inestimable value ? What this portends, I cannot divine, vnles a transporting of God's Kingdome from you ; and removing of your Candlestick. Wel, in hope that God will yet send better dayes, and continue the light of his Gospel with you, I will Godwilling be as good as my word when you have procured such a man as shall be found worthie of yor Schooles and Pulpit. As touching my going for Virginia, my Resolution is the same that it was before. If that hono<sup>ll</sup> Company faile not in their promise to mee, I will not be wanting to them. It is not any danger by the way, or difficultie there that stayes me from going : for, had I that wch I expect, a comfortable calling from the people there ; were there as many Deuils in Virginia as there be men and trees there, thether would I goe, for my life is not deere to mee, to doe God service there or any where els, whethersoever hee calles mee. Thus returning my humble dutie vnto your w. and the rest of my loving friends with you, I commit you and them to the direction and protection of the Almighty, and rest

I had scarce made an end of my letter, when I receiued a letter from Mr Robert Boyd himselfe, who writes vnto mee that he thinks that the same let or barre wch hindred his continuance in Edr, will stop his Admission wth you. Who knows whether you may procure to him more fauor, than they could : Doe yor best to make trial : for by his letter to mee, it seemes he is willing if you be not wanting. Thinke not to have an able and painefull man without seeking and sending for, and making all the meanes, and vsing all the friends you can for his procuring.

All these

Right wor<sup>ll</sup>, my humble dutie to you all remembred, I received yours from Mr Patrick Gordon, whereby I vnderstand that you haue been dealing this last wynter wth Mr Robert Boyd, to draw him to your Colledge and Pulpit ; but now are out of hope to enjoy him, because of your Bishops. Woe is mee that all the rest is so ruled by them, that none without their leave may turne the spit. Wel, howsoever hee be vncapable of preferment with you ; hee is not such vnsavoury salt, as is good for nothing, but for the dunghill. My Cousing, Mr Alexander Cullen, writes to mee that you are dealing with your first Primar Dr Howye, to recall him to your schooles : and hee himselfe (as it appeares by his owne letter to mee) is not vnwilling, vpon your solliciting of him, and providing for him, to come. If you may enjoy him, it is the thing I desire, and I will put too, as I have promised, my helping hand. But let mee intreate you first, that the moneyes already given and procured by mee, may be extant, that it may be knowen in whose hands they are ; and this being done, that then they may be secured for euer hereafter for the vse I have mortified them vnto ; that they may not be embezzled nor diverted. For this is one of the maine causes ; yea, indeed, the alone cause why Mr Thomas Reed (with whome I have dealt) is so slack in doing you good. When you have secured the moneyes already given to their proper uses, and haue made it vp a competent meanes for a learned and an honest man ; I will then (Godwilling) send you the two thousand markes that I have promised. I am glad to heare that the present Earle Marishall hath ratified his vmq<sup>ll</sup> fathers Ereccion and foundation of your Colledge. And as glad to heare of the placing and setting of Dr. Johneson in the Mathematicall Lecture erected by Dr Liddell. But Sorye I am to heare that you have diuerted some of the meanes intended for that profession, to another vse : And that the rest is so ill husbanded that now after 13 or 14 yeeeres employment of the principall stock of Six thousand markes (Four thousand acknowledged by yourselves left for that vse) you are able to make an offer only of Six hundred markes by yeere to Dr Johneson, if he will accept of it. You have done wel to provide Nathaniel Welsh to a burse ; I hope you will be as good as yor words to see that hee does not want. Thus beseeching God for the dayly prosperity of yorselves, yor towne and schooles, I commit you to the direction and protection of the Almighty and rest

Postscript

Since the writing of the former, it hath pleased God to visite Mr Thomas Reed with a grievous sicknes, so that the physicians have given him ouer for a dead man. Though in the time of his health hee was slow to further yor schooles (because as hee still told mee, the moneyes alreadie given by Dr Liddell and others were not wel husbanded by you) yet since his sicknes he hath by his will bequeathed to yor Colledge, his Library wch (as he told mee) cost him neere vpon Three hundred pound sterling money ; together with Six thousand Markes in money now in the hands of his brother Mr Robert, where it shall continue, or in some other trustie hands, till you can procure a parcel of land that may yield Six hundred Markes by yeer to the keeper of yor Library, whom he hath appointed to be a Philolog to be named by yorselues and your Scholemaster. If God call him to himselfe, he hath taken course for the transporting of his bookes to yor Colledge.

Now Mr Thomas Reed is gone, I hope you will improve his gift to the benefite of your Schooles.

To the right wor<sup>ll</sup> the Provest Baillies and Counsell of Abirdeen
these

Right wor<sup>ll</sup>, I received yours, together wth another from Dr Howy my maister and kinsman. By yours I vnderstand that you are desirous to recall him to yor Schooles and Pulpit : And by his it appeares that he is not altogether vnwilling to yield his consent ; there being (as Reason recognises) a competent maintenance provided for him. It's true that the not fulfilling Dr Liddels will, and the not procuring and placing of a Mathematicall Reader in yor Colledge, did much disharten mr Thomas Reid from doing any thing in the time of his health for the flourishing of your schooles ; although both myselfe and others dealt very earnestly with him to that effect : And I think if hee had liued till this houre in health, he would have done litle or nothing for you, vnles hee had heard that a Mathematician had by you been entertained, wch (as I heare) is yet to be done. And indeed this dallying with Dr Johneston (one whome you well approue of, and who hath given good triall of his abilities for that place) hath made me somewhat slower then I intended. As for yor fidelity in that wch I have sent, I will not charge you: My desire only is that you will set forward the worke, and procure Dr Howy, or some other learned man; and then you shall see that I will not (God willing) be wanting. The doing of this indeed is that wch will incourage mee to send you what I have promised, especially if you certifie mee that the 5000 merks already sent is really extant and in sure hands for the vse it was sent. Wherefore I pray you (to the end that all men here may be satisfied, and never be able to open their mouth, against your fidelity: As also that others by former presidents, may be incouraged to doe your Scholes good for the future) to send mee a coppie of the Audite of yor Accompts, vnder the hands of yor Bp, and other Auditors. And if Dr Johnestone write also of his entertainment these will giue good content to all welwillers to yor Colledge; and vindicate your selues from the malicious calumnies of all such as shall goe about to traduce yor faithfull cariage in this trust committed to your charge. I give you many thanks for providing of Nathaniel Welsh wth a burse and care you haue of him for his apparell and books. I would gladly know how hee profites in his studies, and what hopes his maister conceives of him, whether he is like to prove a Scholer or not. Thus beseeching God to prosper his worke in yor hands, I commit you and it to his blessing, and rest

Right worll. Yours Aberdeene 25th of July 1632 I received about the beginning of October following by the conveyance of my fellow-minister Mr George Stirke, who had been at London and came back from thence. Your former sent by you to Thomas Cargill (whereof now you have sent me a copie) either was not sent, or miscarried by the way: for I never saw the original. I am glad to vnderstand by you of the happie successe and profitable labour of Dr Barron yor Divinity Lecturer, and glader would I have bene to haue received a few lines either from himselfe (to whom I wrote, and in whose letter I inclosed yors of set purpose to draw a few lines from him) Doctor Dunne or Doctor Howy to whome also I wrote; but as yet haue no answer, which breeds some scruple in my heart that all is not so wel as it should be, and I desire. Wherefore if you expect any further pledge of my loue, I pray let mee vnderstand the truth of all yor cariage in this trust imposed in you, by my maister Dr Howye or Dr Baron: till wch time that I heare either from the one, or other, I can not be induced to doe yor Towne and Scholes that good that I am willing otherwise to doe you. Thus returning my loue vnto you and recommending you and yor proceedings to the blessing of the Almighty, I rest

Reverend and oure dearelie beloved Brother in God yors frome yor studie in Pagaiis Tribe in Sommer Ilands 1 febrj 1632 [-33] we receawed in Maij last 1633 whairby yow signifie that or former sent vnto yow by Thomas Cargill (whair of sensyne yow did receawe a copie) either wes not sent or miscaried by the way. As for the sending of it frome this, yow sall not neid (if ye pleis) to mak any doubt, for we wold be verie loath God willing in any purpose whatsoewir, far les in a mater of so small moment, to affirme bot that quhilk is of trewth So yow may be perswaded that that Letter wes sent frome ws, howsoewer miscaried. Farder whereas it appeires by yors that their remanes some scruple in yor hart that these moneyes intrusted by yow to or managing for or divinitie professor ar not so weil governed as they could be and as ye desyre, since ye had written to Doctor Baron, as lykeweyes to Doctor Howy and Doctor Dwne, and frome nane of thame had ye receawed anser, howsoewir sr they have not hitherto returned to yow thair anser (whairanent we hope they will mak thair awin excuses) yet yow sall not neid to conceawe the least jealousie or suspitioun of oure careage in the busienes, for besyds that quhilk is gewin by yorselff and maister Chalmerlane to that divinitie lecture, we bestow yearelie a goode deal of our comoune goode to mak wp a competent stipend to or professor who (as we dout not he will acquait yow be his awin letter) receiwes yeirle frome ws Twelff hundreth merks of stipend, togidder with a fre hous for his dwellinge and coalles for serweing his hous quhilk surmounts for the annualrent of yor moneyes at ten for the hundreth, whereas now by Act of Parliament at or Kinges Matie his late being in this his ancient Kingdome it is inacted for ane law in tyme comeing that thair salbe no more anuall taken for the vse of moneys bot eight for the hundreth in a yeire. So that by this new law or towne both in yor and other mortificatiounes wilbe muche burdined, since we ar alreddie ingadgit and bund in payment of definite and constant stipends at ten for the hundreth. Newirtheles by gods grace we sall do oure best that nane shall have just cause to compleane of or careage in what is intrusted to ws in that kynd. In consideratioun whair of we houpe that what ye have intendit for the forder advancement of this divinitie lecture, ye will rather augment nor diminishe the same in regard not onlie of oure fidelitie and care in the administratioun of what is intrusted to ws bot also of the incres of oure Tounes burdine be the dounetaking of the anuallrent of moneyes. All farder heirin remitting to yor awin pious and religious consideraone, efter remembrance of or toune to yorself bedfellow and childreine we recomend yow and thame with yor labors in yor ministrie to the Blessing of God and still remaine

To the worthy and worll the Provost Baillies and Council of new Abirdeen in Scotland.

All these

Worthie and worll. Yors Abirdeen August 16 1633, I received by the conveyance of James Robertson at Billingsgate in London, about the 20th of October 1634. By wch you give mee to vnderstand that by reason of a law lately made by his maties being wth you in Scotland, you are cast behind hand in your Mortifications, and therefor desire mee to put too my helping hand to beare a parte of your burden, the rather in regarde of your fidelitie that way. I did ever beare an heartie affection to your Towne and Scholes, and if I were as wel, nay halfe so wel enabled by my Ministry here in these Ilands, as I was by my service in the East India Companies employment I would set the coape stone on that worke whereof (at your request) I layd the foundation. But it is otherwise with mee now then it was then. I here haue buried what in their service I got: And I haue expended One thousand pounds sterling and a better peny more then I have got by my Ministry in these Ilands. Yet I blesse God I haue not spent it vpon my back or bellye but some part vpon setting forward Gods works in these western parts of the world aswel as I haue done somewhat towards the furthering of letters and learning in yor Towne. Yet may I vnderstand by you that our Smoak (our Tobacco) will not blinde but cleare your Eyesight, I will that way helpe you the best I can for as yet my land and Ministry produces no other benefite to mee vnles it be food, and fruicts, whereof blessed be God, we have plentie of all sorts to comfort our selues and to serve our Neighboures. But as for money wee have it not here, neither haue we any vse of it. Our litle Ilands are another Paradise for food and fruicts and sweetnes of ayer, but for white and yallow earth it yieldeth not. Wee haue the Gospel of the Kingdome and that contents vs, it brings competency wth it, that wee want not. I may now say as once Peter did to the creeples Silver and gold haue I none, but such as I haue that am I willing to giue: if our tobacco will doe the turne, I will God willing helpe you that way. Thus craving a blessing vpon your selues, your Towne and Scholes, I commit you all to his gracious direction and protection, and rest

Yors euer to doe you the best Service I can

To the reverend Mr Robert Blair preacher of the Gospell of Jesus Christ in New Abd in Scotland. By Mr Robert Smith q<sup>m</sup> God preserve.

Grace and peace from the rich fountaine of both

Reverend Brother

Though vnknown to you, or you to mee by face, yet vpon the report I have of you from Mr Robert Smyth a countrieman of ours, who hath often heard you preach in Ireland and therefrom acquainted with you; and who also comming from the Charyb Ilands, lying in the bay of Mexico, to our Iland sick, in a maner to death, and here recovering his perfect health, and bound back again to Barbados to looke for a passage to his wife in Middleburrow in Zeland; vnderstanding I say by this Countryman of ours, that you were now removed out of Ireland and called by the Magistrats of the Towne of Aberdeen, where I was borne and bred, I have by his meanes conveyed these few lynes vnto your selfe, earnestly intreating you to acquaint me with the state of your scholes in new Aberdeen, specially whether the Mathematical Lecture erected by Dr Lyddel, and the Divinity Lecture erected by myselfe, be full and supplied with able and diligent

Readers in the publique scholes. Dr Barron was sometimes reader of divinity in the scholes and preacher in ther pulpite ; since his death at Berwick, I have heard the place is vnsupplied, as also the other lecture which Dr Johnson sometimes read ; if so the Magistrates of the towne doe mee the more wrong, who earnestly sollicited mee to intrust them with my gifte, first and last, and faithfully promised to see it improved according to my mind, which was this that the darke Cymmerian corners in the North parts of Scotland might be illightned by the Torchis kindled in that schole by my gift. I trust Sr Paul Menzes and the rest remember their promise : if not they dishearten myselve and all other Benefactors to their towne and scholes, from ever enlarging ourselves any further, as I had a purpose to do if I had been informed of their fidelity that way : but to speake as I thinke, my hearte did misgive mee a little afore I had intrusted them, because by their accounts audited by their Bishop Forbes Mr Scrogy and others, and sent to mee vnder their hands, I perceived all of the moneyes which I gave for mantaining of their Schoole Reader, to be in the hands of the baillies, and other their friends, which I then wished them to put out of their hands and invest them vpon land appropriated to their Φιλοσοφος if ever they desired me to doe any more for their scholes : since which time I never received lynne from them, though every yeare, if they had pleased, they might have conveyed their letters to Sommer Ilands, by the Deputy or any member of that society residing in London, who would have transmitted the same to mee. Having no further at present (but that the clear Sunshine of the Gospel begins to irradiate these western parts of the world, where it is like to sit, for which we daily bow the knees of our soulls vnto the father of the Lord Jesus Christ), I recommend you and the worke of the Lord in your owne and fellow-labourers hands to the blessing of the Almighty. I rest a weake yet faithful fellow-labourer in the worke of the Lords vineyard

If you send mee a few lynes (for which I promise thankfulness) you may convey them either to Mr Smyth dwelling in Middleburrow by some of your Townes Marchands that trade there ; or the safer and surer way is to convey yor letter to the Deputy of the Sommer Ilands Company residing at London, who will transmit them with the Companies letters in their box to their Governor and Council in Sommer Ilands by their Magazine ship that they send to vs everie yeare about November

NOTE ON THE PROFESSORSHIP OF DIVINITY.

The subsequent history of the Divinity Chair may be traced in the following minutes of the Town Council—

Dec. 21, 1625. Mr. Robert Baron, one of the Ministers of the burgh, is chosen first Professor of Divinity by the Council, under a contract (engrossed in the minute) in terms similar to those of the contract with Dr. William Johnston (supra, p. 143). Baron obliges himself "to teich and dytt tuo lessones ewerie weik to the studentis that shall repair to him and promisses be Godes grace to compleitt and perfytt the holie course in Divinitie in thrie yeires and how soone his first thrie yeires course shall haue ane end he fathfullie promisses in all tyme thairefter dureing his lyfetye to preache in the pulpites of the said burght anes everie weik". The Council undertake to pay him 700 merks Scots yearly, being the interest on 6000 merks (Copland's 4000; Chamberlain's 1000, infra, p. 182; and 1000 of accumulated interest), with the supplement required; and to furnish a free house "or in his optioun to giwe him ane hundreth merkes money yeirlie to furnish ane hous to himself within the said burght quhair he shall think most convenient; as also to caus lay in to him yeirlie within his dwelling hous ane chalder of coilles on the tounes charges": on the understanding that if any additional endowment come from Copland or others the interest thereof shall go to reduce the supplement to be paid by the town; and that, if Principal Patrick Dun die or demit office, the three hundred merks paid yearly out of the Common Good to augment his stipend (infra, p. 187), be diverted "to mak wp and compleit with the foirsaid sevin hundreth merkes ane full yeirlie stipend of ane thousand merkes and that ay and quhill the yeirlie annuelrent and proffeitt of the moneyes mortified and to be mortified to the said Divinitie profession amount to the said soume of ane thousand merkes quhilk being grown to that proportioun the said toun of Aberdene fra thyn furth to be frie of the payment of the said thrie hundreth merkes out of their common gude" (Town Council Register, li. 222).

- May 17, 1637. A sum of "contribute be the nichtbourses of this burgh for the distressit ministeris of the Palatinat" is "eikit and conioynit to the moneyes mortified by Mr Patrick Copland to the Divinitie Profession . . . becaus the foirsaid contribution takes no effect" (lii. 338).
- Aug. 14, 1644. Mr. James Wood, Minister of Dunnino, nominated Professor of Divinity and preacher in the College Kirk (liii. 5).
- Mar. 11, 1646. Mr. John Seaton, Minister at Kemnay,* nominated to the Profession of Divinity "now vacant be deceise of vmquhill Mr Robert Baron" (liii. 71). Baron had died in 1639.

Apparently neither of these nominations took effect, for

- June 6, 1649. The Council present Mr. John Menzies, one of the Ministers of the burgh, to the vacant chair (liii. 220).
- June 4, 1684. On his death, Dr. Patrick Sibbald, one of the burgh Ministers, is appointed Professor of Divinity and Minister of Greyfriars Kirk (lvii. 109).
- Dec. 22, 1697. Mr. James Osborne, one of the burgh Ministers, succeeds Sibbald, deceased, in both offices (lvii. 617).
- May 2, 1711. Mr. Thomas Blackwell, Minister of burgh, succeeds Osborne, deceased (lviii. 229). Blackwell was the only Professor not expelled in 1717, from which date he held the Principalship in conjunction with his chair.
- June 20, 1728. Mr. James Chalmers, Minister of burgh, succeeds Blackwell, deceased, as Professor and Minister of Greyfriars; not as Principal (lix. 428).
- May 25, 1745. Mr. Robert Pollock, Minister at Duddingston, succeeds Chalmers, deceased (lx. 200, 234). Becomes Principal in 1757.
- May 24, 1759. Mr. Alexander Gerard, Professor of Philosophy, succeeds Pollock, deceased, as Professor and Minister only (lxii. 250).
- June 26, 1771. Principal George Campbell succeeds Gerard, appointed Professor of Divinity in King's College (lxiii. 174, 183).

* Professor of Natural Philosophy circa 1629-41.

- Oct.* 18, 1794. Dr. Campbell offers to resign, if Council agree to elect one of three—Mr. David Cruden, Nigg; Mr. James Shirrefs, Aberdeen; Mr. James Fraser, Drumoak. They refuse (lxvii. 41).
- June* 13, 1795. Dr. Campbell resigns unconditionally (lxvii. 69).
- June* 15, 1795. Dr. W. Laurence Brown, late Minister of English Church at Utrecht, is appointed (lxvii. 70, 94). Becomes Principal in following year.
- Sept.* 7, 1827. Memorial to University Commissioners of Visitation anent provision of adequate salary for Professor of Divinity (lxxi. 215).
- Nov.* 30, 1830. On Dr. Brown's death, his son, Rev. Robert J. Brown, Professor of Greek, is appointed to discharge the duties of the chair for a session, receiving £125 from the Council (lxxii. 96, 97, 100).
- Sept.* 20, 22, 1831. Dr. Alexander Black, Minister at Tarves, appointed to the chair (lxxii. 123, 126).
- July* 17, 1843. Dr. Black resigns (lxxvi. 221).
- Oct.* 24, 27, 1843. Memorial to Government anent Endowment for Divinity chair (lxxvi. 243-4; lxxvii. 12).
- Dec.* 19, 1843. Mr. William Robinson Pirie, Minister of Dyce, is appointed to the vacant chair (lxxvii. 13, 18).

At the Union of the Universities in 1860, Mr. Pirie's chair became that of Divinity and Church History. This he demitted in 1877 on becoming Principal.

“To the right worshipful the Toune and Council of Abirdeen in Scotland : I pray send these by a sure hand “Right worshipfull, my dutie and love remembered to you all, I haue formerly written at large from Surat vnto you, and now am the briefer for that. I hope that letter yer this is come safely to yor hands. Dauid Chamberlaine that once lived in yor toune, and was brought vp in yor schole, being the surgeon of the royal James, is now with God, and to witnes the loue that hee did beare to the flourishing of yor scholes, hath left by his will for the mantainance of yor colledge 50 Jacobus pieces in gold. I haue sent home a copy of his will to his father, and written withall, both to him and Peter Chamberlaine his heyre, that they would, as they loved sone and friend being alive, so now manifest the same by fulfilling that wch he was so willing in his lifetime to haue performed. As for my selfe it is my lot to stay heir yet in the Country in the royall James, in wch I went out of England : our Commander, people, and ship stay, and how can I forsake them? The troubles between the Dutch and vs in these pts is the cause of the stay of all or forces ; what it will come vnto in the end, the Lord (who is only wise) knoweth : they haue begun wth the English in taking their ships, and abusing of their people in the Moluccos ; and now the company haue sent out another fleete with commission from his matie to right them of their wrongs. Wee haue had some bickerings wth them in the bay of Jackatro, and haue lost some men on both sides : they are fled for the Moluccos, and wee stay wth both or fleets in the straights of Sundy expecting their returne. If we once come to it againe, it is like wee shal haue a very bloody day : but howsoever, this is my comfort that I am in my calling, and my life is not deere vnto mee in respect of my ministry. Pray I beseech you that God would mantaine vs in or righteous cause, that his providence may be over vs, and his Angels about vs to keep and defend vs, that we may yet, if it be his good pleasure, be reserved for some service at home, aswel as abroad. The God of heaven direct vs in all or wayes, and blesse you in all yor godly affaires. Amen. Commend vs to all that love vs in Christ Jesus, specially to such as haue the spirit of prayer

From the original Charter in Mar. Coll. Charter Room ("Foundation Charters" No. 8). The deed is endorsed "Aberdene 20 May 1656. Productit be Mr William Moir and Minute taken and recordit in the buikes off Excheq<sup>r</sup> conforme to the Act thranent by me W. Purvis, Cls." A duplicate of this Charter is preserved in the Town House Charter Room ("College," C<sup>3</sup>. N<sup>o</sup> 1). In each case the seal has disappeared.*

* The infeftment took place on the 23rd of October in favour of Mr. Patrick Dun, Principal, and the other members of the College (Instrument of Sasine, Mar. Coll. Ch. Ch., Mass i. 27, recorded 19th November in John Mowat's Register of Sasines for the Sheriffdom of Aberdeen, Book iv., f. 300).

XXVIIIa.

William, Earl Marischal, ratifies the foundation by his late father of a Gymnasium in Aberdeen, and the mortification thereto of the properties of the Black and the White Friars, and of new grants the same for the same purposes, declaring a single sasine at the Black Friars Manse to be sufficient: To be held of him and his successors in pure alms for ever: The members of the Academia rendering therefor devout prayers, and fulfilling the duties assigned in the former foundation. The patronage of the principalship and [four] regencies is reserved to the Earls Marischal; and the lands formerly belonging to the chaplainries of Bervie and Cowie, and granted in the former foundation, are specially excepted from this grant; as are also all infeftments, &c., previously given by the granter on any portion of the properties conveyed, subject to challenge by the members of the Academia. The precept of sasine is addressed to William Gray, one of the Baillies of the burgh of Aberdeen. Signed and sealed at Fetteresso, 7th October, 1623, before witnesses, Mr. James Ord of Dumbreck, Mr. William Keith in Craigie the granter's servant, Thomas Crombie, Writer to the Signet, and Mr. James Farquharson, his servant.

—Smith's Oratio, p. 19.

"Ille Bibliothecam τῆ κατασκευῆ insignem Collegio Mareschallano dedit, dicavit: cùm quò locò res nostræ essent ignoraret" (a malignant statement altogether opposed to the express language of Dr. Reid's will). Andrew Strachan's "Ad Orationem habitam anno 1631 in auditorio Collegii Regii Aberdonensis Coronis," p. 37.

For details as to Reid's life and writings consult also Town Council Register, xl. 409, xli. 90, 415; Sir Robert Ayton's Epicidium in obitum Thomæ Rhædi in the Delitia Poetarum Scotorum, i. 51; Dempster's Historia Ecclesiastica Gentis Scotorum, Lib. xvi., p. 576 (Ed. of 1829); Blackwell's Account of the Erection of the Marischal College and University, 1736, p. 3; Wood's Fasti Oxonienses (Ed. of 1815), Vol. i., p. 394; Devon's Issues of the Exchequer, 1836, pp. 216, 255; Irving's Lives of Scottish Poets, 1804, Vol. i., p. 132; Dugald Stewart's Works of Thomas Reid, D.D. (Ed. of 1863), Vol. i., pp. 3, 35, 38.

Reid's arms were shown on the ceiling (supra, p. 118) as, Gules, a stag's head erased argent. The "broad" (p. 114) has a curious bearing, evidently intended to be, Quarterly 1 and 4 Gules; 2 and 3 Or, a fess gules; over all a stag's head erased argent, but the painter has placed the 2nd and 3rd quarters over the head, producing a result indescribable in heraldic language. The baronets of Barra bore a stag's head, as did Bishop Reid (of the family of Aikenhead), who in 1557 bequeathed 8000 merks to found a College within the burgh of Edinburgh, but the Secretary was one of the Reids of Pitfoddels, whose bearings were wholly different (Nisbet, i. 349; Stodart, ii. 129, 366).

* This Catalogue is extant in the University Library, bound up with another list of Reid's books classified according to size, and having every page signed by Principal Patrick Dun, the first librarian. Appended is an "Inventory of Bookes not comprehended in the Catalogue subscribed by the Defunct," holograph of Sir Robert Ayton, Reid's friend and panegyrist.

From a Document preserved in the Charter Room, Marischal College ("Librarian" No. 1), endorsed "Draught Mr Thomas Reid his latter Will in so far as concerns the Bibliothek in the Colledge of Abd. 1624".*

* The greater part of this extract is also entered in the "Buik of Register," where it is stated that Dr. Reid's will was registered in the Commissary Books of Aberdeen 4th March, 1625. See Note, p. 139. Some delay occurred in carrying out the intentions of the Testator.

Dec. 1, 1624.

"The Quhilk day, The Prouest Baillies and Councell haveand consideratioun that the soume of Sex thousand merkis money, left be vmq<sup>ll</sup> Mr Thomas Reid, secretar to

(Town Council Register, li. 143.)

It appears that the books had to be released from an arrestment executed by his Majesty's printer.

Town House Charter Room ("College") C<sup>2</sup>. No. 2 (see Relative Minute of same date, Town Council Register, lii. 45). The two next papers also refer to the relations between the town and their first public librarian, viz.:

C<sup>2</sup>. 3. Contract between the saids parties, proceeding on the narrative that this Mortification, as well as the Mortification to the kirk of Futtie, had been much reduced by Bankruptcies and by super expenditure, and therefore nominating the said Robert Downye to the Office of Catechist of Futtie, for discharge of which duty, in addition to the Office of Librarian, he shall be paid yearly 700 merks Scots—dated 3rd August, 1652.

C<sup>2</sup>. 4. Contract between the saids parties, deducting certain yearly sums for the foresaid salary, to make up the losses in the Library, occasioned by the Librarian's negligence, amounting to £389 Scots, and restoring him to his office, from which he had been dismissed for his negligence—dated 14th November, 1659. (See T. C. R. of same date, liv. 121.)

Robert Downy, Reid's nephew, was A.M. and Minister at Futtie. (See Irving's Lives of Scottish Writers, ii. 48, where he is erroneously styled Librarian of King's College; Maidment's Catalogues of Scottish Writers, 119; and Forbes' Funerals, Reprint of 1845, p. 401.)

On Downie's death the Council nominated David Gregorie* burgess, to the vacant

* This is David Gregorie of Kinnairdie, the ancestor of the senior line of Academic Gregories. Chalmers, in his General Biographical Dictionary (1812-17), Vol. xvi., p. 289, speaks of the Scottish Gregories, famed in mathematics and in medicine, as "this learned family which has given sixteen professors to British Universities". The story of the sixteen professors is reproduced in many later works, such as the current editions of the Encyclopædia Britannica, and Chambers's Encyclopædia; but I have failed to identify more than twelve.

Mr. Galton introduces the Gregories in his Hereditary Genius; indeed they furnish one of the strongest cases in support of his theory; but his genealogical tree of the family is neither complete nor accurate so far as it goes. In the appended table are indicated, after the names of the professors, the Universities where they taught, their subjects, and the dates of their incumbencies.

It will be seen that fourteen professors are included in this table, but the two whose names are italicised cannot, from their dates, be reckoned among Chalmers's sixteen. The late Sir Alexander Grant, in his Story of the University of Edinburgh, Vol. ii., p. 405, has thus curiously paraphrased Chalmers's statement:—"James Gregory [Professor 1776-1821] was the sixteenth professor that had sprung from the loins of David Gregory, Esq. of Kinnairdie".

It may be added that a sister of David Anderson of Finzeauch was mother of George Jamesone, the painter, whose daughter Mary married her second cousin, Professor James Gregory. The present male representative of this branch of the family is William Villeneuve Gregory, Major, R.A.; of the senior branch, descended from David Gregory of Kinnairdie the representative appears to be Silas Wright Gregory of San Francisco, a citizen of the United States. (Records of the Family of Gregory. By Philip Spencer Gregory, 1886.)

office, 4th November, 1663 (Town Council Register, liv. 484); and on 9th January, 1669 (T. C. R., lv. 158), Thomas Gray, son to the deceased Provost Gray, was appointed to succeed Gregorie. In these appointments the College seems to have acquiesced. But the Council having issued a Commission dated 22nd October, 1673 (T. C. R., lv. 526) in favour of William Alexander, student of divinity, the College refused to recognise their right of patronage, and on the 30th of the same month admitted Robert Paterson, one of the Regents, as Librarian. This action led to a protracted lawsuit before the Lords of Session. The Council maintained that a public library under their charge existed before the date of Reid's bequest and that "Mr James Ross sometyne minister in Abd did keep the saids books ane great pairt of his tyme and that in the upper roume of the sessione house of Abd and Mr David Wedderburne efter him (in anno Jmvi<sup>c</sup> and ten) in qch tyme thr wer not so much as ane shaddow of ane bibliothick in the colledge and the touns bibliothick wes kepped in the said kirk sessione house at ane great distance from the said colledge as is notar And herefter the same was kept by Mr Patrick Dune as will be proven by famous witnessis as the minister of Kintor, Mr Duncan Liddell and many other old men". [Information: Magistrates to Baillie Alexander, 1675. Town House Charter Room C<sup>2</sup>. No. 7.] On July 19th, 1674, Mr. Robert Reid of Birnes, minister at Banchorie (retoured heir to Secretary Reid, his grand-uncle, August 14th), "divolves assignes and dispones the said right of patronage off the said Bibliothicke off the foirsaid Colledge Marischall and presentatione of ane Bibliothecar therwnto . . . frae him and his foirsaidis to and in favoures off the said doctor James Leslie, principal, Mr Alexander Alexander, Mr Robert Patersone, Mr George Peacock, and Mr John Farquhar, regents of the said Colledge and their successors." [Condescence: recorded 13th February, 1675. Mar. Coll. Charter Room "Library," Nos. 6, 7, 8.] On June 29th, 1675, the Lords "finds and declares that the Principall and Regents of the College of New Aberdeen and Master of the New Grammar School of the said Burgh have by the foresaid Testament and Mortification and by the condescence and agreement past betwixt them and the said Mr Robert Reid in manner abovementioned, the sole and undoubted Right of Presentation of the Bibliothecar to the foresaid place, and that the said Mr Robert Paterson as being admitted and presented by them in manner foresaid has the sole and undoubted right to the said office hail profits and emoluments belonging thereto during his Lifetime. And therefore decerns and ordains the said Provost Baillies and Town Councill of Abd and the said Mr William Alexander as having right from them to desist and cease from troubling and molesting the said Mr Robert Paterson in the peaceable possession of the said office and uplifting the hail profits and emoluments thereof in all time coming And also the said Defenders and their successors to make payment to the said Pursuer of the said soume of six hundred merks yearly of salary." [Mar. Coll. Ch. Room "Library," No. 10.]

The salary seems to have been paid very irregularly. A Memorial in Mr. Paterson's hand dated 1707 [No. 13] contains an "Abstract of soums which have been taken and keptit from Secretary's Mortification and ought to be restored to it" showing a total of upwards of 13,500 pounds Scots. On 28th May, 1707, the Council agree to pay him during his lifetime the interest of 10,000 merks, on the understanding that at his death or demission no Librarian shal be appointed save at a salary of 100 merks, that the principal may accumulate to the sum of 10,000 merks. [T. C. Charter Room, C<sup>2</sup>. No. 8.]

* To the note of this bequest in "The Book of the Mortificationes of the Burgh of Aberdein" (Vol. i., p. 36) is appended the following in a different hand: "8th Octob. 1658. This Mortification in so far as concernes the colledge is satisfied to the colledge

"[Signed] Mr Wm Moir principall."

From the "Buik of Register" we learn the nature of the "satisfaction". "The tounne counsel gave ane bell to the college in content of this mortificaone in the yeir 1658."

* Although Sir Alexander Irving purchased the lands of Kinmuck and Richarcharie with the mortified money, yet it would seem that he took the titles to himself or his heirs simply, and not to himself and his heirs for behoof of the Bursars. He or his heirs consequently thought themselves at liberty to sell the lands, and they actually did sell the lands of Richarcharie to Mr. Farquharson of Invercauld. (College Minutes for 26th June, 1739, and 20th February, 1750.)

On the 26th of August, 1808, Mr. Irvine of Drum addressed the following letter to the Principal of Marischal College:—

“SIR,—I beg leave to address to you the following statement concerning the Bursaries of which I have the patronage. The sum of £10,000 Scots was mortified by Alexander Irvine of Drum in the year 1630, for maintenance of Bursaries at the Marischal College and Grammar School of Aberdeen, and was appointed by him to be offered to the Provost, Baillies, and Council, on the condition of their paying £1000, or 10 per cent., yearly to the Bursars. This being refused on the part of the town when offered by his son, and the Bursars having been afterwards generally paid by the family of Drum out of the rents of the lands of Kinmuck, these were supposed to be mortified, although it appears from the records of the Teind Office that in 1676, in a decreet of augmentation at the instance of the minister, when it was alleged that these lands being mortified could not be burdened, the Lords Commissioners found that the Laird of Drum did not de facto mortify them, and they were burdened accordingly. Two Divinity Bursaries of 200 merks each, making part of the above £1000, have not for a long time been paid; but as I do not wish to detain any part of the mortification, it is my intention to revive these a few years hence. On the other hand, I have to propose that I be relieved from any future claim in the event of a rise of the rents of Kinmuck. The Bursars receive at present the free rent of the lands. In 1816 I will be enabled to make up to them £1000, or £83 6s. 8d. sterling, instead of about £57 which they have hitherto been paid. The practice has been to take grassums or fines, without raising the yearly rent. I wish not to continue to do so beyond the term of my present obligations. As the town of Aberdeen refused the money when offered, and both they and the College have an interest in the payment of the Bursaries, I expect that both will, after the payments are made up to £1000 Scots yearly, relieve me from any claim in the lands of Kinmuck.

“[Signed] ALEXR. IRVINE.”

(See College Minutes for Sept. 27, 1808, and Dec. 31, 1813. Also in Mar. Coll. Charter Chest “Bursaries”: Memorial by College for opinion of counsel, Oct., 1814. Opinion of counsel thereupon, Nov. 18, 1815.)

No further action was taken at that time; and from a return made by Mr. Irvine to the Universities Commission of 1836-7 (Second Report, App., p. 256) it appears that of the rental of Kinmuck for 1832 only £83 6s. 8d. went to bursars, the remaining £287 13s. 2d. being “applied to the private purposes of the proprietor”. The Arts bursars received each his hundred pounds Scots (£8 6s. 8d.), the Divinity bursars each his 200 merks (£11 2s. 2½d.), as originally destined.

But by a decision of the House of Lords, of 26th March, 1868, ending a protracted lawsuit, the lands of Kinmuck and others, subject to the deed of mortification of 12th April, 1656, are vested in the University of Aberdeen as trustees and administrators for the purposes of the foundation, and shall be held by the said University in trust always for the use and behoof of the bursars in the University and School of Aberdeen, as aftermentioned: the Lairds of Drum, defenders in the action, to have the right of presentation to all the bursaries. The Court of Session, to which it was remitted to draw up a scheme of administration, fixed, 19th July, 1869, the numbers of bursars and the amounts payable to them as under:

Grammar School	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	eight at	£20
University, Arts	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	eight at	£40
Do., Divinity	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	-	four at	£75

Recently, from diminishing rental, the amounts have, under authority of the Court, been somewhat reduced.

*William Guild mortifies to the town a house in the Broad Gate for an entrance to Marischal College. 11th March, 1633.**

OMNIBUS hanc cartam visuris vel auditoris MAGISTER GULIELMUS GUILD Minister verbi Dei in Ecclesia Burgi de Aberden hereditarius proprietarius Terræ Anterioris inferius bondatæ Æternam * "Inter summos Academiae Marischallanae Euergetas, collocandus est D. GULIELMUS GUILDUS S. S. T. D. hac in Urbe Natus, et in Academia hac institutus: Vir à teneris annis Sacris Studiis totus deditus: Qui postquam Ecclesiae de Kingedward curam, singulari cum pietate, multos per annos tenuisset, à Senatu Abredonensi, ad Evangelium praedicandum vocatus; postea S. Theologiae Doctor creatus, et CAROLO I. Britanniarum Monarchae, a Sacris constitutus; tandemque ad Gymnasiarchae, in Collegio Regio Abredonensi, dignitatem erectus: In quibus omnibus muniis, universas officii sui partes, ad stuporem est exequutus. Hic divitiis, honore, doctrinâ et omnigena virtute coruscans, de Republica Literaria, et Religione, scriptis et vitâ, deque Civitate hac et Academia, insolitâ Munificentia optime meruit; amplumque Patrimonium piis erogavit usibus.

"Hic enim rarae Pietatis Vir, domum propriis sumptibus comparavit, et eâdem dirutâ, Academiae nostri Propylaeum, antea humile et indecorum, de novo extruxit, magnificentum et pulcherrimum reddidit, COMITISQUE MARISCHALLI insignibus gentilitiis, affabre admodum excisis, aere proprio ornavit.

"Idem etiam Fanum Franciscanorum (à Gavino Dumbaro Episcopo Abredonensi, extractum) maximis impensis reparavit, fenestrasque, numerosas admodum, vitris instruxit: ALEXANDRO STUARTO Abredonensi, meridionalem tantum ejusdem partem specularibus ornante. Sed jam eheu! spreta jacet Pietas, et omnium fere Charitas refrixit! Nec ullus est, qui ferreo hoc saeculo, sanctissimi GULIELMI pietatem imitari, et Templum hoc jam penè collapsum de novo adornando, sibi perennem nominis celebritatem comparare, aut curet, aut cupiat.

"In multis etiam aliis, pietatem suam testatus GULIELMUS, nam amplos admodum reditus, Tribus Artificum Filiis, Philosophiae studiosis; Pauperibus etiam et Orphanis educandis et alendis, et senio confectis Artificibus sustentandis, consecravit; et Palatium, quod olim fuerat GULIELMI SCOTORUM Regis, emit, instauravit et cum Templo, hortisque Artificibus Abredonensibus donavit: Denique aedes Collegii S. Leonardi, Andreapoli denuò aedificandas, curavit, copiosamque suam Bibliothecam Universitati Andreae legavit.

"Religiosissimi hujus Viri reconditam eruditionem, intaminatam sanctimoniam, et eximiam pietatem, praedicabunt et in aeternum celebrabunt, Doctorum chori, Academicorum, Civium et Artificum cœtus; GULIELMI Fama erit immortalis, et vivet post funera Virtus." Smith's Oratio, p. 21.

XXXIVa.

Abstract of foregoing Charter.

Mr. William Guild, Minister of the Word of God in the church of Aberdeen, from his love to that city, the place of his birth and education, and from his desire to furnish a suitable entrance to the New College, grants to the provost, baillies, &c., his land on the East of the Broadgate between the land of the late John Barbour (now of Patrick Barbour his son) on the South, the land of the heirs of the late Henry Petrie on the North, the Greyfriars Church on the East, and the King's Highway on the West.
To be held from the granter, of the King, in fee and heritage and free burgage for ever; the provost, &c., rendering therefor burgage service used and wont.
Signed and sealed at Aberdeen, 11th March, 1633, before witnesses: Baillie Vedast Lowson, ex-Baillie Andrew Meldrum, Walter Robertson, Town Clerk,
John Ingram, Town Clerk depute, Patrick Smith, and Mr. George Robertson, Notaries.

* With the Charter are tied up the Instrument of Sasine following thereon dated 9th April, 1663 (see also Burgh Sasine Register, Vol. xxxviii., p. 214b), and eleven prior writs relating to the same land dated 1567 to 1623.

*Dr. Alexander Reid mortifies to the Provost and Baillies the sum of one hundred and ten pounds sterling for Bursaries. 4th October, 1633.**

Nov. 6, 1633.

The Quhilk day In presens of the Prouest Baillies and Counsall Compeirit Robert Skeyne Thesaurar and produceit ane missive letter direct to the saidis Prouest and Baillies be Mr Alexander Reid * "ALEXANDER cum Fratre [Thoma] de Meritis et Gloria certâsse videtur: Quum in Patriæ Scholis, maximos fecisset in literis progressus Hippocrati nomen dedit, et propter uberiorem ingenii culturam, ad exteros se contulit, ubi majorem in Medicina doctrinam et peritiam, quam illa ferebant tempora, adeptus est, ut doctissima ipsius opera, Anatomica, Chirurgica, &c., testantur.

"Inter Medicos Londinenses, sui temporis Primus habitus, splendide vixit, immensas congegessit opes, et stupenda reliquit Pietatis suae monumenta: Nam praeter numerosas et amplissimas, Cognatis, amicis, et familiaribus, factas Legationes; Banchorii, ubi prima eruditionis elementa cum vita accepit, Scholam liberam aperiendam, annum Ecclesiastæ redditum augendum, Bibliothecam instaurandam, et Ptochodochium extruendum curavit: Collegii Regii Bibliothecam restituit; et Pauperum Beneficia, sumptibus non modicis auxit: Bibliothecam Academiae Marischallanae, ab ipsius Fratre instructam, optima præstantissimorum librorum, præcipue Theologicorum et Philosophicorum, pro temporum ratione collectione ditavit; Magnetem Magni pretii cum appensa Anchora, Globum Terrestrem, et aenea quaedam Instrumenta Mathematica donavit: Duobus praeterea Academiae nostra, Alumnis, ducentas libras Anglicanas erogavit: Et denique quadringentas libras Anglicanas duas nempe Collegio Regio totidemque Marischallano, et Literarum Humaniorum Professoribus legavit: Sed temporum injuria et gravissimæ, quibus debitorum morte et fraude implicita fuit, difficultates, donationem hanc hucusque frustraneam reddidere: Nam irrita sæpe fiunt, et sperato excidunt successu, vel optimè ab hominibus instituta.

"Audiists [sic] igitur, A. A. O. O. Nobilium horum Fratrurn, in Nos egregia Merita, breviter, licet imperfecte exposita, quæ si minùs ore exprimere, animo tamen admirari jurabit: Dignas equidem pro tanta Munificentia rependere grates, non opis est nostræ; sed ad RÆDORUM memoriam et famam, in æternum exultabit hæc Academia, et Illorum laudes per terrarum orbem indefessa celebrabit: Et "Quamvis in gelido, requiescant membra sepulchro, Fama tamen semper, non moritura manet".

masterships, enjoining the holders "to do what lyes in their power for the well of the College Marischal within the Burgh of Aberdein, and to prefer the same to all the Colleges in giving councell to their schollares to be brought up in the foresaid College Marischal". (Charters, &c., of Burgh of Aberdeen.)

* "Upon Friday, the 27th of September [1639], on the nicht, the eist quarter of Colledge Marshall suddantlie took fyre (none knowing the manner how). The people gatheris, but culd not get it quenshit, whill it burnt to nocht. Aluaies, it was shortlie biggit up agane, yit takin for an visitatioun fra God." (Spalding's Troubles, i. 231.)

The most particular account of this occurrence is given by Parson Gordon:—"This summer [1639], the Highlands and north wer reasonable qwyyett, little nor nothing falling out ther considerable, except the fyre that kindled the Marischall Colledge of new Aberdeen accidentally, by neglect of servants. This fell out September twenty seventh, and was not tackne notice of, it fying in the night time, till a barke, lying in the roade, gave allarum to the citzizens, whoise mariners came ashore, and, together with the calme night (for it was extremly calme), were very helpfull for to qwensh that flamme before a qwarter of the aedifice was burnt; which was all the losse, except of some few bookes either embeasled or purloynd, or, by the trepidatione of the crowding multitude, throwne into a deepe well which stands in the colledge yard (or courte); which bookes the magistrattes of the citty had givne order to carrye out of the librarye, which was next to the burning, and, had it once takne fyre, would have defaced the best library that ever the north pairtes of Scotland saw." (History of Scots Affairs, iii. 88.)

An incidental result of this fire is noted in the Council Minutes for 8th December following:—"The same day ordaines Alexander Jaffray deane of gild to send with the first occasion to Ingland or Holland for threttie lether buckettis for the Tounes use, and what he debursis thairon to be allowit to him in his comptis." (T. C. R., lii. 514.)

On 23rd November, 1642, the Council "gives and grants the soume of four hundreth merks money for supplie of the work of the colledge of this burgh and to help to repair the same". (T. C. R., lii. 771.)

The oldest extant College accounts are those "of the renewing of the College after it was brunt at Michelmas 1639 and renewit in the yeir 1642".

The disbursements, amounting in all to 1970 lib. 18s. 8d., and extending from 2nd March to 15th October, 1642, are given at length in the same volume. The workmen are named: their wages usually £3 Scots "ane ouk"; barrowmen £2.

The Mr. William Moir who gives 400 merks succeeded Dr. William Johnston in the Mathematical Chair in 1641, and Dr. Patrick Dun in the principalship in 1649. He is thus described (Smith's Oratio, p. 26):—

"Sine piaculo praeterire nequeo, M. GULIELMUM MORUM, inter summa Academiae Marischallanae decora numerandum. Hic enim eximius fuit literarum cultor, tantosquo in studiis Mathematicis fecit progressus; ut postquam Praetoris in Civitate hac officio aliquamdiu functus fuisset, ad celeberrimi Johnstoni cathedram; et postea ad Gymnasiarchae dignitatem evectus sit: Hic non tantum optimi Moderatoris, et doctissimi Professoris partes, maximis cum Academiae incrementis, fidelissime sustinuit; sed et Aedibus Academicis reparandis, quadringentas mercas erogavit."

Moir's portrait hangs in the College Hall. His arms appeared on the Heraldic Ceiling as, Azure, three moor's heads coupé proper.

fermorer payit of old 2 bolls bear but now only § 08 00 00

* From the inclusion of Sir Thomas Crombie's endowment (infra, p. 248) it would seem that this rental must be of a date somewhat later than 1640.

† See pp. 6, 92, 102, 103. On this croft, afterwards called Caberstone croft—bounded by the Denburn, the Schoolhill, the tenements along the west side of the Backwynd, and the lane joining the Backwynd and the Denburn—the streets called Belmont Street and Little Belmont Street have been built. The ground was feued in 1765- to different feuars for a total feuduty of 42 bolls, 3 f. 2 p. bear, and £68 9s. 6d., with £1 13s. 4d. of teind. In 1772 the College purchased from the town part of a house in the Backwynd as an entry to Little Belmont Street (£72 12s. 6d.); and in 1774 a ruinous tenement opposite Gordon's Hospital as an entry to Belmont Street (£13 os. 6d.)

‡ See pp. 13, 97, 102, 103. This croft, lying in the angle between the Denburn and the south side of the Windmillbrae, was feued in 1790- , to various parties, for a total feuduty of 61 bolls, 2 f. 1½ p. bear and £114 6s. 11d.

§ See pp. 5, 92. Feued in 1807 for 9 bolls 2 pecks and £16 9s. 7½d. to Shipmaster Society parts described as—

2. Also along W. side of King Street, bounded on E. by said street, on N. by said land of Wrights and Coopers, on W. by canal, on S. by land of said Society.

3. Lying E. of building areas on E. side of King Street, bounded by said areas on W., land of said Society on N., by on E., and by lands of Wrights and Coopers on S.

4. Do., do., bounded by said areas on W., by foresaid ground of said trade on N., Gallowhill road on E., land of said Society on S.

Feued to New Street Trustees in 1809 a portion of two rigs necessary for King Street 60 feet in breadth gratis, and 50 feet in breadth along east side of same for building areas, for feuduty of 12s. 6d.

Feued in 1809 for 3 bolls, 3 firlots, 2 pecks and £7 2s. 3d., a part described as measuring 2 roods and 26 falls, being the part lying westward of the canal of the Rigg of land belonging to said College, bounded on the S. by lands of the Wrights and Coopers, on the W. by the road from North Street to Mounthooly, on the N. by lands of the Shipmaster Society, and on the E. by the canal.

Feued in 1813 for 1 boll 3 f. 1 p. and £3 7s. 4½d., a part described as measuring one rood three falls, bounded on E. by canal, on S. by land of , on W. by road from North Street to Mounthooly, on N. by land of Wrights and Coopers.

* See p. 93. Feued, 1782- , for 4 bolls, 0 f. 1¼ p. and £7 8s.

† See pp. 18, 101, 107. The superiority of Arduine, value £1 sterling, was sold in 1813 for £100, and the price lent for behoof of the Locality funds.

* See pp. 7, 100. Feued to the Magistrates in 1732 for building Gordon's Hospital on. Rent 20 bolls bear, with a grassum of £30. As this was the first (save one, v. p. 76) alienation of the original College property and expressly contrary to the Foundation Charter, the Act of Faculty of Nov. 29 takes care to show that the rent obtained is considerably more than any land had hitherto let for near Aberdeen. In the Feu-charter (17th March) the croft is defined as "lying within the Schoolhill of the Burgh of Aberdeen towards the Woolmanhill thereof contigue adjacent to the said Blackfriars Manse and Yard presently belonging to the Master of Mortifications of Aberdeen as Manager of the said Jean Guild's Mortification: betwixt the foresaid Manse and Yard formerly of the Blackfriars now belonging to the said Jean Guild's Mortification at the East, the King's Common High Street leading from the Schoolhill to the Woolmanhill and the houses feued out by the Town of Aberdeen near Lochermick's houses at the South and West parts, and the Lochlands belonging to Alexander and George Forbese of Lochermick, merchants in Aberdeen, at the south part".

† See pp. 16, 93, 105. This was the painter's daughter: see tack to her in Mar. Coll. Ch. Ch., xii. 69. The Carmelites' Garden was feued in 1794 for the construction of Carmelite Street, for a feuduty of 13½ bolls bear and £16 13s. 4d., to be afterwards increased to 23½ bolls bear and £30. In the Feu-charter of 20th January, 1794, the ground is described as bounded "on the East by the heirs of Alexander Smith, late merchant in Aberdeen; on the North by the Green and Fishery; on the West by Brand's Wynd and Rannie's Lane to the north-west extremity of James Mackie's feu, then by the north and east of said feu along the march till it join the lane called Wapping Street; and on the South by the public road from the extremity of the foresaid lane leading towards the Trinity till the same join the boundary of the land belonging to the heirs of the said Alexander Smith".

On the Heraldic Ceiling the same arms were assigned to William Johnston as to John Johnston (supra, p. 114). Two "broads" commemorate the former, one showing his arms as Argent, a saltire sable, on a chief [gules] three cushions or, in base a flower [tulip?] gules, stalked and leaved vert; the other with the same bearings impaled in a lozenge with those of his wife, viz., Azure, three bear's heads coupéd argent muzzled gules, a rose of the last for difference. In a portrait of Johnston which hangs in Marischal College Hall a red flower [carnation?] is introduced above the right ear.

The lands of Murtle were purchased by the Master of Mortifications for behoof of this fund in 1758, and were feued in the following year. At the Union of the Universities in 1860 the Accounts stood thus:—

	Balce 1859.	Revenue.	Expendre	Balce 1860.	Stock.
" 17. Sir Thomas Crombie's to the Principal and Four Teaching Professors of Marischal College		61 15 5	61 15 5		1490 3 1
18. Sir Thomas Crombie's to Eight Bursars	13 19 4	88 6 0	88 8 8	13 6 8	2508 19 10"
					— Burgh Accounts , 1859-60.

Under the Provisional Order of 1881, the Crombie bursaries are in future to be eight in number of £15 each per annum.

The money destined to augment the salary of the minister of the Grey Friars' Kirk formed part of the sum invested in the lands of Torry (supra, p. 141).

The king, being disposed to apply part of the revenues of the abolished bishoprics and benefices towards the maintenance of universities and colleges, has appointed commissioners to enquire into the present state of the University of Old Aberdeen and the King's College thereof, and of the College of New Aberdeen called Marischal College, who report that a yearly grant of £500 sterling is requisite for the support of these colleges. The king therefore unites the Colleges of Old and New Aberdeen into one University, to be called in all time to come King Charles' University of Aberdeen; and mortifies thereto, in the proportion of two-thirds to the old college and one-third to the new, all the revenues of the late bishopric of Aberdeen, viz.: the feu mails, feu fermes, cains, customs, and other rents and duties of the lands and barony of Aberdeen, and of the lands and baronies of Murthill, Fetterneir, Clett, Tillienessell, Daviot, Raine, and Birss, in Aberdeenshire, and of Fordyce and Mortlach in Banffshire, and of the acres of Old Aberdeen, and of other lands, houses, &c., belonging to the bishopric; the feu mails, feu duties and other duties of the salmon fishings on Dee and mainlie ffrom the flourishing of wniversities and colledges as þe seminaries of both Qlk cannot be expected vnles þe poore meanes qlk they have be helped and sufficient revenues be provydit for them and the same weill employed Thairfoire that out of the rents of prelacies collegiate or chapter kirkes or siclyk a sufficient maintenance be provydit for a competent number of professors Teachers and bursars In all faculties especiallie in divinitie and for wpholding repairing and inlairging þe fabrik of the colledges furnishing of libraries and siclyk good vses in everie wniversitie and colledge “NIXT for keeping of good order preveining and removeing of abusses and promoteing of pietie and learning It is very neidfull and expedient that there be a communioun and correspondence keipit betuixt all the wniversities and colledges And thairfoire that it be ordained that þr be a meiting ones everie yeire at sic tymes and places as salbe agriet wpon of commissioneris from everie wniversitie and colledge To consult and determine wpon þr commone effaires and qtsoever may concerne þm for þe end abowe specifit and wha also or some of thair number may represent what salbe neidfull and expedient for þe same effect to parliats and generall assemblies.

“ITEM that speciall cair be had that þe places of þe professors especially of divinity in everie wniversitie and colledge be filled wþ þe ablest men and best affected to þe reformatione and order of this kirk.”

Don ; the parsonage and vicarage teinds of the kirks of St. Machar and St. Nicholas and other kirks belonging to the bishopric ; the teinds of the salmon and other fishings in Dee and Don, or elsewhere, belonging to the bishopric ; and all other items of the temporality or spirituality of the same : with power to the Principals, Professors, &c., or their common factor, to intronit with the foresaids in the usual manner, and to give tacks of teinds previously on tack, for tack duties not less than valued teinds : With directions to value teinds hitherto unvalued, and to pay stipends to the ministers of parish kirks from the teinds of their own parishes : The foresaids to be distributed among the several masters, &c., of the said University and Colleges thereof, in the proportion assigned above. And because the College of Old Aberdeen is in need of repair, and has no sufficient library, one-third of its share (with all vacant stipends in the College, except that of the Humanist) to be applied for these purposes till the College be fully restored and furnished with a competent library. All under reservation to Mr. James Sandilands, Commissar of Aberdeen, of £2253 Scots, to be paid to him from the readiest feu mails, &c., of crops 1641 and 1642—the burden to be divided in above proportion between the two colleges. All to be subject to terms of Act of Exchequer thereanent of date 15th Jan., 1642. Dated at Holyroodhouse, 8th November, 1641 ; and written to the Seal on 18th February following.

* John Forbes appears to have held office for several years; but in 1661 he is Humanist at King's College. In Session 1660-61 George Whyte is Humanist at Marischal College. Thereafter the office seems to have again fallen into abeyance until in 1826 a lecturer on Humanity was appointed by the Faculty.

* "Under an authority from the Court of Session, obtained in 1884, the Trades disposed of the Bursars House and other property which had been subsequently purchased in the same locality, and the money is now otherwise invested.

"For the first hundred years or so the rents or maills of the houses thus bequeathed were fully required to support the stipulated number of bursars. About 1710, however, there seems to have been a scarcity of bursars, and as the bursaries were then paid in the shape of fees direct to the professors, these gentlemen, not unnaturally, took steps to have the terms of the will duly carried out. In 1710 the principal and professors of Marischal College raised an action in the Court of Session against the Master of Trades Hospital, Deacon-Convener, and Deacons of the Crafts, to have it declared that in terms of Dr. Guild's Mortification they shall present and maintain three bursars at the College, and pay the fees of the bursars at the rate of 20 merks Scots each yearly to the professors of the College; that in the event of no craftsmen's sons in the town of Aberdeen being found qualified to enter the College, then to declare that the Master of Hospital, Convener, and Deacons be bound to find duly qualified bursars from some other part of Scotland, and have them presented; and also to ordain them to count and reckon for the rents of the property mortified for the period up to the raising of the action. The professors maintained that in case of a bursar giving up his presentation before his time was finished, the Trades were bound at once to fill up the vacancy by presenting a craftsman's son; and in case of their being unable to find a tradesman's son qualified for the presentation, then the patrons were obliged 'to present any poor boy that is qualified and unable to maintain himself,' a bond being taken from them or some of their friends binding them to refund the amount of the benefit got by them from the mortification.

"The case having been duly heard, the Lords of Session found that the mortifier (Dr. Guild) determined no preference as to the persons to be presented bursars, but allowed the Master of Hospital, Convener, and Trades of Aberdeen to prefer the craftsmen's sons within the town of Aberdeen to be bursars in the first place, when they can be found qualified; and failing them they must present any other craftsmen's sons in Scotland. They also decided that there must be three bursars always presented. They refused the claims of the professors for 20 merks for each of the bursars, but ordained the craftsmen to fill up the vacancies at once, in terms of the Mortification. The Trades were also ordained to produce their books and count and reckon for the rents of the Bursars' House during the period when bursars were not presented.

"After this date the fund seems to have prospered considerably. In 1837 the managers prepared a report for a Royal Commission, in which they state that 'the whole funds are not distributed, though the whole free income might be so if there should be claimants entitled to it. A certain fixed sum, above the average of college bursaries, has been set apart for each bursar for these many years, and since 1825 no applicant has been denied or refused a bursary. The balance of income, if any, after paying bursaries has been employed at current interest to form a fund for rebuilding the property, and that by authority of the managers. It may be proper to state here, however, that in addition to the bursaries enjoyed by tradesmen's sons, the managers have been in the way of giving premiums for merit to bursars, varying in value from one to five pounds, and that such has been included as part of the annual expenditure.'

"From a table prepared a few years ago by the present writer, it appears that since 1858 £3350 has been paid in bursaries. At present the value of bursaries is £25, tenable for four years, and should a student qualify at the bursary competition to take one of the college bursaries he gets as an addition to his Trades bursary a sum equal to one-half of the bursary he proves himself able to take. Thus a student qualifying for, say, a £20 bursary would receive in all £35 as his Trades bursary. The stock of the fund, which has been carefully nursed for a number of years, considerable sums having been lent out of the other funds for the purchase of additional property without any interest being charged, now amounts to over £5000." The lands of Miltoun and Southfield of Murthill were feued in 1797—articles of roup dated 5th August.

Down to the year 1723 the minister and elders of King Edward applied the 18 bolls destined to their care to the maintenance of bursars, but at that date they elected in future to apply the same for behoof of the poor of the parish. Against this charge the Town Council, as patrons, protested, but ineffectually. (Petition to Lords of Council and Session by Magistrates and Masters of College against Minister and Kirk Session of King Edward, 23rd January, 1724.)

The lands of Ardfork and Kilblain, held in wadset, were redeemed in 1717 by payment to the Town Council of £5333 6s. 8d. Scots. The Commissioners of Visitation of 1836-37 complain (Second Report, p. xvi.) that "none of the bursars derive any benefit from the sum recovered in 1717, or from the sum mortified to yield a money bursary to a divinity student. On the whole, the Returns made to us by the Town Council relative to this mortification are very incomplete and unsatisfactory."

At the union of the Universities in 1860, the account stood thus:—

	Balce 1859.	Revenue.	Expendre.	Balce 1860.	Stock.
" 21. Catherine Rolland's, to four bursars at Ma- rischal College and Grammar School, and to widows of decayed burgesses and poor of Aberdeen	37 14 5	285 17 0	295 9 5	28 2 0	7921 11 1"

—Burgh Accounts, 1859-60.

Under the Provisional Order of 1881, the Rolland bursaries are in future to be—four of £25 per annum in the faculty of Arts, and one of £15 in the faculty of Divinity.

The Scots Parliament rescind and annul all Acts of the Pretended Parliaments in the years 1640, -1, -4, -5, -6, -7, -8. 28th March, 1661.

The Estates of Parliament considering that the peace and happines of this Kingdome and of his Maiesties good subjects therin doth depend vpon the safety of his Maiesties persone and the maintenance of his royall Authority power and greatnesse . . . And Although the late Kings Maiestie out of his meer grace and respects to this his Native Kingdome and the peace and quyet of his people and for preventing the consequences which such a bad example and practise might occasion to the disturbance of the peace of his other Kingdomes Was pleased in the yeer 1641 to come into this Cuntrie and by his oune presence at thair pretended Parlia<sup>ts</sup> and otherwayes to comply with and give way to many things neerly concerneing the vndoubted interest and prerogative of the Croun expecting that such vnparalleled condiscentions should have made his subjects ashamed of their former miscariages and the verie thoughts thairof to be hatefull to them and their posterity for ever Yet such was the prevalency of the spirite of rebellion that raged in many for the tyme that not content of that peace and happines which even above their desires wes secured vnto them . . . They did assume vnto themselves the Royall power kept and held Parliaments at their pleasure . . .

Thairfor the Kings Maiestie and estates of Parliament Doe heirby Rescind and Añull the pretendit Parliaments kept in the years 1640 1641 1644 1645 1646 1647 and 1648 and all acts and deids past and done in them And declare the same to be henceforth voyd and null

From The Acts of the Parliaments of Scotland, Vol. vii. (1820), p. 86, cap. 126.*

* Under the Rescissory Act fell, among others, the Act of 17th November, 1641 (v. p. 253), ratifying the union of King's and Marischal Colleges as King Charles' University. The separate existence of Marischal College had been recognised by the Act of 20th March, 1661 (see also Acts, vii., p. 405, cap. 22; and p. 379, cap. 13), and that of King's College was implied in an Act "in favours of the City and Vniversity of Old Aberdeen" of 20th May in the same year (Acts, vii., p. 214, cap. 230), and fully admitted in another Act of 22nd August, 1670 (Acts, viii., p. 26, cap. 34); but the style Universitas Carolina is found in official use so late as 1714 (Theses Philosophicæ Quas A.P.D.O.M. ingenui aliquot Adolescentes Laureæ Magisterialis Candidati in Celeberrimo Collegio Marischallano Universitatis Carolinæ Abredenensis ad diem 22 Aprilis publicè propugnabunt. Abred., 1714); and in 1740 Dr. Samuel Patrick, Master of the Charter House, uses it in a Latin letter of thanks for the degree of LL.D.

all claims on the sums bequeathed by Melvill. The earliest entry relative to the Mortification occurs in the College Procuratory Accounts for 1682-3, where it appears that a bursar, Alexander Ritchie, was paid £20 18s. 8d. The College seems to have received at different times sums amounting to about £211 sterling. Till the year 1764 there were on the foundation occasionally three bursars, sometimes two, but more frequently only one; who received different amounts, the funds being often unproductive, and being recovered with difficulty from the hands in which they were placed. The stock was expended in 1740- , partly on new buildings, partly in liquidating debts contracted in connection with these. It hence came, in common with the stocks of certain other bursaries under College management (Adam's, Davidson's, Denoon's, Forbes', Galloway's, Garden's, Ramsay's, and Smith's), to be considered as vested in what was known as the Burse Fund, the interest being made up partly by rents received for College properties, partly by a share of the Bishops' rents. In 1764 the stock, together with such portions of interest as had not been paid in bursaries, amounted to about £305, the annual interest on which, at 4½ per cent., was divided into three bursaries; later into two. By Ordinance No. 31 (Aberdeen No. 11) of the University Commissioners of 1858, the sum of £15 shall in future be paid annually to one bursar on behalf of this Mortification.

From the original Deed in the Town House Charter Room (Bundle 1690-99): registered in the Baillie Court, 7th September, 1699, on which day also Sasine was granted and recorded. Burgh Register of Sasines, lii., f. 293.*

* Dr. Adam died 2nd June, 1699; and his last will and testament, dated 27th May, was confirmed in the Commissary Court on 25th July following (Extract in Mar. Coll. Ch. Room, "Bursaries," xviii. 1).

It would seem that the claims of the Colleges were not allowed to pass unchallenged. No. 5 in "Bursaries," xviii., is a transcript of what purports to be a Disposition executed by Dr. Adam on 22nd August, 1695, conveying his crofts and rigs to his brothers George and Andrew Adams, and revoking "ane gratuitus dispositione to the Colledges and hospitals of old and new Aberdeen" which he had been "imposed upon in prejudice of my own brothers to make for peace saik". No. 11 is a Decreet of Reduction and Declarator by the Lords of Council and Session, on an action "The Queen's [sic] and Mariscall Colledges agt Irvine and others," dated 4th June, 1708. From this it appears that George Adam, described as advocate in Aberdeen, and brother to Alexander Adam, had, after the latter's death, produced a bond for 4000 merks alleged to have been granted, 19th September, 1682, by the said Alexander Adam (therein designed "residenter and preacher of the Gospel in the kingdom of England") to ex-Baillie Walter Robertson (brother-in-law to said George Adam); and an assignation of the bond to Mr. James Irvine, Sheriff Clerk of Kincardine (son-in-law to Robertson). In the pursuer's pleadings it is asserted that George Adam, the writer of the bond, "is a man pessimæ fidei and was actually depryved from being a procurator befor the Commissars of Aberdein for severall acts of forgery"; and that the witnesses "are two poor fellows who were scarce worth the King's unlaw, Paull Rankine being a Sheriff officer who would have subscribed anything for a sixpence, and it can be proven that the other witnes, Andrew Adam cordiner could never wryte". The Lords "fand the bond abovementioned null and not probative". (See also mass of papers relative to this Mortification in King's College Charter Room, Old Shuttle xxxvii., Nos. 13 and 14.)

In 1724, the College feued "the croft and rig of land and pertinents mortified to the said University by the deceasit Dr. Adam" to Patrick Duff of Premnay, for a feuduty of £80 Scots. The croft is described in the feu charter as "lying near the Theifs bridges within the territories of the Burgh of Aberdeen presently possessed by Robert Sandieson horsehirer having the road that leads from Justice port to the Links and mouth of the water of Don at the West; the croft belonging to the said College possessed by Alexander Fraser, George Robertson, and William Scott, at the North; the croft belonging to Gilbert Moir towards the East and South parts or thereby: with the Rig of land also possessed by the said Robert Sandieson lying betwixt the said Road and the stank of Futtiesmyre, having the lands of the said Gilbert Moir at the South, and one croft belonging to the Trades of Aberdeen at the North: together with that piece of ground belonging to the said Croft, where there was formerly a little Barn and small yard which is now all ruined and in decay lying at the North side of the Burgh of Aberdeen, betwixt the barn of Alexander Forbes of Lochermick and the barn and cornyard of —".

The amount of £6 13s. 4d. sterling still appears in the University Rentals as "Feu Duty of Adam's Croft". It is subject to a payment of £1 2s. 2½d. to the Trades Hospital. The account was incorporated with the Burse Fund (supra, p. 326); and the balance was divided into two bursaries until 1799, when these were united into one. The Commissioners of Visitation of 1858 conjoined the Adam and Davidson (infra, under date 1706) bursaries into one of £10 per annum (Ordinance No. 36, Aberdeen No. 16).

King William, referring to the signature of 28th February, 1693,* and considering the desirability of apportioning the previous grant among the four Universities, and of cancelling the provisions anent professors from abroad and bursars, grants to the University of Aberdeen £300 sterling yearly from the bishops' rents: £40 for the maintenance of two bursars in Divinity, and the balance at first for payment of the debts of the University, and afterwards £100 towards the support of a second Professor of Theology, and £160 for the maintenance of eight bursars in Divinity. The patronage of the professorship and bursaries is reserved to the Crown: the bursars are to be selected annually, not later than 10th October, from a list to be transmitted before August 1st by the faculty, of six students who have completed their course and graduated in one of the Scottish Universities: such professors and bursars to be of good morals and well affected to the State; and the endowments to run from Pentecost, 1694. The Lords of the Treasury and the collectors of the bishops' rents are empowered to make payments to the factors of the University, whose receipts shall be sufficient for the said collectors. Sealed at Kensington, 29th April, 1695.

NOTE ON COLLEGE BUILDINGS OF 1682-1712.

In 1682, the buildings of the Greyfriars monastery having become ruinous and unsuitable, the principal (Robert Paterson, v. supra, p. 118) and professors resolved to attempt the erection of a new edifice—a great labour which they accomplished imperfectly; but considering the difficulties, the wonder is that they did so much. The Accounts of the period are full of entries of the various expenditures and of records of benefactors; for, there being no funds for the purpose, the whole was accomplished by voluntary aid. The receipts for the thirty years during which the Charge and Discharge of the “New Work” form distinct items in the annual accounts appear to have reached a total of about 18,000 pounds Scots. “My Lord Marischall” gives £200, the Rector, the Principal, the Regents, the gentlemen of Aberdeenshire and of the neighbouring counties, all contributed liberally. In addition to the vacant stipends granted by Parliament in 1685, 1695, 1696, and 1698, the College got 1200 pounds Scots from the Convention of Royal Burghs. On July 5-9, 1698, the Commissioners sat at Aberdeen, and were entertained by the principal and masters, who presented a petition, printed as a broad-sheet by John Forbes,* “which petition being read, heard, and considered by the conventione,

“To the RIGHT HONOURABLE, the LORD Præses and remanent Commissioners from the Royall
Burrow's of SCOTLAND, assembled at ABERDEEN.

The Petition of the Principall and Masters of the Marischall Colledge,

Humbly Sheweth,

THAT while our Town and Country are happy in enjoying the presence of so many wise and eminent Persons, pitch'd upon for their Merit, to settle the best measures for advancing the Honour and Interest of the Royall-Burrows of this Kingdom, to whose Conduct and Activity, the flourishing of this Nation, the Advancement of Arts and Sciences, and the thriveing of Schools and Colleges, is next to GOD and our Great KING, chiefly to be ascribed: We take the confidence humbly to represent, that the Edifice of our Colledge, having from its first founding after the Reformation continued mean and incapable to lodge our Students, or allow Conveniency for our publick Commencements; We, press'd with the daily Disadvantages of so small a Building, were forc'd to set about an Addition, which by the favour of Heaven, and charitable Contributions of pious Persons, without any other stock, We have considerably advanc'd. But our funds being now near exhausted, We humbly intreat, that this Honourable Council, in whose hands the management of the great Stock of the Nation is lodged, would be pleas'd to commiserat the state of our Fabrick, which for want of Money is like to be ruin'd before it can be perfected, and to appoint some seasonable and charitable supply for completeing so necessar and usefull a work, that as the greatest projects and best designs of the Nation receive Life and encouragement from the Royal Burrows, so this Town and Colledge may ow the perfecting and finishing this New Work to their Charity. And as the Bounty of the Royal-Burrows, shall be most thankfully Received and honestly employ'd; and the memory of it made as lasting as the Society upon which it is conferr'd; so We shall insert they, for encouragment of soe usefull and necessarie a work, appoints the agent to pay to the principall and masters of the said college the sowme of ane hundreth pounds sterling to be applyed in the termes of the petitione and upon performance of the conditions thereof, Whereanent thir presents with ther receipt upon the back thereof, shall be a Warrant for alloweing the said Sowme in the agents accompt." (Extracts from the Records of the Convention of the Royal Burghs of Scotland, 1677-1711. Edinburgh, 1880, p. 267.)

In the agent's accounts of disbursements from July, 1698, to July, 1699, occurs the entry:—

"Item, to the Marshall Colledge of Aberdeen as per act and receipt                    £1200 0 0"

The Town Council do not seem to have contributed to the General Fund, the following entry, relative to a grant for a special purpose, being the only one in the Minutes during the period:—

21st September, 1694.

"The said day the counsell haveing considered ane petitione given in to them be the principall and Regents of the Colledge Marishall of the said burgh desyreing ane contributione for leadeing the observatorie in the new work of the said Colledge for the vse of the master of mathematicks in the said colledge As also haveing taken the advyce of the bretheren of gild publictly conveend for that effect who all consented that the counsell of the said burgh should grant ane contributione to the forsaid work out of the gild wyne monys They therfor apointe the present dean of gild of the said burgh to pay out of the gild wyne monys the soume of fyve hundreth marks scots money to the procurator of the said Colledge to be employed for leadeing the forsaid observatorie alenarly and for noe vther vse and ordains the dean of gild to see the same bestowed and Employed as said is"

In 1695 the Incorporated Trades granted 50 merks annually for three years:—

Not the least interesting feature of these "Accounts of the New Work" is the proof they afford of the intimate relations then subsisting between Aberdeen and the Baltic ports. The following entries may be cited:—

THAT the Edifice of our Colledge having, from its first founding after the Reformation from Popery, continued mean and incapable to lodge our Students, or allow conveniency for our publick Solemnities; We being pressed with the daily Disadvantages of so small and incommodious a Building, were forced to begin a New-Work, which by the favour of Heaven and charitable Contributions of pious Persons we have now near compleated: and is so spacious, stately and convenient, that its no less an Ornament to the City, then an Advantage to the Colledge. And as this Work hath been much advanced, and in a great measure carried on by the Charity of our worthy Country-Men in Dantzick, Konnings-berg, Elbing, and other Forreign Parts (all whose Memories shall ever be honoured by Us, and some of Whom for their great Liberality have Chambers appointed in the said New-work for their Name and Friends) and our money being now exhausted, in order to the perfecting and furnishing of the Fabrick, we are under a Necessity of having Recourse to the Piety of Those of Our Country-Men who have not had Opportunity to extend their Charity for so good a Work. And therefore have Recommended to Our trusty and good Friend Mr. James Robertson Merchant, (whose love to Religion and Learning, and kyndness to this TOWN and Colledge have Encouraged Us to offer Him this Trouble) that He may present this Our Address to all Those who are true Lovers of their Country, and wish the Advancement of Religion, and Inceass of Learning; And that he or any intrusted by him may receive from them what Contributions they shall be pleased to allow for the finishing of our New-Work; and as We shall never be wanting to offer up our Prayers for the Prosperity of our Benefactors; so we shal duely Record the Names of all Those who are pleased to allow Us any Assistance in Our Publick Registers, and by the Monuments of Our Gratitude render the Memory of their Charity as lasting as the Society on which it is bestowed. "Many of the applications, however, are afterwards characterised as having been 'expensive and unsuccessful'.

"The money obtained was expended in purchasing trees, stones, sand, and lime: there were no contractors or estimates. Every voucher, even the most trifling, has been preserved, and a great economy seems to have been practised. But the miserable state of roads, masons and carpenters in that age made everything expensive in the end.

"The interior finishings were long postponed. The Hall in particular lay for many years without windows; several of these were erected and adorned by the graduates at leaving College, as appears from various entries in the Album, and from the names painted on the wainscot. The names of other benefactors to the buildings are still visible on tablets in the pannels of the Vestibule of the Hall [destroyed in 1840].

"In estimating the expense of the building it is nearly impossible, from the accounts, to discriminate it from the numerous repairs. Thus keys innumerable to the Tertian, Bajan Schools, &c.; bands and locks for them nearly as often. 'A lock to the Bilboe;' 'a lock to the penitential chamber'; 'a new key to the fornicators chamber':

"Then the endless annual entries about the lodgings: 'boxbeds'; 'dails' without end; tables 'brocken be that damnable custome of Chalking the schooles be the students of the first and third classes'; 'glassen windoes brocken be ane other custome of bracking windoes at their removall'.

to the Professor of Theology in the "Academia" of old Aberdeen, and to a new Professor of Oriental Languages thereby constituted in the University of Aberdeen, the sum allotted in the grant of 1695 to a Second Professor of Theology in the said University); and considering that the University of Aberdeen consists of two colleges (Academiae), between which disputes have arisen as to the division of the grant of £300 sterling: Declares that the old College shall receive £200 (£26 13s. 4d. for bursars, £66 13s. 4d. for the Professor of Oriental Languages, £33 6s. 8d. as supplement for the Professor of Theology, £73 6s. 8d. to pay debts and for other uses), and the new College £100 (£13 6s. 8d. for bursars, £25 for the principal, £8 6s. 8d. for each of the four regents, £28 6s. 8d. for debts and miscellaneous purposes). The division to apply to past payments, and to remain unaltered in the future. The shares of the Colleges to be paid and acknowledged separately. Sealed at Kensington, 30th November, 1699. *

* The disputes referred to culminated in counter actions before the Lords of Session. A printed "INFORMATION for the New Colledge of Aberdeen, Against the Old Colledge," preserved in the Mar. Coll. Ch. Room ("Government Grants," No. 5a), gives an interesting glimpse of the relations between the Colleges.

"INFORMATION For the New Colledge of Aberdeen, Against the Old Colledge.

"The Masters of the Old Colledge of Aberdeen having Intented a Declarator against the New Colledge, to hear and see the 300 lib. lately gifted by His Majesty to the University of Aberdeen, divided and proportioned betwixt the two Colledges, in manner contained in their Declarator; The New Colledge hath also Raised a Counter Declarator on the same Subject.

"And the Cause coming to be Debated before the Lord Halcraft Ordinary, for ordering of this contraverted division. It was alledged for the Old Colledge, First, That the 40 lib. Sterling appointed in the first place, for the mantainance of two Bursars was indeed to come off the Capital, and these two Bursars being one in each Colledge; this 40 lib. did equally divide betwixt them, to which the New Colledge agreed.

"But 2. As to the Application made in the next place by the Gift, for the Payment of the Debts of the University; The Old Colledge pretended that they were the Kings Colledge, and in effect, properly the University; And that therefore the appointment that the King had made of 1200 Merks yearly to the Professor of the Oriental Language, and of 600 Merks of Additional Provision to the Professor of Divinity, should come off the Capital, and the remainder be applied for their Debts in the first place, and then if there were any surplus to the other Bursars mentioned in the Gift, conform to the order thereof.

"To which it was Answered for the New Colledge, that the pretences of the Old Colledge were most groundless, and that it was truly strange, how rational and just men should give themselves, and their Neighbours such a needless trouble.

"For First, it is very certain that the Old Colledge was founded by Bishop Elphinstoun in the fifteenth Century, & the New Colledge by Earl Marshal in the sixteenth, with this only difference, that the Old Colledge getting first the Kings ratification, was called the Kings Colledge, and the New Colledge, Marishalls Colledge, purely for distinction. But that they were both reputed parts of the University of Aberdeen, was never denied. Likeas 2. When King Charles the First in anno 1641, thought fit to Dot the Bishop of Aberdeens Rents to that University, the Patent distinguishing the two Colledges, Erects them expressly in one University; but because the Old Colledge had eight Masters, and the New Colledge only five, the Patent declares that the Donative made to the University, should in all time coming, divide two parts to the Old Colledge, and a third to the New; And so indeed it hath been since observed, with this only advantage to the New Colledge, that when there was an Augmentation granted to the University out of the Vacant Stipends by the Parliament 1672: The two Colledges did by Contract agree, that it should divide eight parts to the Old Colledge, and five to the New, according to the Respective number of their Professors; And when the same Gift of 300 lib. Sterling was first given by His Majesty to the University: There is an Express agreement among the Masters of both Colledges, that it should divide two parts to the Old Colledge, and a third to the New Colledge. And farther, when other incident Gifts and Mortifications came to be made to the University, as by Captain Ross, they were de facto divided by the foresaid Rule of two Parts and third, so that as to the division of any thing common to both, this Rule of two parts and third is established by the Patent 1641, and after Contracts, Agreements and Practice beyond contradiction.

“It hath been mutered by the Old Colledge, that the Masters are but Administrators, and that the Colledge having the privilege of a Minor, cannot be lesed, but this pretence is too gross to be made by the same Masters, who first agreed to the foresaid Rule, and now would have it reversed: Besides that, the Rule is founded in clear Reason, and in His Majesty’s patent, and hath been acknowledged now above these fifty years, so that there is no place to Reclaim.

“But the Old Colledge insist mainly that the 1200 Merks, appointed to the Professor of the Oriental Languages, with the 600 Merks of Additional provision to the Professor of Divinity, should be first deduced from the Capital, and then the remainder applyed as above.

“To which it is Answered for the New Colledge, that the alleadgance is wholly groundless, in as much as the Rule being first established of two part and third as to all common Donations: It is evident, that the 300 lib. Sterling, excepting 40 lib. thereof to two Bursars must divide accordingly, and that this division ought first to be made, and then the Application is to follow by the two Colledges, to their Respective uses, whereupon it follows of consequence, that the Professor of the Oriental Languages being expressly established to be a Member of the Old Colledge, and the Additional provision being made to the Professor there, both these might be a Burden upon the two thirds of the Old Colledge, and cannot at all affect the third that belongs to the New; And this Reason is farther confirmed:

“Because it is undeniable, that if His Majesty should add a new Professor of any Science to be a Member of the New Colledge, this Burden would necessarily affect their third; Likeas de facto when after the 1650 a Professor of Humanity was appointed in the new Colledge, he became the Proper burden of the third part Rents that then belonged to the Masters of the New Colledge: Wherefore then should the Masters of the Old Colledge decline the same parity of Reason, or what can be more just, then that as Professors are appointed, or Provisions augmented in either Colledge, there should be the burden of their respective Fonds. But farther if it were needfull, the New Colledge would make it appear by the Lord Secretaries and others, that it was His Majesties Intention, that the Professor of the Languages, and the foresaid additional Provision should only burden the two thirds of the Old Colledge where these Provisions were made, and not affect the third of the New Colledge :

“But the old Colledge would further have the remainder of the Gift to be applied for payment of their Debts in the first place, sed quo jure, since this were in effect to swallow up the Kings Bountie intended for the New Colledge.

“The Old Colledge alledge that the Kings Gift is for payment of the Debts of the University, and that they are the Kings Colledge, and in effect the University. But 1 Thir Shadows are already discussed, in as much as both Colledges make but one University; And that the New Colledge is really as much the Kings Colledge as the Old, save that for distinctions sake the Names were otherways ordered as said is.

“And therefore it is without question, that when the King appointed the said Fond for payment of the Debts of the University, it was for Payment of the Debts of both the Colledges, of which the University consists, and that out of the Fond appointed to them after the foresaid known Rule of Division, unless the Old Colledge will grant, which is indeed more rational then what they now pretend to, that the Debts of both Colledges should be paid equally out of this Fond thereto ordained.

“The Old Colledge came at length to this pretence, that the New Colledge hath no Debt, and that at least their Debt is much greater. But first the new Colledge hath Debt, and if they had less than the Old Colledge, it is purely their better Management, and if in effect the Old Colledge had managed well their Debt had been less then that of the New Colledge. But 2. Setting these questions aside, the New Colledge contend, that whatever is given to the University without Distinction should first divide according to the established rule of two part and third, and then should be applied by either Colledge for payment of their respective Professors and Debt, which rule is so fair and advantaious to the Old Colledge, that it is a wonder how they should Reclaim against such manifest Reason and the Kings express determination and their own Contracts and Agreements confirmed by allowed Practice.

“It was alledged by the Old Colledge, first, that the 300 lib. was appointed to the University, and therefore its Burdens must deduce off the Capital; But this is already cleared, viz. that the 300 lib. being commonly gifted betwixt them, must first be divided two part and third, and then applied to their respective Burdens.

“2. It is objected, that by the first Gift a hundred pound of the three was to be given to a Professor of Divinity to be nominat by his Majesty to the University, which certainly had been a Deduction off the Capital in the first place, and therefore the same 100 lib. being given to the Professor of the Languages, and for an additional Provision as said is, must deduce of the Capital in the same manner.

“To which it is answered, that if the first project of a Forraign Professor had held, its very like he had been a common Professor to both Colledges, and so must have been a common Burden: But since that project did not hold, the 300 lib. in the first place, did necessarily divide two parts and a third; And then since His Majesty hath appointed the Professor of Languages in the Old Colledges, and Augments the Professor of Divinity there, it necessarily follows, that they should be Burdens upon their two thirds and the Masters of the New Colledge do freely acknowledge, that if either Sallarie or Augmentation had been appointed within their Colledge, they would have judged it a Burden upon their third part without any Dispute. The Old Colledge alledges, that tho' the Professor of the Oriental Languages, be appointed in the said Colledge, yet it is for the Service of

LXXXI.

Alexander Galloway, by his testament, bequeaths to the Principall and Regents the sum of one thousand pounds Scots for the maintenance of a bursar. 17th February, 1700.

Alex<sup>r</sup> Galloway Elder Thesaurer in Aberdein Mortified to the Marishall College in Aberdein a thousand pounds Scots for maintenance of a Bursar in the following Terms by his Mortification contained in his Testament dated at Ab̄d the 17th day of Febr'y 1700 years. 'I ordain my foresaids to pay within year and day to the Principall and Regents of the Marishall Colledge of Ab̄d the Sum of Ane Thousand pounds Scots money, and the Rent therof to be bestowed upon a poor and worthy good Schollar who has neither means nor friends to plead for him, only his Learning; And this rent to be given to this poor Schollar for Six years, if he study Divinity. And that Alex<sup>r</sup> Forbes my son in law have a voice with the Masters of the said College and Professor of Divinity.' May the 28th 1707. The Principall and Regents signed and delivered to the said Alex<sup>r</sup> Forbes a Paper declaring it was thair Opinion, That in acknowledgement of their obligations to the Representatives and memory of the said Alex<sup>r</sup> Galloway the nearest of Kin of the said Alex<sup>r</sup> Galloway As also of his daughter and her husband the said Alex<sup>r</sup> Forbes of Ludquharn should be pre-both. But the Distinction is vain, For 1. The Professor of Divinity, and the Professor of Mathematicks within the New Colledge serve for the use of both, and yet they are only a Burden upon the Rents of the New Colledge. But 2. It is groundless to notice, for what use any Professor serves, since the only Rule is where he is established; And therefore since their Establishments are made in the Old Colledge, they must be their Burden as is above confirmed both by Reason and the KING's declared Intention."

According to the Commissioners of Visitation of 1836-7 (Second Report, p. v.), "It appears that the two Theological Bursars, who have the first claim on the fund, do not receive the full sum allotted to them. They are entitled to receive £40 in all, of which King's College were bound to bear two-thirds, or £26 13s. 4d. But in place of that sum, the Bursars receive no more out of the proportion of the £300 effeiring to King's College than £6 13s. 4d. The consequence is, that although it appears from the Returns made by Marischal College that Marischal College pays their full third of the £40, or £13 6s. 8d., the two Divinity Bursars receive annually only £20 between them, being not more than one-half of what they are entitled to under the grants above mentioned."

The balance of £28 6s. 8d. has always been regarded as part of the "Burse Fund".

The Synod of Aberdeen grant a sum of 1000 merks Scots from the vacant stipend of the Profession of Divinity in King's College for the formation of a Divinity Library in Marischal College. 4th April, 1700.

At Aberdeen eodem die hora quarta Post Merid. Sessio Sexta After prayer and Rolls called Sederunt Master James Osburn Moderator &c

Inter alia It being represented by the Moderator that the Students of Divinity by the good Providence of the Lord are much encreased in number beyond what they have been these severall years bygone But that their profiting in their Studies is much retarded thro the want of fit and apposite Books These in the University Libraries not being very usefull for the Business of such as apply themselves to the study of Divinity As also that by the fundamentall Charter of the Profession of Divinity in the King's Colledge it is expressly provided that the yearly Rents of the said Profession (during the time that the samen shall hap'n to be vacant) shall be uplifted by the Moderator of the Presbytery of Aberdeen and the Minister of Old Machar for the time being who are to be accountable to the Synod for the same And therefor proposed to the Synod whether some Pairt of the said Rents might not be disposed of for buying Books and setting up a Theologicall Librarie for the use and Benefitte of the Students forsaïd

The Synod taking the said Proposall into their serious Consideration Found that the Rents of the said Profession have been vacant for the Crops and Years J<sup>m</sup>vj<sup>c</sup> and ninetie eight and J<sup>m</sup>vj<sup>c</sup> and ninety nine Also found that the Erecting a Theologicall Library payment of 50 merks appears in the Accounts. In Session 1754-55 this annual payment was increased:—

charge, this bursary having been vacant since Whits. 1746 and by that means having accresced from 50 merks to £50 Scots yearly 4 3 4” —Discharge of Session 1754-55.

This sum continued to be paid annually to a bursar until the Commissioners of 1858 (Ordinance No. 37, Aberdeen No. 17) united the Galloway foundation to that of Margaret Gairden (infra, under date 1738). The Galloway and Gairden Bursary is stated in the current [1889-90] Calendar of the University of Aberdeen to be of the annual value of £9.

In 1736 the Masters of King's College raised an action against Marischal College before the Lords of Session, seeking to have it declared—1st, That they, the King's College, are one of the four Universities of Scotland; 2nd, That the Marischal College is no University; 3rd, That consequently the King's College alone is entitled to receive the Stationers Hall books. The summons bears that Marischal College had obtained books by calling for them in London. This is virtually admitted in An Account of the Erection of the Marischal College and University in the City of Aberdeen [By Principal Blackwell, 1736],* but it is contended—1st, That "Marischal College and University, being equally the University of Aberdeen with the Old College (Primogeniture being here of no Validity) at the Time the Act Svo Annae passed," is "equally entitled to receive and keep the Books thereby granted to the said University"; or, "by vertue of the unrepealed Union, in consequence of which the two Colleges still act conjunctly in many Cases, the Right of the Marischal College" is "equal in that respect to the said Books". 2nd, "As being situated in the large and flourishing city of Aberdeen,† to which great Numbers of Gentlemen of Birth and Fortune daily resort, and of consequence as being the most noted University, and that design'd and intended by the Legislature under the Title of the University of Aberdeen," the Marischal College has, "both in respect of private Right and public Utility, a preferable Claim to any other".

Marischal College had thus much more at stake than the loss of the books, and she naturally, therefore, appealed against Lord Ordinary Murkle's interlocutor of 20th December, 1737, "That the University and King's College of Old Aberdeen are intitled to a Copy of each Book, lodged in the Stationers Hall, for the Use of the four Universities in Scotland, in Terms of the Act of Parliament libelled on, and that the Marischal College in New Aberdeen have no Title thereto, in Virtue of the said Act, and to decern accordingly".

Blackwell wishes the Officers of State to be summoned in the interest of the Crown, as the patron of the College. He defends his views in long letters contributed to the Caledonian Mercury, Edinburgh, and the Daily Journal, London.

On a reclaiming petition being presented to the Inner House on behalf of Marischal College, the Lords finally decided, 1st July, 1738, "That the King's College of Aberdeen have right to the Custody of such Books as shall have been lodged in Stationers Hall for the University of Aberdeen, conform to the grant in the Act of Parliament the eight of Queen Anne lybelled on, and that the said Books ought to be lodged in the publick library of the said King's College for the use of both Colleges".

The pleadings are lengthy, but have much interest in their bearing upon the relations of the two Colleges. They should be read in connection with those in the Catanach case of 1743-44, supra, p. 71 (Summons by King's Coll. ; Defences for Mar. Coll. ; Reclaiming Petition of Mar. Coll. ; Answers for King's Coll.).

The Act 41 Geo. III., cap. 107 (2nd July, 1801), extended the privilege to the Libraries of Trinity College and the King's Inn, Dublin; and 54 Geo. III., cap. 156 (29th July, 1814), repealed the provision compelling printers to deliver the eleven copies at Stationers Hall, enjoining instead the Warehouse Keeper to demand production thereof within twelve months of publication. The rights of the Scottish Universities, of Sion College, and of the King's Inn were bought up by Parliament in 1836 (6 and 7 Will. IV., cap. 110—infra).

*Gilbert Burnet, Bishop of Salisbury, by a codicil to his last will and testament, bequeaths an annuity of one thousand merks Scots for the maintenance of four students in Arts and two in Divinity. 24th October, 1711.**

Whereas, by my Will, I have settled a Method for raising two and twenty hundred and two and twenty Pounds three Shillings six Pence, which is in Scottish money forty thousand Merks, it is my Will and Pleasure, that when the said Sum is raised, in the Method that I have prescribed, an Account of it shall be sent to my Nephew Mr Gilbert Burnet Advocate, that he may transact for a legal and secure Way of settling the one half of the said Sum, in or near the Parish of Saltoun, upon an Infetment of Annualrent, for the due Payment of one thousand Merks yearly, at the Feast and Term of Martinmas; and of settling the other half of the said Sum, in like Manner, in or near the Town and College of New Aberdeen, with such Forfeitures, in case of not paying the yearly Sums of one thousand Merks to the Parish of Saltoun and the College of New Aberdeen, as according to the Laws of Scotland can be made; and, for his Trouble and Expence in doing this, I leave him fifty Pounds: All this is provided, in case that I do not in my Lifetime accomplish my Design in settling these two Endowments. . . . As for the Universities, was made conditional upon the Managers subscribing an Oath "that the whole of the said Edition of the Book so printed is printed for the Use and Behoof of the Universities respectively". This change was the outcome of an inquiry made in consequence of complaints by English booksellers that the Classics, &c., printed by the Scottish University printers (notably at Glasgow) were not bona fide for the benefit of learning, but were intended to undersell English Editions. The paper duties were finally repealed in 1861.

* Gilbert Burnet, born 18th September, 1643, entered Marischal College in October, 1652, his autograph appearing in the list of "Primarii" admitted in that month. He studied there for one session under John Forbes, Humanist, and for four sessions under Alexander Whyte, Regent; and graduated in 1657, in company with James Gregory, the inventor of the reflecting telescope (supra, p. 203), and thirteen others.

The Bishop ever showed an active interest in the College, and was a frequent donor to the Library. In 1683 he sent his History of the Reformation. His son presented the History of his own Times, which was published posthumously.

The University of Aberdeen possesses two portraits of the Bishop. Regarding one there is an entry in the Mar. Coll. Accounts of 1723:—

"To Mr McIlvine for Bishop Burnet's picture done for the College £69 6"

The other was presented by the late Mr. John Farley Leith, M.P.

thousand Merks which I gave for ever to the College of New Aberdeen, in remembrance of my Education there, I order the Lairds of Lyes, as long as that Estate is in the Family of Burnets, to have every year a Scholar for the first Class of that College, to whom one hundred and fifty Merks a Year shall be paid for the four Years Stay in the Colledge, and Two hundred Merks for two Year after that, he continuing in the Study of Divinity; and the next to be nominated a Scholar, shall have the said One hundred and fifty Merks only during the four Years of his being at the College; but the third, who shall be nominated to be a Scholar, shall have the former Provision for the two Years of Divinity, which the fourth shall not have. Thus, when all are full, a thousand Merks a Year will answer for four Scholars and two Students of Divinity; but since these are to be gradually filled, I appoint the Overplus of the thousand Merks for every Year, till the whole Number is filled up (which will amount to Two thousand seven hundred Merks) to be applied to the raising a Building of six Chambers for the Conveniency of the Scholars; all this I recommend to the Laird of Lyes, to execute this, with the consent of the Principal of the said College, and the Provost of the said Town. The Principal and Regents shall have the Examination of the Scholars so nominated, with a Power to refuse them; So that only fit Persons may enjoy the Benefit of this Endowment, and if any Laird in Lyes shall take any Reward for any such Nomination, or detain any Part of the Provision made for such Scholars, then the said Nomination shall be for ever lodged with the Provost and Baillies of New Aberdeen for one Turn, and the Principal and Regents of the College for the next Turn, which I appoint also shall take Place, in case the Lairdship of Lyes shall go out of the Name and Family of Burnet. As I do also desire, that to the said Scholarships one of the Name of Burnet may be preferred, if he is duely qualified for it. This I sign and join with my Will.

From an excerpt embodied in a private Act of Parliament, 22nd Geo. II., cap. 62 (1749), "for applying part of the personal estate of Gilbert late Lord Bishop of Salisbury for the purchasing of Lands or Rents in Perpetuity in Scotland, to be settled to several charitable uses and purposes in his Will mentioned".*

* The Bishop died 17th March, 1714<sup>5</sup>. In the body of his will he had directed that the amount of the mortifications should be provided by his "worthy friend" John Warner from an annuity of £99, Lottery Annuities, belonging to the testator; but there was much trouble and correspondence about the bequest. By the Act quoted from, it was provided that the successors of the said John Warner should realise £2222 4s. 6d. from the destined funds (which had considerably increased), to be conveyed for the purposes of the mortification to such Trustees as the Lords of Session should direct; and that the parties interested could, before 25th March, 1754, prosecute a claim for the surplus. Accordingly, in August, 1750, the Patron, the Principal of Mar. Coll., and the Provost of Aberdeen, as trustees (under warrant of the Court, dated 27th July), sign a receipt for the sum of £1111 2s. 3d. For the surplus, as several of the Bishop's heirs were infants, it was found necessary to file an amicable bill in Chancery. On this, judgment was not given until September, 1765, when an order was issued for payment to the College of a further sum of £276 10s. 1d.; and this was received by the Trustees in the following year. The College and the parish of Saltoun shared the expenses of the suits.

In the Mar. Coll. Ch. Room ("Bursaries," xxxv. 2) are eighty letters, &c. (1741-66), from Judge Burnet, the Bishop's son, Sir Andrew Mitchell, Lord Advocate, the College Agents in Edinburgh, and others; together with statements of the funds and printed papers in law suits.

The Commissioners of Visitation of 1826-30 report that on 15th June, 1827, the Stock, amounting to £1350, was secured on a heritable bond for £1300, and on a bill for £50. A balance of £10 7s. 9½d. was due to the Factor, and the income for the preceding year was £57 12s. 6d. (Evidence, Vol. iv., p. 279).

The Commissioners of 1836-7 report a Stock of £1389 12s. 8d., the accumulations since 1825 amounting to £18 9s. "Nearly the whole interest is paid yearly to four Bursars in Arts and two Bursars in Divinity" (Second Report, p. xiv.).

The Commissioners of 1876 report a total Capital of £1500 lent in bond; four Arts Bursaries of £9 10s. each, and two Divinity Bursars of £11 10s. (Report, Vol. iv., pp. 251, 278, 309). "These Bursaries," according to the current Calendar (1889-90), "are meantime, at the desire of the Patron, awarded by competition."

Aberdeen the said fifth day of May J<sup>m</sup>vij<sup>c</sup> and twentie six years at five of the clock afternoon, In presence of the Commissioners of Supply of the Shire of Aberdeen after named viz<sup>t</sup>—Sir Alexander Reid of Barra, Mr Duff of Premnay, Meldrum, Powes, Hatton, Grandholm, Dalhakie, Kinneller, Provost Fordyce, Mr George Gordon of Ranyshill, Grantsfeild.

* Cf. xxiv. 3: "Information for Joseph Dünbar of Grange, Defender; against the Marishal College of Aberdeen, Pursuers, June 26, 1749". The process before the Lords of Session at the instance of the College against Joseph, son of Ludovick Dunbar of Grange, for recovery of the sum mortified, began on 21st December, 1743. Repeated interlocutors were pronounced in 1744, 1745, 1747, 1748, and reclaiming petitions presented. In 1753 the process was "wakened," and Mr. Dunbar agreed to compromise by paying the principal sum and £24 sterling of expenses. In the following year a bursary of £2 15s. 6½d. was established. In 1758 the capital was applied to pay off a debt of 1000 merks due to the fund for supporting Ministers' Widows of the Synod of Aberdeen; and the interest was thenceforward made a charge on the Burse Fund. The bursary was not interfered with by the Commissioners of 1858, and remains in the patronage of the Presbyteries of Tain and Dornoch.

Thereafter there was a Petition given in by Doctor M'Kaill in name of the Principall and Masters of the Marishall Colledge of Aberdeen representing their design of improvement of solid and usefull learning by setting on foot a course of experimentall philosophy and gave in printed proposalls for that effect and creaving the Commissioners would grant such encouragement as their wisdome and generosity should think proper which being considered by the saids Commissioners they approve of the good design of the Colledge in what is proposed by them And for encouraging so good and usefull a work as far as may be they appoint the Collector of Supply to pay to Doctor M'Kaill and M' Vernar for accompt of the Marishall Colledge whatever ballance remains in his hands of the Incidents imposed on the Shire preceeding this date As also the ballance in his hands of the Fyne imposed upon                    Gray Servant to Auchorthies in haill not exceeding Nine pound Sterling and declairs that D<sup>r</sup> M'Kaills and M<sup>r</sup> Vernars receipt shall be sufficient exoneration to the Collector for the same

Sept. 27, 1726.

The Said Day There was presented to the Counsell by the Provost Proposeals for setting on foot a Compleat Cours of Experimentall Philosophy in the Marischall Colledge of Aberdeen which Proposals sett furth That the Principall and Masters of the said Colledge by reason of the meanness of their Funds could not propose of themselves To purchase a Compleat Sett of Instruments for carrying on the said work But that they behooved to have recourse to all Lovers of Learning for their Encouragement in promoting so necessary and pleasant part of Learning All which being considered be the said Magistrats and Counsell And They believing the said design may be of use to the Inhabitants of this Burgh and their Posterity And therefore They appoint the Dean of Gild To pay out of the Gild wyne Charge the sum of twenty one pound Sterling money To be applied in the terms of the above Proposals And to pay in the same to Mr Thomas Blackwell Principall of the said

Colledge he haveing Commission from the rest of the members of the said Colledge for that effect

From the Town Council Register, lix. 297.*

* A copy of the "Proposeals" is preserved in the Mar. Coll. Ch. Room, "Philosophical Apparatus," No. 1. It is in these terms:—

"PROPOSALS for setting on Foot a Compleat Course of Experimental Philosophy in the Marishal College of Aberdeen.

"BECAUSE the Principal and Masters of the said College, by reason of the Meanness of their Funds, cannot propose By Themselves to purchase a Compleat Sett of Instruments; They must have recourse to all Noblemen, Gentlemen and Lovers of Learning, particularly such as have been educated in this College; assuring themselves of being encouraged in promoting so necessary and pleasant a Part of Learning, and which in the Issue they hope will very much tend to the Improvement and Advantage of these Northern Shires.

They therefore propose.

"I. THAT Entire Setts of Instruments, necessary in Astronomy, Mechanicks, Opticks, Chymistry, Hydrostaticks and Anatomy be bought betwixt and the First of October One Thousand Seven Hundred and Twenty Six Years; That so the proposed Course of Experimental Philosophy may commence with the next Session of College.

"II. THAT the different Parts of the said Course shall be performed by the Professors of Medicine, Mathematicks and Philosophy, according to their respective Provinces, in Apartments fitted up for the Purpose in the College, at convenient Hours, twice a week, from the first of November to the first of May, yearly.

"III. BESIDES such Setts of Instruments, it is proposed likewise to purchase for the use of the Contributors the Best Books which treat of Natural and Experimental Philosophy; And MODELS of the newest Machines in Husbandry.

"IV. SEEING it cannot be supposed that any sufficient Sett of Instruments can be purchased under Two Hundred Guineas; and the Proposed Collection is to be bought against the first of October next; 'tis expected that all generous Contributors will be pleased to give Ready Money to such Persons as the Principal and Masters of the College shall commission to receive it.

"V. EVERY Contributors Name shall be inserted in a Register to be kept for the purpose, and recorded on a Board in the Experimental Chamber.

"VI. THE Principal and Masters shall betwixt the first of October and the first of November next lay before the Contributors an Account of what Money has been collected, and what Instruments have been purchased.

"VII. EVERY Person who contributes upwards of Three Guineas, shall have right for Himself and his Heirs to attend the said Course in all time coming. Such as give One Guinea may attend during Life when they think fit.

"VIII. ANY Contributor when he pleases to come with his Friends shall be attended by some one or other of the Professors, and have any Experiment he desires performed.

"N.B. IX. In explaining the Experiments care will be taken to make every thing as plain and easy as possible, by shunning all difficult and unnecessary Terms of Art, so that even those who have not made progress in Mathematicks may understand some of the most usefull and pleasant Parts of Natural Philosophy, especially all sorts of Machines in Husbandry and Common-Life."

The proposal seems not to have been made effective. Apart from the grants by the Commissioners of Supply and the Town Council little was received, and the heaviest outlay occurs on 30th October, 1727:—

"For the Experimental Room by Mr Verner and Mr Gordon their order eight bottles of ale 12/"

In the Album are the following entries of gifts by the Magistrand Classes on leaving College:—

1721. "Scholae Experimentalis non contemnendum dederunt munus"

1726. "Ad Phys. Exper. apud nos promovendam aliquid non spernendum grato animo fecerunt"

1727. "Gratitudinis suae indicium scholae experimentalis"

1728. "38 libras Scoticas scholae experimentalis"

1733. "Supellectilem mechanicam augendo"

1740. "Ad scientiam naturalem promovendam pecuniae summam erogarunt"

1744. "Munusculo scholae experimentalis erogando testarunt"

1747. "Munus haud exiguum scholae experimentalis"

1754. "Ex animis Philosophiae sane devinctis scholae experimentalis quatuor circiter libras sterlingenses"

1755. "Quinque circiter libras sterlingenses instrumentis experimentalibus impenderunt"

1756. "Pecuniam non exiguam ad instrumenta experimentalia instauranda"

After 1754-5 the Natural Philosophy Class was the third, not the fourth, year of study.

From the Extract contained in the Executors' letter to the Town Council, February 2, 1727. (Town Council Register, lix. 414.)†

* Here follow bequests to the schoolmaster and the poor of the testator's native parish of Birse.

† In the Town Council Minutes several entries occur relative to this mortification :—

- May* 14, 1728. Letter from Sir Alexander Ramsay of Balmain, and David Ochterlony of Tilliefroskie, the executors, dated Feb. 2, 1727, intimating the terms of the Will. Letter to be sent in reply by the Provost (T. C. R. lix. 414).
- Apr.* 10, 1729. Thomas Mossman, procurator for executors, presents discharge to be signed by Provost, Baillies and Council on payment of legacies, binding them and their successors to employ money in terms of testament (lx. 46).
- Apr.* 17. Head Court recommend magistrates to raise a Summons of declarator before Lords of Session to have it declared that they, the magistrates, have power of electing the bursars, and the professor of Oriental languages; and that Sir A. Ramsay has merely the power of presentation (lx. 55).
- May* 14. Counter-Summons received from Sir A. Ramsay, who seeks to have it declared that action of magistrates is a repudiation of the trust (lx. 70).

- Sept. 6. By interlocutor of July 11, Lord Ordinary Grange finds that Magistrates have no power of election, and failing acceptance of conditions before September 15, have repudiated trust. Sustained on appeal, July 30 (lx. 88).
- Sept. 8. They sign a qualified form of acceptance (lx. 89).
- Dec. 24. Which the Lord Ordinary rejects, November 8th. Rejection sustained on appeal. The meeting "unanimously agreed not to accept the management of the said Mortification simply in regard that the Lords had rejected the qualifications on which they designed to have accepted". (lx. 127).

Sir A. Ramsay and his heirs have, under authority of the Court, managed the funds of the mortification, together with Sir. A. Ramsay Irvine's addition of 1802 (q. v. infra).

At present the Ramsay Arts bursaries are four in number, of £24 each—£20 paid by Balmain and £4 paid from Burse Fund (supra, p. 400). The Divinity bursaries are also four, of £20 each, tenable for three years.

The professor of Oriental Languages was appointed by Balmain and his successors until 1860, when the chair was conjoined with that in King's College, and the patronage transferred to the Crown. The interest on £1000 is paid by Balmain towards the endowment.

In 1736 a lawsuit took place, Sir A. Ramsay raising an Action of Declarator against the Principal and Professors, because Professor Chalmers had refused to admit into the Divinity Hall three students presented to the Ramsay bursaries, they not bringing with them from their presbyteries or ministers certificates of moral character and education. On 28th July the "hail Lords" adhered to an interlocutor of 1st July by Lord Ordinary Strichen, finding that Professor Chalmers was bound to admit Ramsay bursars without any such certificates.

"The Ramsay bursaries, having been by far the largest endowments of that kind, have been in very many cases most grossly misapplied, by the patron presenting them from interest alone, without the smallest regard to the worth or abilities or poverty of the Candidates. So that many of them have been complete nuisances in the classes to which they were admitted. And there have been more instances than one of their being held by students not bona fide students of Divinity, but only attending the Divinity Hall to allow them to draw the 25 guineas while they were studying Medicine and destined for that profession" (Knight's MS. Collections).

In 1721-4, Gilbert Ramsay seems to have forwarded certain sums to the College for repair of the Bridge of Feugh (cf. p. 400). Two regents and two masons ride out to view the bridge: Mr Verner's bills for two journeys in 1721, £20 and £17 16s., Scots; again, in 1724, £12 12s.; and in 1725, £1 16s.

The Town Council grant a year's income of the bursary funds under their charge towards the erection of new buildings. 12th October, 1737.

The Said Day anent the Petition given into the Counsell Be the Principall Professors and Masters of the Marischall College of Aberdeen, Mentioning That the Buildings of the said College are in a very decayed and ruinous condition, and especially the Edifice called the Old Work which contained the Private Schools for the Teaching Masters, and Chambers for the Students, is become so ferial, that it is dangerous for Masters or Students to assemble therein. And if some new Building be not soon erected in its stead, there will be no convenient place for instructing the youth in the several parts of Learning, whereby the College would be by degrees deserted, and in process of Time, must necessarily fall and come to nothing. And it being found by Experience That ane University within the Royal Burgh of Aberdeen is not only a great addition to the Lustre and Beauty of the Town, but a very substantial advantage to the Inhabitants for the Convenient and easy Education of their Children, who remain under their Eye and live in their Families while at the College, And more particularly, as the Honourable the Magistrates and Town Counsell of Aberdeen are honoured with the Patronage of some of the Professions and of many of the Benefices appointed for poore Students, the greater part of which are specially destinated and restricted to the Children of Burgesses and Inhabitants of Aberdeen, In so much that the preserving and supporting of the University is a matter of real Importance and Concern to the Town in general, and in particular to ever [sic] Family that hath Children: And whereas there is no sufficient Fund appropriated for supporting or rebuilding the Edifice of the College, and that the petitioners had with no small expence made repeated applications to the Government for assistance to their Decayed Fabric without effect, So that the only remaining Fund for repairing the Schools and preserving the College, is the Revenue of the Lands already left by well disposed Persons, for promoting Learning and maintaining Bursars therein: Wherefore the Petitioners, being humbly of opinion that the Patrons of the several Donations could not more effectually nor faithfully discharge their Trust than by seasonably preventing this otherwise inevitable Ruin to the University, and thereby the intire Frustration of the sole End and Purpose of their Bursaries; And in order thereto, That the saids Patrons should vacate them all for one year respectively, and appoint and destinate the sums arising from these Vaccancies to the Erecting a new Building upon the North side of the Area of the said Colledge, containing four or five private Schools below and Chambers above for the Masters and Students. For these reasons The Petitioners humbly recommended it to their Honours (considering how particular a Concern the Town of Aberdeen hath in the Colledge) to prevent this Dishonour to the Publick and evident loss to the Inhabitants of the Burgh, By Shewing good Example to the other Patrons in agreeing to vacate their Bursaries for one year, as above. In regard the Petitioners conceived that the pious and excellent Intention of the several Benefactors cannot be better fulfilled, than by preserving the Colledge from sinking in Ruins. As in the said Petition subscribed be the saids Principall Professors and Masters of the said Colledge at length is contained. Which being considered by the Magistrates and Council forsaid, As also they having considered the Recommendation given in to them signed be a considerable number of the Merchants and Inhabitants of this Burgh, Recommending to the Council that they would grant the Desire of the said Petition, And being at length ripely and well advised with the said Petition and Recommendation, And haveing maturely and deliberately weighed and considered the several strenuous and pungent [sic] Reasons set forth in the Petition given in by the Principall and Masters of the Colledge And haveing argued at length upon the whole points and articles of the Petition, And finding by the said Recommendation, That it is the generall desire and inclination of the principal Citizens, Burgesses and Inhabitants of this burgh, that the desire of the Petition should be Complied with, Therefore the saids Provost, Baillies and Council have Granted and hereby Grant the Desire of the above written Petition, With this special condition and provision always, Like as it is hereby expressly provided and declared That the whole Patrons of the other Bursaries in the said Marischal Colledge, shall agree to vacate the several Bursaries under their Patronage for one year, To be applied toward the forsaid intended new Building; As also with this special condition and provision That the Representatives of Catharin Rolland Relict of Doctor William Guild, and of James Milne Merchant in Aberdeen, Give their consent to the application of their Bursaries towards the intended new work at the said Colledge, Otherways thir presents to be void and null as to the vacation of the Bursaries left by the said Catharin Rolland and James Milne.

NOTE ON COLLEGE BUILDINGS, 1737-41.

"In 1738, when the funds of the College were in a state of great poverty, the Principal and Professors had the spirit to begin and carry on an extensive S. Wing to the building erected in the end of the former century—and by the same means, voluntary aid alone. The spirit shown in undertaking such a work in so poor a country as Scotland then was, seems to have greatly benefited the Seminary: the improvement of the course of teaching followed not long afterwards" (Knight's Collections).

The Masters began by printing a folio page entitled State of the Buildings of the University and Marishal College of Aberdeen, drawn up by Blackwell. It describes the ruinous condition of the old edifice and the want of success that has hitherto attended appeals to the public and to Government for assistance. The Principal and Masters having each "renounced a part of their private Interest yearly in the College Funds, for promoting the Undertaking, THEY persuade themselves, that this public Application will be construed, as in truth it is, an Attempt to do service to the PUBLIC, and preserve from ruin an UNIVERSITY, from whence so many accomplished Men have gone forth as Ornaments to their Country, in every Age since it's Foundation".

The funds for the new building were raised as follows:—

1. One year's revenue of the bursaries.
2. Money borrowed from the Town (£100), and from various Kirk Sessions.
3. Net proceeds of an Assembly in the Common Hall, 1st October, 1740, and of a ball, 27th February, 1741 (£228 18s. Scots).
4. Subscriptions in Town and County. "The Principal Professors and Masters divided themselves according to the several districts of the town, and each with a Magistrate accompanying him went through the inhabitants and received of voluntary contributions as follow" (Minutes). A long list of subscribers is appended, headed by Provost William Chalmers, who gives a guinea. No contribution exceeds two guineas, and many are of 2s. 6d., 1s., even 6d. The whole list is very curious.

There is preserved (Mar. Coll. Ch. Room, "Buildings of 1737-," No. 6) a plan by Blackwell for the Rector, Principal, and Masters making journeys through the Counties of Aberdeen, Banff, Moray, Kincardine, and Forfar to obtain contributions; but it is uncertain whether this was carried out. The county subscriptions are considerable: the Rector, Mr. Skene, gives eight guineas; Lord Kintore, ten; Lord Arbuthnot, six; Lady Errol, three.

5. Subscriptions from alumni in England and abroad. Comparatively few of these are noted. Dr. Reid, Physician in London, gives £50; Dr. George Cheyne, Bath, £25; Dr. John Turner, Penrhyn, £20; Mr. George Conon, Schoolmaster at Truro, £10 10s.;

HHH

Mr. Alexander Kennedy, his Usher, £3. Dr. Samuel Patrick, made LL.D. in 1839, sends a Latin letter of thanks and £10 10s. Blackwell, acknowledging this ("Buildings of 1737-," No. 8), describes the building in high sounding terms. "Scito autem tali multorum Maecenatum munificentia factum esse ut Aedificium novum ad culmen perductum jam pene contactum sit: Est autem structura quatuor contignationum quatuordecim pedes altarum, caminos viginti praeter conclavia continens, cujus inferiora scholis, quae vel maxime desiderabantur, superiora cubiculis destinantur: Exstructa vero est opere non ambitioso; at commodo, solido non ineleganti; quippe quae alam Aedificii majoris concinnam efficiat, atriumque amplum et magnificum inter templum et academiam Aediculis antea impeditum pulchre aperiat."

6. Applications for Government aid seem to have yielded only an order by the Barons of Exchequer (17th Nov., 1743. "Government Grants," No. 12a) sanctioning the appropriation of vacant stipends of Professors (from Bishops' rents) since 1734, and in future.

The expense of taking down the old Buildings is stated as £44 18s. 6d. sterling, and the cost of the new erection did not exceed £700.

"The architect employed was Mr. William Adam, Edinburgh, father of John and Robert, of the Adelphi. He designed Gordon's Hospital. A long letter from him of 28th March, 1740 ['Buildings of 1737-,' No. 9]. The lower part of the building to be for Schools, the upper for lodgings for the Masters, but part of the third floor and the whole of the fourth for students. Adam mentions that the lodgings for the Masters will be large enough, as by the Foundation Charter no women can be admitted into the College. In a letter to him Blackwell mentions sketches of alterations drawn by 'a young man, John Jeans, who seems to have no ill turn for such matters'. Jeans, according to this letter, was the inventor of the Screw Stair. He afterwards built the beautiful little bridge over the Denburn in the line of the Windmillbrae. But there was then no employment for such a person as he is in Aberdeen. Being of an ingenious and active turn, he became an enthusiast for Mineralogy, and travelled over the greater part of the Mainland and the Highlands, collecting till he became eminent as a dealer, repairing annually to London, and being the first finder of numerous Scottish substances. He lived to old age, dying about 1804, aged about 80. He is mentioned by Johnson (Tour to the Hebrides), who met with him in Skye. From his portrait he seems to have been a spare man of genteel and keen aspect. A son succeeded him in the business of collecting and polishing, a coarse and contemptible character, who was drowned on a dark night by falling into the basin near the new pier, 1809, after having been in company with a Jew dealer from London, with whom he had had some mineral transactions" (Knight's Collections).

The items of expenditure are minutely noted. John Rhind and John Murdoch, masons, contract for the work at £20 per rood. They send to Moray for stones, but those for lintels, window borders, and chimney tops are furnished by Alexander Rhind, Banff, at 5d. and 5½d. sterling per foot of length, delivered free of charge in Aberdeen. Loads of sand and mortar 1d. sterling each; lime, 1s. 3d. per boll; bricks, 2s. 6d. per thousand. Masons' wages, 6s. 8d. to 15s. Scots per day; the masters, 20s. In the contract a sum is agreed to in lieu of drink. But in the vouchers the "Saturday's pint" is regularly charged, and in one account there is a bottle to each man on Thursday. When the walls are so high as to be levelled, the masons get brandy, sugar, and "pints".

John Innes contracts for the timber work:—10d. sterling the single, 1s. 4d. the double daill. In April, 1740, William Baxter goes to Norway to purchase trees: single, 10d.; double, 20d.; double-double, 3s. 4d. Sheet lead costs 3s. 4d. sterling per Scots stone. 17,500 Easdale slates from Saltcoats, £24 1s. 3d. 25 sacks of "fogg," 4d. sterling each.

* The money was paid in 1748. The Town Council claimed the patronage, but Mr. Ferguson of Pitfour, to whom both parties agreed to submit the dispute for decision, by Decreet Arbitral of 11th December, 1749, held (1) That the bursary should be open to competition for all comers; (2) That the best qualified should be presented by the Principal and Masters; (3) That in the event of misapplication of the fund the Magistrates "have a right to enquire" ("Bursaries," xxiii. 3; Burgh Ch. Room, "Mortifications," M<sup>1</sup>, 14). The amount was vested in the "Burse Fund," and £5 paid annually to a bursar until 1860, when the Commissioners united the Smith and Forbes (No. CIII.) bursaries into one of £10 (Ordinance No. 38, Aberdeen No. 18).

* Proved at Doctors' Commons 2nd November, 1762. The accounts of Paterson's Mortification have always been kept apart. Owing to accumulations the amount now payable to the College bursar is £14 (Calendar for 1889-90). With the transcript of the will is tied up a well-written pamphlet (xxv. 2) entitled Remarks on Dr. Paterson's Will relating to some Bursaries, &c. By Principal Campbell. Undated, but evidently printed in 1794. Alexander Paterson, shoemaker, claimed the bursary as of right for his son Joseph, who had not succeeded in obtaining a place among the bursars of 1793. This claim the Principal resisted, preferring Charles Blake, whose version was first in order of merit.

the above description and qualifications and according to the Rules and Instructions above and after mentioned And I hereby order John Falconer in Prusean Court Old Bailey London Silver-caster whom I have nam'd Executor of my Last Will and Intromitter with all my Effects whatever to pay the said Two hundred pounds sterling six months after my death to the Treasurer or Master of Mortifications of the town of Aberdeen whichever of them has power to receive such Donations retaining the Interests due on the same in his own hand And I request and desire the said Magistrates to give Instructions to their Treasurer or Master of Mortifications to pay the Interest of said Two hundred pounds once a year to Janet Lorimer my Sister Relict of James Glen in Blacktown during all the years of her life being what I have set apart and hereby set apart as a means of her Subsistance beginning the first term's payment thereof eighteen months after my death and thereafter once every twelvemonth as above exprest and in case any part of her annuity shall be due to her at her death I desire the same may be paid to James Glen her Son for himself and for paying his Mother's funeral expences and debts And I appoint and direct that this present Donation and Mortification shall not take effect nor any Student or Bursar presented thereto untill the Interests of the above Two hundred pounds after my Sister's death shall have grown to such a Sum as being converted into a principal will yield not only Ten shillings sterling yearly to the Schoolmaster of Cullen for the time being as an encouragement to him to pay the greater attention to the Education of my Great Uncle's Bursar under his care besides what has been in use to be given to him by the Parents of said Bursar but also till it will yield Twenty shillings sterling as an yearly Addition to what the Bursars on said Mortification have hitherto enjoy'd which I intend principally for buying Books to each Bursar yearly and successively which sum when so consolidated I desire and appoint may be paid by the Treasurer or Master of Mortifications of Aberdeen to the Kirk Session of Cullen or their Treasurer in order to be by them settled at Interest and the same yearly paid to the said Schoolmaster and Bursar as above directed And when said Institutions and Settlements have been duely complied with I hereby make over alienate and transfer the said Two hundred pounds from me my heirs Executors and Successors whatever to and in favours of the said Magistrates of Aberdeen and Masters of the Marishal College and their Successors in Office to be by them applied as above directed in all time to come And I warrant this Mortification and donation from my own fact and deed only that is to say If there is no writing under my hand found in my custody at my death cancelling the same I hereby declare it shall be good and valid to all the purposes abovementioned and that my Executors and Relations shall have no manner of claim on said Two hundred pounds in opposition to the above Settlement And I hereby request and empower the Magistrates and Kirk Session of Cullen and the Successors in office once every five years to call for the Accompts of this present Donation from the Magistrates Treasurer or Master of Mortifications of Aberdeen and if they find any of its funds misapplied I hereby request and empower them to get such misapplications redress'd by every legal method the expence to be taken out of said sinking fund And that they on the other hand will join with said Magistrates of Aberdeen and Masters of the Marishal College in uniting to do everything they think conducive towards its improvement always adhering to and observing the substantial and fundamental parts thereof And I would beg leave to observe to the Trustees and Patrons of my Great Uncle's Mortification that tho' I have not attempted to alter or change any Article or Institution in his original Deed of Mortification but have rather endeavoured to improve and carry forward his purpose and intention therein exprest vizt. the Education of his Relations which I have done in a grateful return for a share of my Education I had from said Mortification yet I would submit to them whether if the present intended improvement and donation take place it would not be proper cæteris paribus to prefer to the benefit of said Mortification at the School of Cullen Boys whose parents are able to help them forward in their Education after leaving School to Boys of a contrary description especially such Boys who in the return of each five years have reason to expect to enjoy the advantage of this present Donation at the High School and Marshal College of Aberdeen And as I have increased the Schoolage due to the Schoolmaster of Cullen for my Great Uncle's Bursars I would earnestly recommend to him and his Successors in office that they would not allow said Bursars to use any English Translations of the Classicks either in or out of School but in place of these let the Schoolmaster provide said Bursars out of the first and readiest of the above Twenty shillings with a good Dictionary and good Editions of the Classicks entirely Latin and that they will make said Bursars get by heart and repete frequently all and such parts of the Latin Poets as they learn at School and till they are capable of reading such Poets I desire they will make them get by heart the whole of Pope's Essay on Man and his Universal Prayer I would also recommend and direct the said Schoolmaster should begin said Bursars to Arithmetick when they are nine years of age and continue exercising them therein untill they are fully Masters of all its branches And lastly and principally I would earnestly recommend to said Schoolmaster early to impress said Bursars with the Principles and a just Sense of Religion and Virtue by causing them get by heart and frequently repete their Catechisms and making them read their Bible both at home and in the School And I consent &c . . . * Lorimer died at sea, on his way to Italy for the benefit of his health, and was buried off Cape Finisterre, 24th January, 1765. There seems to have been much correspondence about this mortification. On 28th February, 1789, the Town Council "unanimously refuse to accept of the patronage or administration thereof on account of the multiplicity of limitations and restrictions with which it is burdened and fettered" (Town Council Register, lxvi. 31b). The management of the fund accordingly devolved upon the College. By Ordinance No. 41 (Aberdeen No. 21) of the 1858 Commission "if there be no candidate qualified by relationship in terms of the said deed, it shall be lawful to appoint a boy to the vacant bursary tho' not so qualified," and "the patronage shall for the future be vested in the Moderator and Kirk Session of the parish of Cullen". The bursaries are two of £16 each.

John Gray, London, mortifies to the Principal and Professors the sum of £1000 sterling to found two Mathematical Bursaries. 19th December, 1768.

BE IT KNOWN TO ALL MEN by these present Letters Me John Gray of King Street Covent Garden in the County of Middlesex Esquire WHEREAS I have deliberately resolved to found two Mathematical Bursaries in the Marischal College of Aberdeen and to mortify and appropriate a suitable sum of money for that purpose Therefore wit ye me to be bound and obliged as I by these presents bind and oblige myself my heirs Executors and Successors whatsoever to make payment to Doctor George Campbell Principal Doctor Alexander Gerard Professor of Divinity Doctor Francis Skene Professor of Laws and Philosophy Doctor Alexander Donaldson Professor of Medicine and Oriental Languages Mr William Trail Professor of Mathematicks Mr William Kennedy Professor of Greek Doctor George Skene and Mr James Beattie Professors of Philosophy all in the said College and to their Successors in Office Principal and Professors in the said College as Trustees for the uses ends and purposes before and after specified All and hail the sum of One thousand pounds sterling money and that at the end of one year after the Death of me the said John Gray with the legal Annual Rent of the same in all Time thereafter during the not payment which sum of One thousand pounds sterling I hereby Appoint the persons above named and their Successors in Office to settle and lend out on Heritable Security at the sight and by the approbation of Mr Alexander Milne merchant in Aberdeen or any other person named by me at the best Interest that can be had till a proper Opportunity offer of laying out the same on the purchase of Land and to apply the yearly Annual Rent and produce thereof for the purposes and in the way and manner after specified And with regard to the said Bursaries disposal and management thereof and Qualification of the Candidates I hereby Ordain the following Articles and conditions to be strictly and invariably observed and complied with by the Persons above named and their Successors in Office as Trustees aforesaid FIRST no students shall be admitted as Candidates for or capable of enjoying the said Bursaries who have not entered in the Bajan Class of the said College and gone regularly forward in their Accademical Course (that is without passing over any of the Classes) and who have not previously studied under the Professor of Mathematicks there for two Sessions and no more They shall during that Time have made themselves well acquainted with Arithmetic in all its branches and have studied Algebra carefully as far Biquadratic Equations or higher and shall understand the Elements of Euclid and the two Trigonometries And they shall be at the Time of their standing Candidates actually Students of Philosophy in the said College having at least one Year of the ordinary Course of Philosophy to run SECONDLY The Candidates for these Bursaries shall obtain the same by an open and solemn comparative Trial on the Elementary Parts of Mathematics above mentioned after publicly reading over in their presence the Articles of the Mortification relating to the qualifications of the Bursers The Examinations shall be made in presence of the Principal and whole other Professors by the Professor of Mathematics on Oath so that the Bursary may be given impartially to the most deserving Youth in that sort of knowledge And if any of the Bursaries shall fall vacant during the Currency thereof by the Death Deprivation or dismissal of the Bursar or in any other way it shall be given for the remainder of the Time by a comparative Trial in Manner before described to the most deserving of those who would have been entitled to be Candidates for it at the Time of its commencement THIRDLY It is hereby Declared that each of the Students qualified and preferred in manner above mentioned shall be entitled to a Bursary of Twelve pounds Sterling yearly which I hereby appoint my said Trustees and their Successors in Office to make payment of accordingly out of the first and readiest of the Annual Rents of the foresaid Principal Sum to the said Student yearly at the End of the Session of College FOURTHLY The Professor of Mathematics shall for teaching the two Bursars abovementioned receive Two Guineas a year for each FIFTHLY Every Student who gains one of these Bursaries shall enjoy the same for two years so that one Bursary only being bestowed the first year after the Donation shall take place and the other Bursary the second year there will be an Annual Vacancy and consequently a fresh Competition for the Mathemathematical Bursary The two Mathematical Bursars shall during the two years that they enjoy their Bursaries reside constantly in Aberdeen during the whole Sessions of College and apply themselves assiduously under the direction of the Professor of Mathematicks to the study of Conic Sections Optics Mechanics and Mechanical Philosophy Astronomy Fluxions the Quadrature of Curves and other Branches of the Higher Geometry and in General to all such parts as form the compleat Mathematician And to secure their application it shall be necessary for them to present to the Faculty each year a Certificate from the Professor of Mathematics of their application and progress before they can receive payment of their Bursaries And in case of their failing either in application or in good behaviour it shall be in the power of the Principal and Masters to deprive them of their bursaries and bestow the same on more deserving Students by a new Trial as above directed SIXTHLY If at the Expiration of two years from the Commencement of his Bursary the Mathematical Bursar who is about to leave the College shall appear to have a very fine genius for Mathematics So as to be deemed to excell remarkably therein, he shall be entitled over and above his Bursary to a Medal of one Ounce Troy of Standard Gold for a lasting testimony of his Merit But to prevent this from becoming a Thing of Course and those who may be refused it from thinking themselves injured the Test of their Merit and the condition of receiving it shall be their producing to the Faculty some discovery or improvement made by themselves in Mathematics which the Professor of Mathematics shall pronounce deserving of such a Distinction LASTLY It is hereby specially Provided and Declared that if any excrescence of the foresaid yearly annual rents over and above answering the purposes before mentioned and the necessary expence of Management shall arise as long as the said principal Sum remains on heretable or personal Security it shall be accumulated into a principal sum for making a more advantageous purchase of Land But after a purchase of Land is made the whole Free Rent or annual produce thereof after the expence of Management shall be applied for augmenting the two Bursaries equally All which are declared to be Fundamental and perpetual Rules and Statutes with regard to the said Mortification and Bursaries Reserving always to me the said John Gray full power and Liberty at any Time in my life to alter or recall this present Deed of Mortification in whole or in part at my pleasure Under and upon all such Conditions Provisions and Limitations and faculty conceived in my own favour and Condition . . . From the original deed in the Office of the Sheriff Clerk of Aberdeenshire, in which it was registered 6th December, 1769.*

* In 1770 the College received £1000 from Mr. Gray's executors, which was lent for some time on heritable security. In 1803 the lands of Hosefield, near Aberdeen, were purchased for £1300 on account of this mortification (Agreement of Sale, 3rd Jan.; Disposition from Alexander Martin, 12th February; Sasine thereon, 28th May—Mar. Coll. Ch. Room, "Hosefield," Nos. 8, 9, 10). Subsequently a sum of £380 was expended in relieving the property of a feuduty with which it was burdened. In consequence of the increasing revenue the bursaries were raised from £12 to £30 each, and the Professor's fees from £2 2s. to £3 3s.

"A practice began in 1801 of charging the Annual Tavern Bill with Kings College to this fund, which continued for 18 years to 1818 inclusive and amounted to £111 9s. 7d. After that year the tavern Bill was paid equally by the Professors from their own pockets. Kings College continued to charge it to their Burse funds. . . . It is not probable that any mode of trial took place but by written exercises from students inclosed in a locked room. For a long time one day was sufficient—then the night encroached on (no beds)—then all the day following. . . . 1835, Nov. 6. Altered to two meetings on two successive days, the first not extending beyond 12 P.M., and the second not beyond 10 o'clock" (Knight).

A list of all the Gray Bursars, with specimens of early examinations, will be given in a subsequent volume.

In 1795 a die for a medal, and various copies thereof in gold, silver, and copper, were obtained at an outlay of £98 18s. 4½d. This medal was awarded in 1795, 1824, 1825.

The Commissioners of 1858, by their Ordinance No. 47, Aberdeen No. 27, ordained that the revenue of the Gray Fund should be conjoined with portions of those of the Fullerton and Moir Funds (Fasti Aberdonenses, pp. 196, 207; and King's College Deeds of Foundation of Bursaries, pp. 39, 47), to form a special fund to be called the Fullerton, Moir, and Gray Scholarship Fund. (See University Calendar for 1889-90.)

From the Report of the Commissioners of 1876 (iv. 301), it appears that the gross annual value of the Hosefield property in 1875 was £80 4s. 9d.

*Alexander Cruden, London,* by his last will and testament, bequeaths to the Town Council the sum of £100 sterling for the maintenance of a bursar. 10th April, 1770.*

IN the Name of God Amen I Alexander Cruden late a Citizen and Stationer of London now living at Aberdeen being thro' the goodness of God sound in body and mind do make and ordain this to be my last Will and Testament I acknowledge that I am a miserable Sinner by nature and life being descended from the first Adam who by his fall in Sinning against God hath involved himself and his posterity in sin and misery and I desire grace at all times by a true and saving faith to look for redemption and salvation through the blood and Righteousness of our Lord Jesus Christ the second Adam and God-man Mediator who by his wonderfull incarnation obedience and death hath satisfied divine justice and purchased salvation for all who are enabled truly to believe in this all sufficient and suitable Saviour and to receive him as their Prophet Priest and King and to rest and rely upon Christ and his righteousness alone for pardon and eternal salvation I desire that my body may be decently buried in the Church Yard of Aberdeen where my pious Father and his family are interred And as for such outward estate and effects which God hath been pleased in his kind and wonderful providence to favour me with I give and bequeath as follows † . . . I have one hundred and sixty pounds of stock as a stockholder in the Stationers Company at London I Bequeath one hundred pounds of that sum to be a Bursary or Benefice to a Student in the Marischal College of Aberdeen where I was educated to have the yearly interest or annualrent of the said sum for four years and if that sum of one hundred pounds cannot be within a year after my decease settled and secured in such a manner as to yield Five pounds a year :

* Author of the well-known Complete Concordance to the Scriptures, and of several minor works. See sketch of his life in the Retrospective Review (1824,) Vol. x., p. 20.

† Here follow bequests to the testator's sisters Mary Cruden and Isabella Cruden or Wild; his late brother David's daughter Anne Cruden; and his late sister Margaret's sons Thomas, John, and Alexander Crombie, and daughter Isabella Reid or Walker.

I desire that this Bursary may not take place till it shall yield that sum I desire that the person who shall enjoy it may be Thirteen years old and a native of Aberdeen or of that County or within twenty reputed miles of the said town and that the person to be presented by my Executors the Town Council of Aberdeen may be Examined by the minister of the Even quarter of that town and attested by him to be a sober youth and to have the Westminster Assembly's Shorter Catechism by heart and a competent knowledge of the Latin Language I desire that the preference to this benefice may be given to any of my Relations and also to any of the name of Cruden or Pyper I do not intend that this benefice shall be obtained by competition in the ordinary and public method * . . . I do Nominate Constitute and appoint the Provost Baillies and Town Council of Aberdeen to be the only Executors of this my last will and testament and if any doubt or difficulty should arise relative thereto I desire and appoint the Town Council of Aberdeen fully and finally to determine it . . .

In witness whereof at Aberdeen this will is Signed and Sealed by me . . . this Tenth of April One Thousand Seven Hundred and Seventy years

The Said day The Council having Considered a Memorial and Representation from the Principal and Professors of the Marischal College mentioning That the great advantages and even necessity of a proper apparatus of Instruments in the Universitys for Explaining to young men the Principles of Natural Philosophy ffrom which Those of the greater number of the Useful Arts in life were derived and at same time the low state of their Public funds which so far from being able to Afford the Capital Instruments they wanted were little more than barely sufficient for the Annual Repairs of those they had Induced the Memorialists therefore to hope that the Magistrates and Council would not deem it Improper But approve of the only Scheme which appeared to them Capable of Supplying these defects Which was to Endeavour to raise by Subscription a Sum sufficient for purchasing first An Orrery for Exhibiting the motions and Appearances of the Heavenly Bodies and Explaining the principles of Astronomy Next an Astronomical Clock and Quadrant for Taking Observations of the Sun Moon and Stars and thence Explaining the Operations necessary in Navigation and other useful Branches of Science Which would cost from One hundred to One hundred and Twenty pounds sterling Being Convinced too that the present Conjunction is more favourable to the Success of such a Subscription than may possibly Occur for several years The Professors therefore Intreated that the Magistrates and Council would return an answer as soon as possible That the Application to Others might not be delayed As the said Memorial signed by Professor Copland in the Name of the University

Which Memorial being deliberately Considered by the Council And they being perfectly satisfied of the Public Utility of the Plan proposed by the Memorialists And That the Execution of it will Tend to promote the Interests of Science and the Education of youth They unanimously Agree to Contribute out of the Treasury Funds the sum of Twenty Guineas towards defraying the Expense of purchasing the foresaid Instruments And Authorise the Provost to Subscribe the Same in Name of the Council accordingly.

The Town Council grant a site for an Astronomical Observatory. 3rd February, 1781.

The said day the Council having heard and considered a Memorial and Representation addressed to them by M<sup>r</sup> Patrick Copland Professor of Mathematicks in Marischal College for himself and in name of the other Professors of that University setting furth That since the favour conferred by the Council upon the College in their beginning the subscription for the purchase of Astronomical and other Instruments he was happy to find the Plan had so far met with the approbation of the Public that there was now a pretty certain prospect of being able to procure at least all the Capital Instruments mentioned in the Memorial formerly given in by him That in consequence of this he had solicited and procured the advice of the Astronomer Royal with respect to the best construction of them and had also * An immense improvement in the collection of physical apparatus dates from the appointment of Professor Patrick Copland to the chair of Natural Philosophy in 1780 (supra, p. 148). Copland had acted as assistant to Professor Skene, 1774-75, and as Professor, 1775-79. In the latter year Dr. Hamilton was admitted Professor (Copland taking the Mathematical chair): he taught the class for one session "and broke much of the apparatus" (Knight). From 1780 onwards Copland, exchanging with Hamilton, conducted the Natural Philosophy class with great success for forty-two sessions. "Having a great mechanical turn, and being a good workman, he renewed the old apparatus, and constructed a great quantity of new, 1777-90, with the aid of a good workman, John King. He was also instrumental in requesting and obtaining a grant of £50 for three years, 1783-85, from the Trustees of the Board of Manufactures in Scotland, to be applied in making models of useful machines. Still further to extend the use of these, he began in 1785 to give popular courses of Mechanical Philosophy thrice a week in the evenings, and continued them occasionally till 1812-13, the last winter he gave them. In 1781 he began a subscription for building and furnishing an observatory with instruments, and carried it on with success. He went to London, and obtained from the Earl of Bute, Chancellor of the College, a gift of a large equatorial by Sisson, and a transit instrument by Ramsden" (Knight). At Copland's death in 1822 the College paid 700 guineas, from the Library fund, for his collection of apparatus, much of which is still to be seen in the Physical Laboratory of the University.

received from him a promise of every assistance in his power that they may be executed by the makers employed with all possible accuracy That Professor Copland in conjunction with his Colleagues taking into consideration that in order to render the principal Instruments of public utility it was necessary (for the greater firmness) that they should be placed on the ground but in as elevated situation and commanding as much as possible a free prospect of the Horizon round particularly towards the South and North points That he had with this view made it his business of late to examine the advantages and disadvantages of the several high grounds about the Town and had been able to find none that would afford so convenient a situation for an Observatory as the South East projecting angle of the Ramparts on the Castlehill That having been informed of an intention of the Magistrates to erect a solid pillar there for a Flagstaff he hoped the Council would be of opinion that the addition of the two round buildings for the said Instruments to be raised according to a Plan and Elevation given in with the said Memorial so far from being prejudicial to that intention might rather be an advantage by rendering the Flagstaff more conspicuous and independently of their great utility as an Observatory that they would be ornamental to the Town being placed in so elevated a situation

The Memorialist therefore in name of the University requests the permission of the Magistrates and Council to erect upon the South East Demibastion of the Castlehill the said two rooms or round buildings according to the Plan and Elevation thereof above-mentioned Not however thereby desiring any exclusive property in the ground but only to hold it during the Council's pleasure and undertaking to remove the materials of the Observatory upon receiving six months previous notice whenever it shall appear proper to the Council that the ground should be applied to any other purpose

Which Memorial and Representation having been maturely deliberated upon by the Council they unanimously agree to grant liberty to Professor Copland and the other Professors of the College to erect upon the South East angle of the Castlehill the foresaid two round buildings for the purpose of an Observatory and receiving the foresaid Astronomical Instruments conform to the Plan and

Elevation thereof abovementioned but under and upon the conditions and limitations specified and contained in the Said Memorial

From the Town Council Register, lxiv. 216.*

* In the Observatory erected on the site granted by the Council, "there were three rooms. Two forming the wings were circular about 12 ft. in diameter, with conical roofs: between them a room for the accommodation of the astronomer. The Quadrant (by Maculloch, divided by Troughton) was in the Easternmost room; the Transit was in the Westernmost; the Equatorial was not mounted" (Knight).

"The establishment of a new Observatory, where there are so few as in Scotland, is an event of too much importance in the literary history of the country to be passed over without notice. The establishment of that at Aberdeen ought the more to be recorded, that it does great honour to the public spirit and scientific zeal of the Principal and Professors of the Marischal College, and of the other gentlemen by whose voluntary subscription it was brought about" (Trans. Roy. Soc. Edinb., iv. 28).

The list of subscribers is extant. The Incorporated Trades give 19 guineas, the county gentlemen and burgh merchants and professional men contribute liberally. The Governors of Gordon's Hospital give 50 guineas on condition that four Hospital boys shall pass through the Mathematical or Natural Philosophy classes in all time coming "without paying any fees whatever" (Hospital Minutes, Feb. 19, Apr. 12, Aug. 22, Oct. 3, 1781). This privilege was done away with by the Commissioners of 1858 (Report, p. 165). Total sum collected = £336 2s. 6d.

"The Observatory on the Castlehill was completed last week" (Aberdeen Journal, Oct. 15, 1781).

Andrew Mackay (LL.D., 1786) was appointed keeper (without salary), and here that excellent mathematician made his calculations of the Latitude and Longitude of Aberdeen, published in Trans. Roy. Soc. Edinb., iv. 135-161:—

	Latitude.	Longitude.
Aberdeen Observatory	57° 8' 59".5 N	2° 8' W
Girdleness . . . . .	57° 8'	2° 6'
Greigsness . . . . .	57° 7' 20"	2° 6'

In the end of 1795 the Observatory on the Castlehill was taken down, the site being required by Government for a powder magazine to the barracks then begun in its vicinity. The original observatory site of the College was then chosen, and Government paid £800 to defray the expense of the transfer. Cosmo Gordon, Baron of Exchequer, bequeathed £100 in 1801 towards the same end (Minutes, 31st July).

"The Observatory apartment is 38 ft. by 18 ft.; its elevation above the Court not much less than 60 feet. Three cupolas rise from it, under which are placed the Quadrant, Transit, and Equatorial; the domes of the first and last revolving; that of the Transit in the middle, fixed. The Clock stands on the intersection of two walls; the other instruments on strong beams of wood; but all are liable to a little tremor. The seconds rung by the assistant timekeeper can be heard by an observer on the balcony above" (Knight).

In 1831, Mr. Menzies of Pitfoddels made offer of a cottage and garden ground on his estate at Nigg, to contain a lamp that might serve as a meridian mark: to take effect when new buildings are obtained (Minutes, 18th March).

All Astronomical work in connection with the University seems to have fallen into abeyance since the erection of the new buildings in 1840. An "Observatory fund," resulting from an unexpected balance, slowly accumulates from year to year. The Commissioners of 1876 (iv. 306) report a capital of £1050 lent by this fund to the "Mortification fund".

The Board of Trustees for the Encouragement of Manufactures in Scotland grant £50 per annum for three years to further the collection by Marischal College of a collection of models of machines. 1783.

Trustees Office, Edinburgh,
26th February, 1783.

Present: Lord Chief Baron, Lord Gardenstown, Lord Stonefield, Mr Baron Gordon, Colonel Campbell, Mr Oliphant.

A petition signed by Mr George Campbell, Principal of the Marischall College of Aberdeen, in name of the University, was read, setting forth that they intend to cause execute and collect, an assortment of models of Machines used in various Arts and Manufactures; that there is a workman there fully capable of executing the models wanted, which he is to do under the immediate inspection of some of the Professors: and praying that the Board would patronize and encourage the Scheme.

Resolved that this is an object peculiarly worthy the attention of assistance of the Board, but as it is not hinted in the petition to what extent the Board is expected to aid the undertaking, Ordered the Secretary to write Principal Campbell requesting to know how far and in what manner their aid is wished for by the College.

Trustees Office, Edinburgh,
5th March, 1783.

Committee: Lord Stonefield, Lord Ankerville, Mr Baron Gordon, Mr Oliphant.

A letter was read from Mr George Campbell, Principal of the Marischall College of Aberdeen, in answer to the one written him by the Secretary, by orders of last Board, concerning the encouragement applied for by the University for enabling them to collect an assortment of models, mentioning that it will be equally beneficial to their Scheme to receive a sum of money at once or an annual allowance for three or four years as the Board shall think fit.

The Committee were of an opinion that an aid of £50 per annum for three years ought to be allowed for encouraging the University to prosecute the foresaid Scheme, and that the Secretary should inform the Principal it is expected that the University will transmit to this Office a list and particular description of all the models they have already collected and shall afterwards collect, so that in case it shall appear necessary, the Board may have it in their power to order a drawing to be taken of any particular machine.

Sir William Fordyce, Knt.,† by his last will and testament, bequeaths to the Provost and Magistrates, Principal and Masters his Medical Library, and £1000 four per cent. consolidated bank annuities to pay a Lecturer on Agricultural Chemistry and Natural History. 24th December, 1790.

I give and bequeath to my nephew William Alexander Hay all my English Books in Medicine and Surgery and I give and bequeath all my Medical Library (other than the Books above bequeathed to my said Nephew) To the Provost and other Magistrates Principal and other Professors of the Mariscall College of Aberdeen to be deposited and preserved in the Library of that * "This money was paid directly to Professor Copland, and expended by him in constructing various articles of apparatus during these years; for which purpose he employed John King, an ingenious artist, who had a room in the N. Wing. No special accounts were kept; nor is the donation alluded to in any College Account or Document. John King had 16s. 6d. wages weekly. He remained in the College till 1790 or 1791" (Knight).

In 1785 an application by King's College for a similar grant was refused by the Board.

† M.D., F.R.S., Rector of Mar. Coll. 1790 and 1791. Fifth son of Provost John Fordyce. Died 4th December, 1792. See account in Family Record of Name of Dingwall Fordyce, 1885, p. 115.

College except such of the said Books as are Duplicates which may be sold and the produce laid out in the purchase of other Books relating to the Lecture hereinafter by me directed to be established And I give and bequeath to my friend George Crawford of Moneyhill Esq by Rickmansworth the sum of £1000 consolidated 4 per cent Bank Annuities standing in my name upon Trust to permit my sister-in-law Ann Fordyce widow and her unmarried Daughter Jessie Fordyce to receive the Dividends or annual produce thereof during their joint lives and the survivor of them during her life and after the decease of such survivor I give and bequeath the said £1000 consolidated 4 per cent Annuities unto the said Provost and other Magistrates Principal and Professors of the said Mariscall College of Aberdeen upon the Trusts hereinafter mentioned And I direct the said George Crawford his executors or administrators to transfer or secure the same to them accordingly and I hereby direct that after the decease of the survivor of the said Ann Fordyce and her Daughter the annual Income and Dividends arising from the said Consolidated 4 per cent Bank Annuities shall be applied annually by the said Provost and others to pay a Lecturer on Chemistry Natural History and Agriculture for 12 Lectures on such subjects as belong thereto in the Public Hall of the said College once a year for ever at any season of the year that the principal and professors shall judge best recommending an examination of the soil of all Earths Minerals and Metals found in the County of Aberdeen in the beds of Rivers Rocks &c that are likely to be of public use hoping that some liberal minded man or body of men in that Country will cherish such an undertaking by their protection if it should please heaven to remove me hence before I have completed my intentions concerning it.

From the Extract in the Mar. Coll. Ch. Room, "Mortifications for Professorships," No. x.*

* The will was proved in the Prerogative Court of the Archbishop of Canterbury, 29th December, 1792. Jessie Fordyce died at Edinburgh, 19th January, 1835; and in the following year the sum of £1000 3½ Reduced Annuities was transferred to the Trustees by the Representatives of Sir William Fordyce's Executors (Draft Indenture of Release, 5th Mar., 1836—Mar. Coll. Ch. Room). In 1840 Regulations for the Lecture-ship were drawn up, which have been substantially adhered to. The Lecturer is appointed for three years, and receives £40 per annum.

Among other donations to the Library may be noted the following:—

- 1770 (circa). Thomas Hollis presented sets of the works he republished, elegantly bound. Mr. Hollis gave £100 stg. to the Library of King's College.
1772. Edward Dilly, bookseller, London, presented several volumes, in acknowledgment of degree of LL.D. conferred on his friend Henry Mayo.
1775. John Gordon of Buthlaw, Advocate, Edinburgh, bequeathed £100 stg. for the purchase of books: also his MS. Lunar Tables arranged by eighty-four year cycles (Deed of 18th April, engrossed in Faculty Minute of 9th November).
- 1780 (circa). The Rev. H. Primatt bequeathed his Library (Knight).
1782. Lord Bute, Chancellor, presented 1300 volumes of Medical Works from his Library at Luton (MS. Catalogue drawn up by Wm. Smith).
1785. The Town Council granted fifteen guineas to purchase books for the Mathematical class (T. C. R., lxv. 87).
1793. Dr. Alexander Donaldson, Professor of Medicine and Oriental Languages, presented his collection of books on Oriental literature (Knight).
1805. Claudius Buchanan, D.D., Calcutta, sends a box containing sixty-two volumes of Oriental literature addressed to "The University of Aberdeen". His London agent readdresses the box to King's College, but the Marischal College Sacrist, George Pirie, intercepts it. This leads to much correspondence (twenty-five letters in Mar. Coll. Ch. Room): ultimately King's College refuses to have anything to do with books "contained in Marischal College contrary to their address".

Lorimer then and in that case desires and ordains that the boy educated by this donation be of the name of Green and on the other hand when the said William Lorimer's is of the name of Lawtie his mother's relations this to be of the name of Lorimer and vice versa Likewise that the descendents of Robert Green of Aldnaboyle my Fathers relation be equally admitted in claim with those of my mothers relations My wishes are that if John Lorimer of S<sup>t</sup> Thomas in the vale Jamaica has any lawful male descendants that they be admitted equally with any of my other relations and that the boys of the name of Green may be educated for five years at the School of Mortlach Botriphnie Keith or any other reputable school in the neighbourhood and if more candidates than one happen to be at the same time then and in that case the preference be given to the best Scholar The regulation of all this I leave to the Principal and Professors of the Marshal College for the time being and I trust they will conduct it to the best advantage for the intended purposes and I consent to the registration thereof in the books of Council and Session public register of the said Marshal College or others competent therein to remain for preservation and if necessary that all legal execution usual and requisite may pass hereon in common form and thereto I constitute my Proc<sup>rs</sup> in Witness Whereof I have signed these presents written on this and the three preceeding pages of stamped paper by Alex<sup>r</sup> Smith son of Richard Smith paper maker at Aberdeen at London this twenty first day of November one thousand and seven hundred and ninety three before and in presence of William Hendrie of the Parish of S<sup>t</sup> James Middlesex and Alex<sup>r</sup> Smith writer hereof (sic subscriptur) J. Lorimer W<sup>m</sup> Hendrie Alex<sup>r</sup> Smith.

The provisions of this Deed were ratified and confirmed by Dr. Lorimer's Last Will and Testament, dated 14th Dec., 1793; and modified by two Codicils appended thereto.

II.

Codicil dated 8th February, 1795.

I do hereby revoke so much of my said Will as directs that the Boy to be educated be of the name of Lorimer and Green alternately and do Will and Desire that the provision by my last Will made for the education of such Boy be for the benefit of a Boy of the kindred of my late Father John Lorimer and my late Mother Isobel Green or of either of them whatever may be Having always highly approved of the good intentions and settlements made by John Lorimer Town Clerk of Cullen deceased and William Lorimer of the Parish of St James's Westminster deceased who died at sea I have bequeathed the Sum of Two hundred Pounds to be paid to the Principal and Professors of the Marischall College Aberdeen after the death of my Dear Wife Katherine and as in my said Will and as by my said Dear Wife's Will or other settlement hereafter to be made may be more particularly mentioned and which I do hereby particularly Will and Request she will do as soon as she conveniently can after and as I have instructed

III.

Codicil dated 11th February, 1795.

Whereas with respect to the donation of my Worthy Friend the late Mr William Lorimer concerning the Burse now brought into effect in the Marischall College it has been directed that if any of the Bursars on his foundation be expelled from or voluntarily leave the College or die thereat during the term of five years therein stipulated that then the Interest Emoluments or Bursar Money during the remainder of the said time shall be retained and consolidated into a particular fund and that in time if possible Two Bursaries might be formed on and from the donation one for his Father's and the other for his Mother's Relations Now as I have always highly approved of the good intentions of the said Wm Lorimer I have resolved in some measure to contribute towards the execution of his design and have therefore in my last Will and Testament dated the fourteenth day of December One thousand seven hundred and ninety three Bequeathed the like Sum of Two Hundred Pounds Stg to be paid to the Principal and Professors of Marischall College after the decease of my Dear Wife Katherine Lorimer In trust for the purposes therein to be particularly mentioned and in order that my said intended donation may as perfectly as possible coincide with the intentions of Mr William Lorimer's said Burse it is my desire that if any of the Bursars on my said

MMM

Donation shall be Excluded or voluntarily leave the College or die thereat that in that case the Interest Emoluments and Burse Money shall be retained and consolidated in the hands of the Principal and Professors of the Said Marischall College or their Treasurer for the purpose herein aftermentioned that is to say that if any of the Students educated upon my donation or upon the donation of the said W<sup>m</sup> Lorimer shall be found qualified and inclined to prosecute the Study of Physic or Surgery upon the representation thereof to the Principal and Professors of the said Marishall College they shall be entitled to a Sum not less than thirty or more than fifty Pounds Sterling (to be paid them out of fund arising from the lapsed emoluments aforesaid) or so much as may be then on hand and if it should ever happen that when this my donation should ever become claimable if no student from the Lorimers Mortification instituted above one hundred years ago by our friend John Lorimer Town Clerk of Cullen or from my Mother Isobel Green's Relations at or near the Parish of Mortlach shall apply for my Burse at the Marischall College that in that case I desire that the whole five years thereof shall be invested in the said fund for the purposes already mentioned and I do hereby Desire that this may be inserted as a Codicil to my last Will

From the Extracts in the Mar. Coll. Ch. Room, "Bursaries," xxix.*

* Katherine, relict of Dr. John Lorimer, by Deed of Donation bearing date 24th January, 1800, transferred to the Minister and Elders of Mortlach the sum of Two Hundred Pounds Sterling: the interest to be employed "towards the maintenance and education of the most promising boy of the Relations of John Lorimer of Aldnaboyle and of his wife Isabel Green being about the age of Eight or Ten years either at the School of Mortlach or some other respectable school which may be nearer to where their parents reside for the space of four or five years . . . But should any vacancy occur in the application of the said Interest from no claimant making application or from any other cause, then and in that case, I will and desire that the Interest arising from that foundation be yearly transmitted to the Principal and Professors of the Marischal College of Aberdeen for the time being and that it be by them added to the consolidated Fund mentioned in a codicil to the last Will of my late Dear Husband bearing date the Eleventh day of February One Thousand Seven Hundred and Ninety Five for the encouragement of a Student of Physic or Surgery and applied according to the regulations and restrictions and for the purposes mentioned in the said Codicil."

The accounts of the John Lorimer Mortification have always been separately kept. The Commissioners of 1858, by Ordinance 42 (Aberdeen 22), provided that the amount of the bursary shall be £16; that failing candidates qualified by relationship, others may be appointed; and that the Moderator and Kirk Session of Mortlach shall be patrons. The Commissioners of 1876 report (iv. 257) the Stock as amounting to £485 8s.

*William Ruddiman mortifies the sums of £100 and £150 for the support of a bursar. 1794-1824.**

I.

I certainly am deeply indebted to the Marischal College of Aberdeen and its Professors; therefore I think it a duty highly incumbent upon me to bestow a small mark of my gratitude to that grand seminary of learning by requesting of you to wait on the Professors and beg they will accept of the enclosed bill of £100 to be lodged by them in the University fund, the interest of which I hope will add one to the number of præmia burses so liberally given away annually to the best Latin Scholars. Sincerely wishing that all the old Students of this University may follow my example.

Dear, Most Rev<sup>d</sup> and Learned Sir,

I am this inst<sup>t</sup> duly honoured with your kind favour of the 3rd. By all means, agreeably to your suggestion, with that of your learned Colleagues;—Let the two sums be united, so as to make one tolerably good Bursary in my name instead of two smaller ones.

Not hearing from you for some time, I was fearful something had occurred more than usual, and on the 31st ult<sup>o</sup> I took the Liberty of writing a few lines to my dear Friend Robert Harvey of Braco to know the cause of not being honoured by a line of acknowledgment at an earlier period.—This intrusion I hope you will pardon.—Being now the College Vacation I ought to have allowed a reasonable time for you to meet your Learned Colleagues, before I cou'd have been honoured with your Reply.—Wish<sup>g</sup> prosperity to your Noble Seminary, and health and felicity to the Principal and Professors, I ever am

Most Resp<sup>y</sup> and Faithfully yours,

*David Mitchell of Holloway Down, Essex,* mortifies to the Principal and Professors the sum of £2000 three per cent. consolidated annuities, for the maintenance of six bursars. 2nd April, 1801.*

KNOW ALL MEN by these presents I DAVID MITCHELL of Holloway Down in the County of Essex England A.M. being impressed with a proper sense of the many advantages which I have enjoyed from a liberal Education, and willing to contribute towards assisting others who may come after me in partaking of the like ; And having a great regard for the City of Aberdeen, and for the Marischall College and University thereof where I received my Education, and a Zeal for Contributing to the Public Welfare by promoting the Interests of Learning, to have Mortified, Transferred and Assigned, As I hereby MORTIFY, TRANSFER and ASSIGN To and In favors of the Principal and Professors of the foresaid Marischall College and University of Aberdeen and their successors in office, the sum of TWO THOUSAND POUNDS Consolidated three per Cent. Government Annuities now standing in my Person, Empowering them, or any person authorized by them, to draw the Dividends thereof in all time coming, But not to uplift or transfer the Capital, which shall remain for ever in the hands of Government unalienable, and which Dividends to be in Trust only ; and in order that the same may be of feu (Articles of Roup, 14th June, 1805) at upset price of £70 and 30 bolls of bear. The Commissioners of 1876 (iv. 323) report the gross income as £130 15s. 11d.

On 14th December, 1793, the Faculty "Admit and receive the said Dr. George French as Professor of Chemistry in the Marischall College of Aberdeen hereby declaring him to have full right and title to all the emoluments and privileges of that office, agreeably to the settlement of the late Mrs. Blackwell and the regulations and practice of the University" (Register of Presentationes). The Professorship was duly recognised by the Crown in the grant of 1812. French had given lectures on chemistry since 1784, when the Faculty permitted him to fit up a laboratory in the old building on the south side of the College area. He had also a shop in the Upperkirkgate "provided with an assortment of the most reputed patent medicines and several perfumery articles".

The subjects prescribed in successive years for the prize essay and the names of the winners will be given in a subsequent volume.

* Son of Robert Mitchell, Old Aberdeen ; born 20th September, 1731, died in Essex, 8th March, 1803 (Knight). LL.D. 10th July, 1801. Founder of Mitchell's Hospital in Old Aberdeen.

applied to the Maintenance and Education of Six Boys as Bursars at the foresaid College, who are of good Genius and Disposition and whose Parents are poor and indigent and not able without aid to maintain them at the said College, or whose Parents are dead, and who have not means of their own for maintaining themselves sufficiently thereat; And I hereby appoint that these Bursaries shall be bestowed upon such Boys of the above description as shall be found entitled to the same by the merit of their performances at the Public Competition to be annually advertised and held for the disposal of Bursaries at the foresaid College at the Commencement of the Session, But where of equal merit or nearly so, Boys of the Name of MITCHELL or FORBES are to have the preference, and next to them such of the Boys found duly Qualified, as were Born in the City of Aberdeen are to be preferred to those who were born in the Country. AND I APPOINT that each Boy admitted to the benefit of the Bursaries hereby established shall enjoy the same, during the space of FOUR Years, and shall attend regularly the Bajan or Greek Class, and the three Philosophy Classes, and also the first and second Mathematical Classes, according to the usual course at the College; And I appoint each Bursar to receive annually during the continuance of his Bursary at the conclusion of each session of the College the sum of Ten Pounds Sterling, or so much as his own sixth share of the Dividends of the foresaid Capital may amount to after the deduction of necessary charges; And I ordain the Bursars hereby established to pay strict regard to all the Laws and Regulations of the foresaid College, and in case of their failing therein, or being guilty of any vice or misbehaviour deserving of deprivation, I empower and require the Principal and Professors aforesaid to deprive such undeserving Student of his Bursary, and so often as any Bursary on this Foundation becomes vacant by the death, resignation, or deprivation of the Bursar, I authorise the Principal and Professors aforesaid to bestow the same during the remainder of the course on any deserving student at the College, whose circumstances may require it, observing always the same order of preference as before mentioned in favor of the name of Mitchell and Forbes, and of those Born in Aberdeen in preference of those born in the Country. AND in order that the Bursaries hereby founded may go on in a regular Course, I appoint that two of them shall be filled up the first year at the Competition after this Foundation takes effect, and one the second year at the next Competition, two on the third year, and one on the Fourth year; and on the fifth year when the two first bursars shall have left the College, the two vacancies shall be filled up at the Competition, and so on, one or two bursaries by regular rotation shall be competed for annually in all time coming, so that after the three first years there may always be Six Bursars upon this Establishment distributed among the different Classes. AND as from the arrangement of the admission of the Bursars as above mentioned there will arise an annual surplus for the first three years, it is my desire that, after deduction of any necessary Expence, the same shall be paid over by the said Principal and Professors to the Provost and Magistrates of the said City of Aberdeen for the time being, to be applied by them for the use and benefit of such Public Charity in the said City as they shall deem most in need of it. AND I APPOINT and ORDAIN the said Principal and Professors to render an Account to the Provost and Magistrates of their Care and application of the sum hereby vested in them, and of the Dividends, Interest and Profits arising therefrom, for the use of the said Bursars, and that when they shall be required, and that the Accounts thereof shall be annually audited by the Treasurer of the said City for the time being, and in case of any mismanagement or embezzlement, that the said Provost and Magistrates shall sue for redress; Reserving always to myself during my Life, and to William Mitchell my brother during his Life, in case he shall survive me, full power and authority to grant Presentations to all or any of the said Six Bursaries to any such Boys as are qualified, which I, or the said William Mitchell, in case of my death, shall please to nominate and present, without regard to the said Comparative Trial, upon our giving previous notice of such our intention to present to the Principal and Professors of the said College, before any comparative trial shall have taken place, but not after such Trials are over, and the Bursaries adjudged to be given to others in terms thereof. AND I Consent to the Registration hereof in the Books of Council and Session, Sheriff or Town Court Books of Aberdeen, therein to remain for preservation and for that effect I constitute [John Low Advocate in Aberdeen] my Procurators. IN WITNESS whereof these presents consisting of this and the three preceeding pages (written upon stamped Paper by James Millar Writer in Edinburgh) are subscribed by me At London the Second Day of April One Thousand eight hundred and one years Before these Witnesses Thomas Barwis and Thomas Flower Ellis both of the Stock Exchange London, Gentlemen

John Henderson of Caskieben, by his last will and testament and codicil thereto, bequeaths the sum of £2000 to found ten bursaries. 10th July, 1801, and 7th June, 1802.

This is the last Will and Testament of me John Henderson of Caskieben Aberdeenshire . . . On failure of all my children or the heirs of their body's I bequeath the perpetual Interest of . . . Fifteen hundred pounds Sterling of Seven Bursarys for Students at Marishal College Aberdeen . . . But with this proviso that the patronage of all said annuities or interests shall be for ever vested in my heirs at law and failing them or failing their interference from * An acknowledgment of the Trust was signed by the Principal and Professors on 9th April, 1801, and registered in the Baillie Court, 22nd July. The Mitchell Bursaries (six of £10) have been regularly paid, and are duly noted in the current [1889-90] Calendar of the University of Aberdeen.

The following extract is from the Town Council Register :—

“10th January, 1806.

“The same day the Provost laid before the Council a Statement of Dr. Hamilton, Procurator of Marischal College, his Intromissions with the Funds of Dr. David Mitchell's Mortification to Bursars at said College, from which Statement there appears to have been a Balance in Dr. Hamilton's hands of £47 2s. 10d., which has been paid by him to Mr Copland the Depute Clerk, to be applied by the Provost and Magistrates for the use and benefit of such public Charity in this City, as they shall deem most in need of it, in terms of Dr Mitchell's Deed of Mortification.”

* The legacy of the codicil, reduced by legacy duty to £450, is all that seems to have been paid. Alexander Henderson, M.D., the testator's son, in 1818 relinquished the patronage of the bursaries (Minute of Senatus, 27th November), and with his concurrence it was resolved to divide the interest into two bursaries instead of three. The funds are now in the hands of the Senatus and yield bursaries of the annual values of £12 and £10 or thereby, tenable for four years (University Calendar, for 1889-90). The Commissioners of 1876 report (iv. 259) the capital as being invested in feuduties yielding £22.

* In 1806 the College petitioned to have this gift exempted from legacy duty, but the request was refused. On 3rd Nov., 1807, Sir A. Ramsay of Balmain, nephew and executor of the mortifier, granted a bond for payment of interest on £900 ("Bursaries," xxvi. 6, 7, 8). In 1853, the then Sir A. Ramsay's Trustees insisted upon paying the principal sum to the Principal and Professors, and obtaining a discharge of the legacy. Opinion of counsel was taken regarding the competency of this. Counsel held that the Trustees were not entitled to insist on paying the principal.

John Mather, Surveyor, by his last will and, testament, bequeaths to the Provost and Magistrates of Aberdeen the sum of £4000 sterling, for the various purposes aftermentioned. 18th February, 1807.

In the Name of God Amen I John Mather Surveyor being weak in body but of strong sound and perfect mind and memory blessed be Almighty God for the same do make and publish this my last will and testament in manner and form following As the Interest of my Property will at all events realize Two Hundred Pounds (£200) Sterling per annum I will and bequeath unto my Father Robert Mather at Mill of Newburgh near Aberdeen North Britain the annual sum of one hundred pounds (£100) Sterling during his Life Should it turn out that my step-mother survives him she shall have sixty pounds (£60) Sterling per annum during her Life 2d The other hundred pounds (£100) Sterling is to be disposed of as follows Viz<sup>t</sup> For the Education and Cloathing of twenty (20) poor Fishermen's sons of the Newburgh in the Parish of Foveran on condition that when instructed and come to a proper age they be indentured apprentices for the Sea Fifty five Pounds (£55) Sterling the system of Education is to include navigation 3rd To the Parson or Schoolmaster of Foveran for Lecturing and reading Prayers once a-week to the poor people of the Newburgh and its Environs twenty five Pounds (£25) Sterling Farther on the condition of six (6) sick lame or otherwise diseased people being admitted annually for relief to the qualifications for the degree of LL.D. Dr. Glennie informs him that "zeal for promoting the interests of literature" is considered sufficient. On Aug. 27, 1804, Adams writes that he has changed his mind and proposes to mortify the sum in his lifetime. He wishes to know the expense of a diploma, and flatters himself "that no such honour shall ever tarnish with me to the discredit of my dear Alma Mater". The degree is conferred Sept. 11, and on Oct. 16 Adams writes a letter of thanks. The deed of gift is now drafted, and "the ablest lawyers in Edinburgh could not have expressed it better". "To put it upon a certainty" he sends £6, to enable the College to appoint a bursar at once. In 1805 he sends £5; but no formal deeds seem ever to have reached the College. In 1809 the Rev. Mr. Humphrey complains that he has found Adams "so trifling" that he has become weary of corresponding with him.

The money remains invested in Consols, and the dividend is paid to a bursar presented by the Minister of Fordyce.

The Rev. James Stuart, by his last will and testament, bequeaths, inter alia, to the Magistrates of Aberdeen £1000 consols for the better education of youth at Marischal College. 3rd May, 1809.

I the Reverend James Stuart formerly rector of George Town and All Saints South Carolina and chaplain to the King's Rangers in North America but now lying ill at Newbury in Berkshire make this my last

* The sum received from Mr. Mather's estate in 1812 was £3953 6s. 7d., inadequate to the annual payments (£205) provided by the Deed. The fund was therefore allowed to accumulate. The Commissioners of 1836-37 reported "The accounts returned to us in reference to this mortification are by no means satisfactory. While the sums paid on account of the Bursaries provided for young men from the parishes of Foveran and Fyvie have varied very much in different years, nothing has been paid on account of the Bursaries at the disposal of the College" (Second Report, p. xvii.).

In the Burgh Accounts for 1859-60 are the entries:—

	Balce 1850	Revenue	Expenditure	Balce 1860	Stock
"47. John Mather's Mortification to Six Bursars at College	16 15 8	61 2 10	68 0 0	9 18 6	1849 18 6
49. John Mather's Mortification to Foveran and Fyvie Bursars at College	7 4 8	67 14 3	65 0 0	9 18 11	2019 18 11"

By the Provisional Order of 1881, ten Mather Bursaries are instituted, four of £15 in Arts, four of £20 in Medicine, and two of £10 in Law, all to be awarded by open competition; but it is provided (§ 11), "If any candidate at the said open competitive examination, who shall have attended any public or State-aided schools in the Parishes of Foveran or Fyvie for a period of at least two years, shall satisfy the Examiners that he is of sufficient ability and attainments to profit by attendance at the Curriculum of the Faculty of Arts, the Town Council shall, upon the report of the Examiners to that effect, and notwithstanding that such candidate might not otherwise have been found entitled to a bursary, present such candidate to the Mather bursary which falls to be competed for at the said Examination in connection with Faculty of Arts".

† Mr. Cruickshank died in 1814, and the legacy, reduced by legacy duty to £360, was paid in the following year. This sum, on the recommendation of the Ministers, was lent to Messrs. Skelton and Mudie, Merchants, Peterhead, who became bankrupt in 1821. Their creditors agreeing to a composition, the sum of £270 was paid in 1822 on account of the principal and interest from December, 1820. The funds are now under the charge of the Senatus, and yield a Bursary of the value of £18 15s. or thereby, tenable for four years.

*John Farquhar, Ishapore, by his last will, bequeaths, inter alia, funds for augmenting the salaries of the Professors in the Universities of Scotland, and for endowing new Professorships in the King's and Marischal Colleges. 7th March, 1814.**

I John Farquhar Agent for the manufacture of Gunpowder at Ishapore in Bengal being about to embark for Europe and being in sound disposing mind do hereby bequeath my real and personal Property as follows † . . . I likewise bequeath for the purpose of promoting learning such Sum as may be sufficient for Salaries of the following professors who are to teach during the whole of the Summer as I know from my own experience that nothing is so contrary to the acquisition of knowledge as the long vacations in the Scottish Universities Viz: I bequeath for the Salary of the professor of Greek two hundred Pounds sterling for the professor of the second Class called the semi Class the same Sum for that of the professors of the third and fourth Classes the same Sum to each The above Sums to be paid annually in lawful Money of Great Britain to the new professors of all the Universities or Colleges of Scotland beginning with Aberdeen next St Andrews next Glasgow lastly Edinburgh Likewise the same Sum of two hundred Pounds sterling for the Salary of a professor of Mathe-

* John Farquhar seems to have entered Marischal College in Session 1764, his name appearing in the list of non-graduate Magistrands of 1768. He then intended to prosecute the study of medicine, but subsequently proceeded to Bombay in the employment of the East India Company, and became an officer of engineers. While on active service he was severely wounded, and went for the benefit of his health to Bengal. There he paid much attention to the manufacture of gunpowder, and ultimately became sole agent for its supply to the Government, accumulating considerable property. In 1814, after executing a will, he returned to England.

In 1822 Mr. Farquhar purchased the estate of Fonthill for £330,000; but in the following year he disposed of the greater part of Beckford's collections. He died in London, 6th July, 1826 (Pleadings in the cause Colvin against Fraser).

I.

I John Gordon of Murtle Considering that by Trust Disposition executed by me of date the fifteenth day of March last I disposed my whole Estate and Effects heritable and moveable to Alexander Brebner Esquire of Lairney William Brebner Esquire his Son John Garioch Charles Bannerman and Charles Ross Esquires Merchants in Aberdeen and Duncan Davidson Advocate there and to the Survivors of them accepting (three being a quorum) and to such person or

* The above Will was executed in duplicate, and deposited in the hands of the Messrs. Colvin. Two years after Mr. Farquhar's return to England one of the copies was forwarded to him, but at his death this copy could not be discovered. Accordingly on 15th December, 1826, Letters of Administration were granted to John Farquhar Fraser, one of the next of kin of the deceased, the estate being sworn under the value of £600,000. Subsequently, however, David Colvin, one of the executors nominate, endeavoured to have these Letters recalled, and to obtain Probate of the duplicate will that had been left in Calcutta; and the five Universities and the Schoolmasters of Scotland became parties to the Cause. On 25th February, 1829, Sir John Nicholl gave judgment in favour of Fraser, holding that the non-existence of the will in this country raised a legal presumption that it had been destroyed animo cancellandi by the testator, and that the effect of this was to destroy the duplicate also. The Universities and Schoolmasters decided not to appeal, and Fraser paid all the expenses of the case, though these had not been given against him.

II.

With reference to the Trust Deed executed by me of date the fifteenth day of March Eighteen hundred and fifteen and supplemental Deed dated the eleventh day of August same year I direct my Trustees therein named at the first Whitsunday or Martinmas happening twelve months after my decease or as soon thereafter as they may find it convenient to pay the following Legacies which I bequeath to the persons after named viz (inter alia) To Lecturer to students at Marischal College Fifty Pounds Stg yearly To Lecturer to students at Kings College Fifty Pounds Stg yearly (but this last to be entirely in the option of my Trustees)

With regard to the sums bequeathed for the purpose of establishing Lectures on Practical Religion at one or both Universities it may be proper to add a few words explanatory of my design and intention in that bequest The effect of early impression on the youthful mind is generally admitted These lectures therefore if properly conducted and pressed home may by the blessing of God be the means of laying the foundation of an early piety in the youthful mind and thus give God the first possession of the heart Whilst almost every branch of useful knowledge is ably taught in our British Universities it is matter of regret that so little provision is made for the Instruction of our youth in the more important duties of Religion . . .

*The Society of Advocates sanction the appointment of a Lecturer on Scots Law.
2nd January, 1819.*

At a General Meeting of the Society held within the Record Hall upon the Second day of January eighteen hundred and nineteen

* The first appointment was made by the Trustees in 1825, when Principal W. Laurence Brown and Professor Duncan Mearns were assigned stipends of £50 yearly, to continue "until the Trustees shall give intimation of their intention to alter this appropriation". Their Introductory Lectures, delivered on 22nd November and 13th November, were published in 1826 (by D. Chalmers & Co.), "by desire of Mr. Gordon's Trustees". Since the Union of the Universities in 1860 the Lectures have been delivered by the three Theological Professors in turn yearly.

QQQ

There was laid before the meeting a Report from the Committee anent the appointment of a Lecturer on Scotch Law and Conveyancing which having been read and considered it was moved by Mr Thomas Burnett that the Meeting should immediately approve of the Report of the Committee and by Mr Duthie that the Report should be printed and circulated among the Members of the Society and taken under consideration at a future meeting These motions having been put to the vote it was carried by a majority of 42 to 9 to approve of the Report immediately and the Meeting accordingly did approve of the same and appointed the Report to be engrossed in the Minutes the tenor whereof follows viz

“Suggestions relative to the appointment of a Lecturer on Scotch Law under the Patronage of the Society of Advocates in Aberdeen

“An overture for this appointment having already received the approbation of the Society [24th Nov., 1818] it becomes an object with them to follow it up and have it carried into effect in the way that appears best calculated to gain credit and respect to the office itself with the fairest prospect of advantage to the Society and of success to the Individual who shall undertake the duties of it In which view the following hints are suggested

“1st. That the office shall be perpetual and an application be made to the proper quarter for having the Incumbent attached to the University as Professor of Scotch Law

“2nd. That his duty shall be to deliver a complete course of Lectures each year upon Scotch Law and Conveyancing the first part of the course to embrace what relates to the Scotch Law and to occupy                      months viz    at the rate of one hour each lecturing day and five lecturing days each week and the second part to embrace what respects Conveyancing and to occupy                      months    each year viz at the same rate per day and week as specified in the former case

“3rd. That the Class shall be open to all who choose to attend the same and it shall be left to the Lecturer’s own discretion to fix the amount of the fees—with this exception only in favour of Apprentices to Members of the Society that the amount exigible for each course of Lectures shall not exceed Three Guineas for each student that is Two Guineas for the first part of the Course and one Guinea for the Second

“4th. That it shall be resolved as a standing Regulation of the Society that every Apprentice entering into Indenture after the Office is once established must attend the Course of Lectures (both parts) for at least two years during the period of his apprenticeship failing of which he shall not be entitled to claim admission as a Member of the Society And it shall be recommended to all such apprentices whose Indentures have commenced previously to the date of the appointment in contemplation and are then still current also to attend two complete courses of these Lectures

“5th. That the person who fills the office of Lecturer now proposed shall always be a Member of the Society of Advocates in Aberdeen chosen by and from amongst themselves ad vitam aut culpam but with this express proviso or condition that the Society are to be the sole judges of the culpa and may two thirds of them concurring vacate the appointment if they see cause without being obliged in any court of law or otherwise to specify such cause It ought also to be a fundamental condition of the appointment that the Incumbent should at all times hold himself subject to the control of the Society with respect to the plan of his Lectures and the regulations under which the Institution is to be maintained and carried on And as it must be of the utmost consequence to the success of the scheme altogether particularly at the outset to have the office filled by a person of respectability whose professional knowledge is not only unquestioned but who unites with that knowledge some more general turn for literary pursuits the Society it is humbly thought in making their choice should look to these qualities as paramount to every consideration and give their support to that person only who appears most eminently to unite them”

From the Minutes of the Society of Advocates in Aberdeen.*

* Mr. Andrew Robertson elected Lecturer by a majority, 21st January, 1819.

Scots Law and Conveyancing to be in alternate sessions, approved 28th November, 1820.

In 1860 the Lectureship on Scots Law was merged in the Professorship of Law in the University of Aberdeen, representing also the functions of the Civilist of University and King's College.

*The Treasury grant £15,000 towards the rebuilding of Marischal College.
28th June, 1834.*

Treasury Chambers,
28th June, 1834.

To the Rector, Dean of Faculty, Principal and Professors of the Marischal College, Aberdeen.

Gentlemen,

The Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury having had under their consideration your Memorial relative to rebuilding the Marischal College at Aberdeen, wherein you state that you will be prepared to undertake with the sum of £15,000 granted by the Crown in the year 1826,* and the Interest which has accrued thereon, and the additions thereto which you confidently expect to raise by subscription, to erect new Buildings containing the requisite accommodations not inferior in extent to those in the sketches of Mr Reid, Master of His Majesty's Works in Scotland, and subject to the approbation of their Lordships as to the Plan and Site, and that you will give such Guarantee as may be satisfactory to their Lordships for executing the undertaking within five years: I am commanded to acquaint you that my Lords will be prepared to direct the issue of the said sum to the Chancellor of the Marischal College, the Rector of the Marischal College, the Member for the City of Aberdeen, the Lord Provost and the Dean of Guild of Aberdeen for the time being, to be expended in repairing and rebuilding the College upon their satisfying my Lords that they are in a condition to complete the requisite Buildings within the time and in the manner referred to.

I am, &c.,

[Signed] C. Wood.

From the entry in the College Minutes for 5th July.

NOTE ON COLLEGE BUILDINGS OF 1836-45.*

“The great increase of the regular classes from 1805 to 1815 rendered the necessity for new apartments for teaching obvious. In 1818 plans of two large classrooms, to be erected on the slope next the N. or Observatory Wing, were procured from Mr. John Smith, Architect, but nothing was done in consequence, and the plans had been mislaid or lost on enquiring for them in 1824.

“About the same time, 1818, Government dismantled the Barracks of furniture and offered them for sale. The College made an application to their Chancellor for these buildings, of which the site is by far the best about Aberdeen, but it is understood that an answer was returned which prevented all further requests. And the town of Aberdeen, having made in 1794 a present of the site to Government on condition of Barracks being erected, now naturally interfered to prevent a sale, which was never attempted again.

“In the meantime the great extension of the City of Aberdeen, and the erection of the Public Rooms, and of many other buildings, left the edifice of Marischal College in the background completely as to appearance,* although it was kept in as good repair as it admitted of.

"In the spring of 1824 King's College obtained a grant of £2000 from the Scottish Exchequer, after many years' application, and began to raise subscriptions to repair their buildings, which had been long in a neglected and dilapidated state.

"July 2 (Minute Book). Committee of Dr. Davidson, Dr. Skene, Dr. Knight, and Mr. Cruickshank appointed to manage everything respecting the proposed New Buildings for Marischal College, to obtain surveys and plans from two architects, draw memorials, &c.—in short, to be a standing Committee.

"July 22. Mr. John Smith and Mr. Archibald Simpson after surveying the old buildings minutely gave a report on their state, equivalent to condemning them, so that the Committee determined to proceed only on the idea of new buildings in toto. [Report given in Collections.] The architects at the same time drew a plan of the buildings.†

"July 28. Draft of a Memorial respecting them, made by Dr. Knight, considered and approved. [Memorial given in Collections.] Copies of it transmitted to the Chancellor, Lord Huntly; the Rector, Mr. Hume; and the Provost, Mr. Brown: from all favourable answers were received. That to the Provost was ordered to be engrossed in the Council Minutes, and the plan was generally approved of. [T. C. R., lxxi. 65, 69, 79.]

"Sept. 10. The Chancellor attended a meeting of the University in the Great Hall, and went over the whole of the buildings, expressing his ardent wish to do everything in his power towards a new building. The draft of a petition to the Treasury was presented that day, was subsequently altered, and finally transmitted, Nov. 24.

"Sept. 25. James Young, Surveyor, inspected the buildings and sent a letter to Dr. Skene entirely agreeing to the Report of Messrs. Smith and Simpson in July. Mr. Young's letter and the architects' reports were transmitted to the Treasury with the College petition and memorials. The Album was inspected for the last fifty years, and a list of persons from whom contributions might be expected was made.

"The Committee was now empowered by the Faculty to obtain plans and estimates for new buildings. These Mr. J. Smith declined to furnish; Mr. Simpson made a set of designs and gave an estimate, in making which he was necessarily controlled by the nature of the accommodation required. A memorandum about this was drawn up so early as July. The Committee considered that they had no power to choose any site but the present one. The things insisted on, as a guide to the architect, were:—

"That the new buildings should be in insulated portions; the classrooms to be separated from the central building containing the Great Hall and Library; the Medical classes to be still more insulated.

* [Three different views of the old building are to be found in Wilson's Historical Account and Delineation of Aberdeen, 1822; the Bannatyne Club edition of Spalding's History of the Troubles, 1828; and Stuart's Essays chiefly on Scottish Antiquities, 1846. A fourth, from an oil painting in the possession of the University (made by Mr. Auld in 1840, when the building was partly pulled down), will be given in the second volume of the present work.]

† "Mr. Smith only drew a plan of the old buildings. In 1834 he was paid £12 for inspecting, reporting, and making plans of the College and ground adjacent. In 1828, £50 paid by the College for plans to Mr. Simpson's Trustees."

"The Architecture Grecian, preserving one story externally throughout, to accompany an Ionic portico; but in the interior divisible, where necessary, into two stories, the upper one to be lighted from above.

"The principal classrooms to have accommodation for about 140 or 150: each to have a closet adjoining for the Professor. All on the ground floor, with the exception of the Natural Philosophy. The apartments to be of such size and form as to be adapted for good hearing.

"Mr. Simpson drew a fine set of plans on these ideas, which were ready by April, 1825, and united a simple architecture with elegance and economy. I showed part of them to the Earl of Aberdeen, when visiting at Haddo House in August; and he approved of them. This set of drawings was afterwards destroyed by the fire in Mr. Simpson's house in February, 1828. He also gave a gross estimate in the following terms:—

Centre building 150 feet long by 50 wide 60 high = 450,000 cubic ft. at 6d.	£11,250
Two side buildings, each 80 × 40 × 40 . . . . .	6400
Medical classrooms at end of the yard . . . . .	1500
Allowance for . . . . .	2000
	£21,150

"The idea of insulating the buildings, so useful in case of fire, it became afterwards necessary to give up, from the want of space.

"Oct. 8. Letter from Mr. Herries, Secretary to the Treasury, to the Marquis of Huntly, mentioning that they had remitted to the Barons of the Scottish Exchequer to report on the College Petition.

"Nov. Mr. Hume then in Aberdeen gave a copy of the Treasury Minute on the subject, which was undated [its date was about July 20th], and to this effect:—

"My Lords concur in rebuilding rather than repairing. They account it a case in which a grant of public money may be recommended in addition to private subscription. They remit to the Barons as to the Claim of the College to be maintained under the Act of Union. They require some further information as to the course of education, number of students, &c., and whether the time for giving the lectures, limited as it now is to a few months in the year, is sufficient to render the College so useful as it might be, if the time were more extended and the accommodation for the classes increased under the new plan.

"Nov. 19. Letter from Sir Henry Jardine, King's Remembrancer in Exchequer, to Principal Brown, with specific queries as to lectures, attendance, &c. Full information was sent in a few days.

"January. The plans and estimate had now been sent to the Treasury.

"February. Copies of them, and all the original designs by Mr. Simpson, were unfortunately lost in the great fire which consumed the house in Union Street in which he lived, and whence nothing was saved.

"April 3. Account of proceedings respecting the proposed buildings, memorial, &c., sent to Sir James M'Grigor, now Rector of the University.

"June 9. Dr. Ruddiman of London bequeathed £100 towards the buildings. He died in 1828.*

* Supra, p. 459.
SSS

"July 10. Sir James M'Grigor, having applied frequently at the Treasury, at last got a letter from Mr. Herries to this effect: That the subject had been 'under serious consideration'; that the Lords of the Treasury 'do not feel that any steps can be taken by them until it shall have been previously ascertained how far the Union of the Universities at Aberdeen in one establishment may be practicable'. They delay until the Commission of Visitation about to be issued enquire into this. Lord Liverpool and the Chancellor of the Exchequer (Mr. Robinson) think a union might be highly conducive to the interests of education, &c. The letter ends with a promise of no detriment to existing institutions.

"July 23. The Commission of Visitation dated at Carleton House.

"Aug. 31. Commenced their sittings at Edinburgh.

"Sept. 13. The plans returned by the Treasury in order to be laid before the Commission.

"Thus after two years of activity the appointment of the Royal Commission led to a repose of nine long years, during which nothing effective was accomplished, and all was doubtful.

"May 26. New petition to the Lords of the Treasury ordered to be forwarded to the Rector, the Chancellor being on the Continent.

"Sept. 20. All the Commissioners visiting the College this day inspected the whole of the edifice, the College Church, &c. They examined the architects shortly, and returned the plans which had been placed in their hands by the Treasury. Next day Lord Aberdeen told me that with regard to our buildings there could be no difference of opinion, the present being totally ineffective. This was of his own accord, on my meeting him and the Solicitor General accidentally in Union Street.

"Time crept on; nothing could be done; the Treasury would do nothing but remit to the Commission, and the latter give no report to the King.

"The College thus awkwardly situated for some years. Mr. Farquhar,* too, had died, and his will became the subject of litigation and much talk—finally adjudged by a most unfair sentence of Sir John Nicholl in Doctors' Commons, from which none of the Scots Universities appealed from the nature of the English Ecclesiastical Courts.

"Then the constant buz of uniting King's and Marischal Colleges, confidently stated to be the intention of the Commissioners of Visitation, furnished a drawback against taking any active measures. The only inference now to be made is that had it not been for the Commission of Visitation Marischal College would have had new buildings in 1826 or 1827.

"St. Andrews, through Lord Melville, was more fortunate; money was advanced from the Scottish Exchequer, and new buildings begun in 1829.

"The Exchequer had before this appropriated funds for Marischal College [? Not so specially destined. See above, p. 502, note]. Till a return to the House of Commons in 1831 before the dissolution of their Court appeared in the newspapers, the members of Marischal College had no knowledge of this grant of 1826; nor would they have known yet, had it not been for the fortunate breaking up of the most useless Scottish Exchequer.

* Supra, p. 485. "Joseph Hume applied to Farquhar and found him disposed 'to promote the interest and add to the character of the University'. Afterwards Hume wrote: 'In this I have been disappointed, as I have not yet been able to learn his sentiments and intention'."

“ Principal Brown died 11th May, 1830, and the minister Peel refusing to appoint a successor till the Commission Report should be given, this opposed another obstacle; and the more when that Report was published in 1831, warmly recommending a union and the seat of the United College to be in Old Aberdeen. When Dr. Dewar had been admitted Principal, 12th April, 1832, he and two of his colleagues intriguing much for a union, the subject of new buildings was resumed.

“ April 11. A new memorial to the Treasury recorded.

“ May 18. Mr. Bannerman, M.P. for Aberdeen, wrote that of the grant of £30,000 from the Crown revenues of Scotland St. Andrews had got and expended £13,275, leaving a balance of £16,725 without including interest; also that the Lord Advocate, Jeffrey, had intentions of getting two or three Commissioners sent to Aberdeen to report on the union of the Colleges; and that the Chancellor, Brougham, when he spoke of the Commission Report as having been referred to ‘competent persons’ to digest and report upon it, spoke of ‘imaginary beings’.

“ September. It was given out that Mr. B. had carte blanche to settle about a union himself, nor did his own language lead to any other impression. He got plans of union from various quarters, but soon found all impracticable.

“ At last after ten years something was done.

“ Feb. 27. Mr. Reid, King’s architect for Scotland, arrives in Aberdeen—sent by order of the Treasury to draw plans and report. He remains two days, visits King’s, and has the use of the plans of 1825.

“ Apr. 14. His plan sent, and we approve it on the 15th. Grecian, three stories, but no elevation made. Much taken from Mr. Simpson’s plans of 1825. [Mr. Reid’s Report printed in King’s College, Statement of Proceedings, 1835, pp. 5-12.]

“ May 25. Long letter from Mr. B. to me. Mr. Reid had sent his plan and estimates to London: estimate for Marischal College, £35,000; for King’s additions, £5000. St. Andrews was applying for the whole of the balance of the grant of 1826 through Lord Melville, Andrew Johnston, M.P., and Dr. Cook. The Treasury had ‘found no minute of our former applications’.

“ June 16. Mr. B.’s letter to the Principal and Professors stating that the Treasury would grant warrant for between £18,000 and £19,000 should the College offer to guarantee a building equal in accommodation to that in Reid’s plans to be erected in five years. Accepted: petition to Treasury drawn up and transmitted to-day.

“ July 4. Mr. B. transmits the Treasury warrant [printed above]. He writes that St. Andrews had got £15,130; so that our petition was for £2000 or £3000 more than mentioned above. There is a hiatus of money not accounted for. Two years more elapsed (till Aug. 1, 1836) before the money was paid.

“ Their Lordships termed the prayer of the College memorial of June 16 ‘liberal,’ and considered it quite unnecessary that the King’s architect should be employed. This was a very considerable boon; for Mr. R. Reid, who held that office, was a dull, staid personage, who had acquired much discredit by the plans for the new Custom House of Leith and his repairs at St. Andrews. The latter turned out a great failure. The new building contains four huge classrooms, for which there are very few students.

" Aug. 8. Mr. Bannerman, Lord Rector, at the meeting to-day. Mr. Simpson attended and gave details, but required another week before he could present his design. He had previously (July 12) given an estimate for Mr. Reid's plans at £28,800 (Reid's being £35,000), but considered 'that by adopting a different arrangement and less exterior ornament the same extent of accommodation may be obtained for £25,200'. He now gave in estimates for two sites—the old one and one stretching across the valley of the Denburn from the west end of Belmont Street, occupied at present by buildings of little value.

" Aug. 15. Mr. S. attended with his designs—a Gothic for the present site, a Grecian for the Belmont Street one. In a few days Mr. Giles, painter, made a handsome design in bistre for the latter as it would appear if viewed from Union Bridge. There was a dome with pillars, and the situation was tempting. But the greater space of the present area, the seclusion from noise, its being the ancient site of the College, above all, the fact that it was ours, and that the other would have to be purchased after interruptions and difficulties which might extend over many years, were arguments not to be overcome.* A third site was the area to the S. of the Denburn bridge, extending to Crown Street: great substructions requisite, a bad neighbourhood, and noise from Union Street. A fourth was the area of the Castlehill, including the Barracks and the houses extending to the E. side of Castle Street.

" Aug. 26. The Duke of Gordon sent a handsome letter.

" "Gordon Castle, 24th August, 1834.

" 'I have come to the resolution of following a father's example, who, as Chancellor of King's College, subscribed five hundred pounds for carrying on the repairs of it. I do hope that our buildings will be useful and convenient, and also elegant and ornamental; and I trust the subscriptions will be liberal from both town and country, that we may show to the world that we are not undeserving of the public aid that Government has granted us.'

" Next day the first advertisement soliciting subscriptions appeared.

" Sept. 26. By this date the subscriptions amounted to £4000.

"Apr. 6. Arrangements made for personal applications in Aberdeen: Dr. Cruickshank to act as Collector—an office Provost Blaikie expressed a wish of his son holding, with a salary; but certain of being foiled, he did not bring this forward. This personal solicitation was gradually postponed till the Colleges Union Bill* introduced into Parliament made it be dropped for upwards of a year.

*[A Bill for Uniting King's College and University of Old Aberdeen and Marischal College and University of Aberdeen into One University and College: prepared and brought in by Mr. Bannerman and Mr. Oswald (M.P. for Glasgow). Ordered to be printed 22nd June, 1835.]

"July. That Bill now in full blow all this month, till it was withdrawn amid the dislike of all parties. Meetings of subscribers to the new buildings publish resolutions not to pay should it pass into an Act, on the ground that it formed a kind of College quite different from the one they contributed to.

"Aug. 7. King's College published their Statement.* After finding that Marischal College had got the grant of last year, they had sent a Memorial to the Treasury (Oct. 13, 1834), and a second one six months afterwards (Apr. 21, 1835). Both papers present concealment of facts; the answer to the first was given in April, 1835, 'that no fund exists for a grant to King's College, the late Board of Treasury last year having made a grant of the whole sum at their disposal, to the Marischal College'. The answer to the second Memorial was that 'immediate attention should be paid to it'. The bad spirit to Marischal College exhibited in these Memorials defeated its end. They complain of the want of 'ordinary courtesy' as if not consulted with about the plans of the Medical School, while they dilate on the injustice of attaching that School to Marischal College.

"Nov. The subscriptions had been greatly stopped this year by the agitation of the Bannerman Bill. By the end of 1834 they amounted to nearly £5000. This year (Nov. 6) they had only increased to £5809 18s., of which but £2079 18s. had been paid. A disheartening circumstance; and Mr. B. and his party were at last awakened to their loss of political influence, from the great odium excited by his Bill; and as the Ministry announced their intention of bringing in a Bill to regulate the Universities of Scotland, it required little foresight to perceive that as this might also be lost, there might arise new delays in the buildings of Marischal College.

"Nov. 2. A visit from the Lord Advocate (J. A. Murray) was announced, and on Saturday the 7th he came to the College, and made a rigmarole speech about economy, the uncertainty of obtaining the money of the grant, and the great value of the labours of the late Commission of Visitation. 'His Lordship before leaving inspected the buildings,' i.e., ran over them, for it was 2 o'clock and he was in a hurry to go to King's College to make the same speech.

"Dec. 15. As if the Lord Advocate's opinions and the anticipation of a new Bill had not been sufficiently disheartening to the friends of Marischal College, there arises to-day a new hubbub: Mr. Bannerman sending a letter stating that the plan of the Visitation Commission for abolishing the College by adding it to King's would be followed. There is a stir in town. Provost Blaikie summons a meeting of Town Council on the 18th, and sounds the alarm. On the 19th the College authorises co-operation with them and other public bodies to oppose.

"Dec. 23. The Lord Advocate sends a chiding letter to the Provost denying in toto that any idea of suppressing Marischal College was in contemplation.

"The transactions of this year show how useful proved the failure of the Bannerman Bill, and the subsequent discouragement; different parties became convinced that steps should be taken to get possession of the money granted in 1834.

"Jan. 2. Mr. Simpson's plans and sketches, made in August, 1834, are now resuscitated, re-examined, shown to the Medical Lecturers, and approved.

* [A Statement of the Proceedings of the University and King's College of Aberdeen respecting the Royal Grant to the Scottish Universities and the Bill recently before Parliament for the Union of King's and Marischal Colleges. Aberd., 1835. Pp. 52.]

"Jan. 25. The town of Aberdeen, having seen the approved plan, engage to guarantee the whole security required by the Treasury, provided the subscriptions are paid over to the parties to whom the Government grant of £15,000 is made payable, and that the College gives consent to pledge £2000, of which £500 to be guaranteed from the City Treasury, £500 from individual subscriptions, and £1000 from College Funds. The College accepts, and pledges the Locarium or Building Fund for £300, and the Library and Nat. Phil. Fund for £700.

"Jan. 30. Mr. Simpson has two sets of plans, both having the same Gothic front, contrived as economically as possible, consistently with harmony of proportion and elegance of design. The Grecian front and portico of 1825 obliged to be given up as too costly. The two plans differ only in the arrangement of two classes and in the length of the wings. Both are sanctioned and transmitted to London to-day, with the guarantees.

"Feb. 22. Plans sent back, with a request to the College to select one of them, and to send an estimate of its expense of execution.

"Feb. 27. One is selected and signed, with Mr. Simpson's estimate of £26,565.

"Apr. 1. Treasury minute of 23rd March came approving plan, and promising to pay the £15,000 as soon as they were satisfied that £6000 were paid up; promising, on the £21,000 being expended, to pay the 'accrued interest' on the same. Time for completing, 27th June, 1841.

"Still awkward or untoward circumstances came forward. When the subscriptions had stopped last year from the Bannerman Bill, Provost Blaikie had said in the Town Council that those who refused to pay would be prosecuted. This gave rise to public discussion and irritation.

"June. In the meantime a second Bill* had, after long preparation, been brought into Parliament by the Prime Minister. An excitement, at least equal to that of last year, arose against it, and the same effect of stopping the subscriptions was produced. The delays of the Treasury, the vexations and meetings of all kinds about the Colleges Bill till it was withdrawn in the House of Lords, the quarrel in the newspapers between the Professors of King's College and their Chancellor, Lord Aberdeen, the agitation of the Aberdeen Schools Bill, which was defeated in Committee—all tended to make it appear somewhat uncertain whether the grant of 1834 would be now paid.

"Aug. 1. But it now was. An order for £15,000 from the Remembrancer of the Scottish Exchequer was to-day paid at the Aberdeen Bank.

"Aug. 2. Mr. Simpson had been preparing working plans since March. Advertisements had been published for some weeks past for contractors to execute the work. Eighteen offers for parts of the whole were opened this evening at the Town House, and Alexander Rainnie declared contractor for the whole for the sum of £21,420, the largest sum ever contracted for in Aberdeen.

[Contract dated Sept. 9: recorded in Burgh Court Books Feb. 1 thereafter.]

"Sept. 9. The old buildings given up to the contractor, 'with the exception of the glass cases and other movable presses and furniture, including shelves in and about the same, and also with the exception of the cupolas and frames of the present Observatory and other fixtures therein connected in any respect with the instruments within the same, and of the cupola and bell, inscription stones on the walls, and the chimney frame of the hall, all which they specially reserve and retain'.

"After several proposals it was arranged that the foundation ceremony take place on Tuesday, 18th October. The Duke of Richmond [now Chancellor] engaged to attend, and a committee of gentlemen of all parties was formed to arrange about a dinner and procession. A foundation stone presented, on which Provost Blaikie's name was to be inscribed, and he, assisted by the Masonic bodies, was to preside at laying the stone. All was postponed for a year by the Provost's death, which happened suddenly on Monday, October 3rd, as he was passing the threshold of the Town House; the disease an overloading of the heart with fat; age 51. Dying in office, there was a public funeral on the 11th, a meeting in the County Rooms on the 14th for a monument (which became a statue placed in the vestibule of the East Church), a funeral sermon on the 16th.

"The public celebration was not revived till autumn of next year. The Masonic and other public bodies, who had been disappointed of using the paraphernalia, which they had purchased last year, began to move in it about August; the Professors could have no objection.

"Sept. 25. 18th October fixed on, with approval of the Duke.

"Oct. 2. All subscribers invited to join the procession.

"Oct. 5. The inscription to be inscribed on a brass plate to be placed in the foundation stone, agreed to:—

"Oct. 12. The gentlemen of King's College refuse to walk or to dine gratis, as was offered them on the 2nd.

"A medal was put in hand, Middleton Rettie sending to Birmingham to have it executed. It bore on one side a fine view of the new College 'Founded 1593, rebuilt 1837'; and on the other a short English inscription.

"Oct. 18. The ceremony lasted an hour. The clock, not having been wound up, stopped during the speeches, but was set agoing again. The dinner was in the County Hall at five o'clock, and the Hall was crammed. All went on well: forty-three toasts. None of the King's College professors were present but Dr. Jack. The Earl of Aberdeen, their Chancellor, made several ironical and severe remarks in reference to that body.

"The central pile rose this year to its full elevation, the Tower excepted, of which only the foundations were laid. The roofs of the Hall, Library, and Museum were completed in November.

1839.

"The Arcades in front of the central pile began to be raised to their full height of two stories. And the Central Tower gradually advanced, till at the end of the year it wanted only the range of pannelled stones and the four turrets at the corners. The S. wing was taken down, and the new S. wing so advanced as to be roofed in in November. The old windows were sold at good prices as relics.

1841.

"The Lords of the Treasury, having been satisfied, from an examination by their agent, that the sum of £21,000 had been expended, ordered the accrued interest, amounting to £5853 9s. 2d. to be paid to the same Commissioners, by means of which they were enabled nearly to complete the building."

1844.

[June 3. Mr. Simpson reports the completion of the works in terms of the Contract.

July 11. Mr. Rainnie grants to the Commissioners for Rebuilding the College, a Discharge for the full payment of the Contract price; recorded in Burgh Court Books, July 13.

1845.

Nov. 1. The Chancellor, Rector, Dean of Faculty, Principal and Professors, grant a final Discharge to the Commissioners homologating their whole actions and intromissions; recorded same day.

Mrs. Josephine Booth or Launie, by her last will and testament, bequeaths £500 to the Principal and Professors for the maintenance of two bursars. 10th December, 1834.

In the fourth place to the Principal and Professors of Marischal College and University of Aberdeen the sum of Five hundred pounds Sterling for the foundation and endowment of two Philosophy Bursaries in that College to be in the gift of my said Trustees and to be bestowed by them on such deserving youth as they shall think proper. Boys of the surname of Booth being always to be preferred if otherwise eligible.

CXXXVI.

Whereas by an Act passed in the Fifty fourth Year of the Reign of His late Majesty King George the Third intituled An Act to amend the several Acts for the Encouragement of Learning by securing the Copies and Copyright of Printed Books to the Authors of such Books or their Assigns, it is among other Things enacted that Eleven Copies of every published Book shall be gratuitously delivered to Eleven Public Libraries named in the said Act: And whereas the Provisions of the said Act have in certain respects operated to the Injury of Authors and Publishers, and have in some Cases checked or prevented the Publication of Works of great Utility and Importance, and it is therefore expedient that the said Act should be amended: Be it

* Mr. Smith states that Mrs. Launie died "more than a year ago," and that the Trustees under her will are Bishop Skinner, Charles Winchester, Advocate, Aberdeen, and James Forbes of the Excise Office, Campbeltown, Argyll. The settlement seems to have become the subject of litigation (College Minutes for 16th Nov., 1839). The Commissioners of 1858 report (iv. 267) a capital of £574 17s. 6d., and the current Calendar gives the bursaries as two of £7 10s. each or thereby.

therefore enacted . . . That so much of the said recited Act as requires that a Copy of every Book which shall be printed and published shall be delivered in manner therein mentioned to the Warehouse Keeper of the Company of Stationers for the use of the Library of Sion College, the Libraries of the Four Universities of Scotland, and the King's Inn's Library at Dublin, shall be and the same is hereby repealed.

II. And be it further enacted, That it shall be lawful for the Lord High Treasurer or for the Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, or any Three or more of them, from Time to Time to issue and pay out of the Consolidated Fund of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, to the Person or Persons or Body Politic or Corporate, Proprietors or Managers of each of the aforesaid Libraries, Such an annual Sum as may be equal in Value and a Compensation for the Loss which any Such Library may sustain by reason of the said Act being repealed, so far as relates to such Library; such annual Compensation to be ascertained and determined according to the Value of the Books which may have been actually received by each such Library, in such Manner as the Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury or any Three or more of them shall direct, upon an Average of the Three Years ending the Thirtieth Day of June One Thousand eight hundred and thirty six.

III. And be it further enacted, That the Person or Persons or Body Politic or Corporate, Proprietors or Managers of the Library for the use whereof any such Book would have been delivered, shall and they are hereby required to apply the annual Compensation hereby authorised to be made in the Purchase of Books of Literature, Science and the Arts, for the use of and to be kept and preserved in such Library: Provided always, that it shall not be lawful for the said Lord High Treasurer or Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury to direct the Issue of any Sum of Money for Such annual Compensation until sufficient Proof shall have been adduced before him or them of the Application of the Money last issued to the Purpose aforesaid.

Act 6 and 7 William IV., Cap. 110.*

* The original Bill introduced into Parliament by Mr. Buckingham differed in toto from the Act, and proposed to give a definite sum of £3000 to ten of the eleven privileged libraries in lieu of their rights—apportioned thus:—

Oxford and Cambridge—£500 each	£1000
Glasgow, Aberdeen, Edinburgh, and Trinity College, Dublin—£300 each	1200
St. Andrews, Faculty of Advocates, Sion College, and King's Inn—£200 each	800
	£3000

And to the eleventh (the British Museum taking the place of the Royal Library) to allow such a sum as would purchase a copy of every work printed or engraved within the British Dominions.

The sums assigned to the four Scottish Universities were—St. Andrews £630, Glasgow £707, Aberdeen £320, Edinburgh £575. From the value of the books received, as returned by the Colleges, the Treasury deducted 25 per cent., on the ground that the Colleges could purchase with that discount.

It follows that Aberdeen has received since 1837 some £12,000 less of public money than the average of the sums paid to the four Universities, a grievance that has been recognised by Parliament in Act 52 and 53 Vict., cap. 55 (30th August, 1889), which provides that over and above the average amount of public moneys hitherto received annually by the University of Aberdeen, the said University shall in future "receive an annual sum of £320 for the purchase of books for the Library".

Three Memorials (Jan. 10, 1837; Jan. 16, 1838; Sept. 17, 1838) were presented by Marischal College to the Treasury, praying that one-half of the Compensation Grant might be paid to that University. According to Treasury Minute of July 22, 1839, "My Lords, adverting to the recommendation contained in the Reports of the Royal Commission [of 1836-7] upon Aberdeen University for a Union of the Colleges at Aberdeen, are not prepared to consent to a division of the Fund for the separate use of the two Colleges. . . . The books to be purchased by that money are not for the use of King's College alone, but jointly for the use of Marischal College as forming a part of the University of Aberdeen, and as entitled hitherto and under the decision of the Court of Session in 1738" (supra, p. 389).

Four years before the Act of 1836 became law, a Bill of a like character, but restricted in its application to Aberdeen alone, and much more favourable to her interests, not merely was introduced into Parliament by Government, but met with the approval of both Houses.

On 23rd July, 1832, a letter in the following terms was received by the Principals of King's and Marischal Colleges:—

"TREASURY CHAMBERS,
"20th July, 1832.

"Gentlemen,—The Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, being desirous of ascertaining whether the Learned Bodies over which you preside would be disposed to surrender to the Crown the right which they possess to certain Printed Books, under the Act of Her late Majesty Queen Anne, upon condition of receiving in lieu thereof an annual sum of £400, together with a salary of £50 for a Librarian; I am commanded by their Lordships to request that you will lay this proposition before King's College and Marischal College, and communicate to my Lords their determination thereon.

"I am, Gentlemen,

"Your obed. Servant,

[Signed] "T. SPRING RICE.

"The Revd. the Principals of "King's College and Marischal College,
"Aberdeen."

The Senatus of King's College at once agreed to accept the terms proposed, on the understanding that all the books to be purchased with the money should be lodged in their library. The Senatus of Marischal College came to the same decision, but "on the express condition of reserving the equality of right belonging to this University under the decision of the Court of Session".

Mr. Spring Rice lost no time in acting upon the replies received, for on Saturday, 28th June, he made a statement on the subject in the House of Commons, and moved for a Committee to sit on Monday.* On the 31st the Committee's report was brought up and leave given to introduce the Bill. Next day it was read a first time and ordered to be printed.

The principal provisions are given below. The preamble is curious, and seemingly irrelevant.

"A Bill to authorise the Purchase of the Rights of Literary Property enjoyed by the King's and Marischal Colleges in Aberdeen.

"Whereas the interchange of Literary Property between the United Kingdom and France would promote the Interests of Literature and Science, and a cordial Intercourse between the two Countries; and it is expedient, for removing impediments to and thereby facilitating such interchange, that the Rights and Privileges in relation to Literary Property now enjoyed by King's College and Marischal College, in Aberdeen, under several Acts passed in the Eighth year of the reign of her Majesty Queen Anne, the Forty-first and Fifty-fourth years of the reign of his Majesty King George the Third respectively, should be purchased, and the same vested in His Majesty, His Heirs and Successors; . . . Be it enacted . . . that the Lord High Treasurer, or Commissioners of the Treasury of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, or any Three or more of them for the time being, and the respective Principals of King's College and the Marischal College, in Aberdeen, may and they are hereby respectively empowered to agree for the payment of a Sum of Five Hundred Pounds, to be paid out of the Consolidated Fund of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, for the Purchase and Sale of all Rights and Privileges in relation to Literary Property now enjoyed by the said King's College and Marischal College, at Aberdeen; . . . and immediately upon the execution of such Agreement as aforesaid, all the Rights and Privileges in relation to Literary Property now enjoyed by the said Colleges respectively, under the said several Acts of Parliament or any or either of them, shall cease and determine, and become vested in His Majesty, His Heirs and Successors, for the purposes of this Act; any thing in the said several Acts or either of them to the contrary notwithstanding.

"Provided always, and it is hereby enacted, that the Money which under the authority of this Act will become payable to the King's College and Marischal College of Aberdeen, shall not be applied to pay any Salary but that of the Librarian, in such proportion as may be fixed in the Agreement to be made by the said Colleges with the Commissioners of the Treasury for the time being; and that the remainder, after paying that Salary, shall be applicable, and shall be wholly applied in the purchase of Literary Works for the use of the Library of the two Colleges."

Aug. 2. The London booksellers and publishers petition against the Bill. The petition concealed the true motive of the opposition, which was that the petitioners knew Government would collect the Books strictly, while the Aberdeen Colleges could not do so for want of funds.

* Hansard, 3, xiv. 896.

Aug. 3. Bill is read a second time.

Aug. 4. Passes through Committee.

Aug. 7. Is read a third time in the Commons, and a first time in the Lords.

Aug. 8. Is read a second time, and passes through Committee in the Lords.

Aug. 9. The publishers' petition is laid on the table of the House of Lords.*

Aug. 16. Parliament is prorogued.

Aug. 23. The Treasury sends a letter to the Colleges intimating that "the Legislature has not sanctioned the agreement proposed to you by this Board".

"The offer was indeed made by them to Aberdeen solely from a blunder of supposing that each of the Universities there received a book. This began the correspondence on a project which was too good to have a successful issue. The subject then slept for four years" (Knight).

CXXXVII.

James Kinloch, London, by his last will and testament, bequeaths £1000 to the College for the maintenance of three bursars. 29th August, 1836.

I give and bequeath to the several and respective Treasurers or other proper Officers of the four following Charities and Institutions at Aberdeen in North Britain aforesaid who shall be duly and legally authorised to take and receive the same for the benefit of such Charities and Institutions respectively the sum of One thousand Pounds each namely—The Infirmary the Lunatic Asylum the Poor's Hospital and the Marischal College (for three Bursaries)

"John S. Blackie.

"King Street, Thursday.

"Mr Blackie—'I wish it to be distinctly understood, and I request that the Clerk be ordered to put it on record, that I have subscribed this Confession of Faith not as my private Confession of Faith, nor as a Churchman learned in Theology, but in my public professional capacity, and in reference to University offices and duties merely. I am a warm friend of the Church of Scotland, and I have been accustomed to worship according to the Presbyterian form, and will continue to do so; but I am not sufficiently learned in Theology to be able to decide on many articles of the Confession of Faith.'

"Mr Pirie then said that this should have been stated before signing—and that the Presbytery sitting there had nothing to do with any gentleman's mental reservations; whereupon Mr Blackie said, 'I have no reservations—I make a public declaration—and I do so for the sake of the Presbytery as well as for the vindication of my own liberty of conscience. If the Presbytery is dissatisfied with my declaration, they are now at liberty to bring an action against me, on my own confession, and eject me. As to the matter of record, if my declaration does not appear on the Presbytery's books, it will appear in the public papers, and that is all I want.' Mr. Pirie said that he did not mean to say that I had any reservations. The Presbytery held unanimously that such explanations could not be put on record, and the matter dropped.

"You will consult your Reporter as to the general accuracy of the account here given. I can warrant what I said. You will see the material matter for me is, that I repudiate anything like mental reservation. I give fair warning to all concerned. I hold that, in law, a non-theological Professor is not subject to the spiritual jurisdiction of the Church. He signs the articles as articles of peace only.

"J. S. B."

The Presbytery met, 12th August, to consider this letter and other statements made public by Mr. Blackie's authority, and "resolved to warn the Senatus Academicus of Marischal College of the circumstances of the case, and to intimate to them that the Presbytery deem it to be their duty, pro tempore, to recall the certificate formerly granted to Mr. Blackie, to the effect that he had signed the Confession of Faith in terms of the statute". At a subsequent meeting, on 3rd September, the Presbytery found "that Mr. John Stuart Blackie has not signed the Confession of Faith, as the confession of his faith, in conformity with the terms of the Act of Parliament".

On 30th September Mr. Blackie appeared before the Senatus, and produced his presentation and the certificate of Presbytery; but the Senatus refused to admit him in the meantime, and resolved to submit the case for the opinion of Counsel. The Counsel consulted being of opinion that the memorialists "were not bound in the circumstances to admit Mr. Blackie," a resolution to postpone his admission sine die was approved of, 28th October; and Dr. Melvin was appointed to teach the Humanity Classes during the ensuing winter.

A summons of declarator was therefore served upon the members of Senatus at the instance of Mr. Blackie, for the purpose of having it ordained by the Court of Session that he be admitted without delay. The Senatus lodged defences. Lord Ordinary Cunninghame, by interlocutor of 18th February, 1841, "finds the Presbytery not entitled to enter appearance in the present action, and therefore repels the motion of the Presbytery and allows the pursuer and the proper defenders called in the action to complete the Record on the merits". The Presbytery thereafter withdrew the objections, and Mr. Blackie was formally admitted by the Senatus, 3rd July, 1841 (Summons of Declarator, J. S. Blackie against Marischal College, 31st Dec., 1839; Defences, The Marischal College in causa J. S. Blackie, 20th Feb., 1840; Mr. Blackie's letters in Aberdeen Constitutional, 5th July; Aberdeen Journal, 10th July; Aberdeen Herald, 7th Sept., 1839; Interlocutor in Journal of 31st March, 1841).

Under the Act 16 and 17 Victoria, cap. 89 (20th August, 1853), it became unnecessary for any Professor not holding a Chair of Theology or Principalship to subscribe the Declaration required by the Act of Queen Anne; the following being substituted:—

"I, A. B., do solemnly and sincerely, in the presence of God, profess, testify and declare, That as Professor of _____, and in the Discharge of the said Office, I will never endeavour, directly or indirectly, to teach or inculcate any Opinions opposed to the Divine Authority of the Holy Scriptures, or to the Westminster Confession of Faith as ratified by Law in the Year One thousand six hundred and ninety, and that I will not exercise the Functions of the said office to the Prejudice or Subversion of the Church of Scotland as by Law established, or the Doctrines and Privileges thereof."

The Act further explained the words "Chair of Theology" to mean the Chairs of Divinity, of Church History, of Biblical Criticism, and of Hebrew in any of the Universities, and the Principalships in the same, except in Marischal College, Aberdeen, and in the United College, St. Andrews.

By Acts 21 and 22 Vict., cap. 83, § 3 (2nd August, 1858), and 22 and 23 Vict., cap. 24 (13th August, 1859), the Principals of Glasgow, of Aberdeen [United Universities], and of Edinburgh were relieved from the necessity of subscribing the declaration required by the Act of Anne. And as these sheets are passing through the press the last remnant of a theological test has been removed, so far as relates to lay chairs, by the Act 52 and 53 Vict., cap. 55 (30th August, 1889), which repeals the Acts 16 and 17 Vict., cap. 89, and 22 and 23 Vict., cap. 24, in so far as providing "that any person shall make or subscribe the declaration set forth in the second section of the first-named Act".

Dr. William Boxill, by his last will and testament, bequeaths £700 3 per cent. Consols, to found a Mathematical bursary. 16th July, 1846.

Extract from the Will of William Boxill formerly of the Island of Barbados in the West Indies—then of Piccadilly—but late of Woburn Square in the County of Middlesex and Kingdom of Great Britain, Esquire, M.D.

"I give and bequeath unto my said Executors the sum of £700 £3 per cent. Consolidated Annuities Upon trust to pay the Dividends and annual income thereof, amounting to the sum of £21, from and immediately after my decease, unto Elizabeth Sherriff or Sherriffs residing in Aberdeen in North Britain, daughter of the late Isabella Sherriff or Sherriffs formerly Isabella Nairne, during the term of her natural life, for her own use and benefit. And from and after her decease, I give the said sum of £700 Consolidated Annuities to the New Town College of Aberdeen as a Mathematical Bursary, the dividends and income thereof to be gained by competition in the usual way, and I direct the said sum of £700 to be transferred to the Treasurer, Trustees, or other Officers of the said College, to be held by them in trust for the purposes aforesaid."

The Will is dated 16th July, 1846, and was proved 30th Nov., 1846, by George Dicken and Sam<sup>l</sup> Miller, two of the Executors named in the Will.

The Testator died the 16th October, 1846.

* See also Minutes of June 14 and Sept. 27, 1847. By payment of legacy duty the bequest was reduced to £630. The Commissioners of 1859 (Ordinance No. 39, Aberdeen No. 19) provided that the income of the Boxill foundation should be awarded as a second prize to the graduate in Arts who should take the second best place in the examination for honours in the department of Mathematics (the Simpson—a King's College—prize going to the most distinguished). The current Calendar [1889-90] states the income as about £28.

Mrs. Ann Bruce, Widow of Ninian Bruce, Surgeon, Royal Military College, mortifies the sum of £250 for the maintenance of a bursar. 1st May, 1849.

16 Portland Place, Brighton,
1st May, 1849.

Sir,

On the 28th ult. I paid the sum of Two hundred and fifty pounds into the Bank of Messrs. Barclay, Bevan, Tritton, & Co., to the credit of Marischal College, Aberdeen, on account of the North of England Banking Comp<sup>y</sup>, for the purpose of founding a Bursary in the College. I should wish the Bursary to be for periods of four years in the Classes of Languages and Philosophy; to be given at the usual Competition for such Bursaries, the Bursary to be in the name of Ninian Bruce, and in case of equality of merit the name of Bruce to be preferred. I have no wish whatever to retain the patronage. The Rev. John Keith will explain further particulars to you relative to Miss Cassie.

The Town Council found a gold medal to be awarded to the best student in the Magistrand Class. 2nd September, 1850.

The same day the Clerk laid before the Council a Report by a Committee of their number in reference to Medals being presented annually to the best scholars in the fourth class of Marischal College and in the fourth or fifth class of the Grammar School, of which Report the tenor follows:—

* See Minutes of Sept. 7, 1848, and May 8, 1849. The Commissioners of 1876 report (iv. 268) a capital of £312 11s. 9d.; and the current Calendar gives the bursary as of the value of £8 10s., or thereby, open to competition.

“Your Committee, in accordance with the remit from the Council of date the 1st of April last, now beg to state that they have considered the proposal then submitted by the Dean of Guild on the above subject, and that they would recommend that the Magistrates and Council should present every year a Gold Medal to the Student in the Fourth Class of Marischal College on his taking his Degree, and a Silver Medal to the regular Student in either the Fourth or the Fifth Class of the Grammar School who shall be reported by the Senatus of the College and the Rector of the Grammar School respectively as having made the greatest proficiency in the various branches of study . . .”

Which Report having been read over to, and considered by, the Council, they approved of the same, and of the recommendation therein contained . . .

Dr. Cruickshank, Secretary of Marischal College.

Aberdeen, 10th September, 1856.

My dear Sir,

I have now the pleasure of informing you that, as Agent for Miss Melvin, the Sister and Executrix of the late Dr. James Melvin, I have arranged with Mr. John Yeats, as Agent for the Heir at Law, for the presentation to Marischal College of the Library of Dr. Melvin, with the exception of such volumes as have been selected by Miss Melvin and her Brother; and I have farther to inform you that Miss Melvin will be glad to deliver the Books with the Deceased's Library Desk and chair to the Senatus when convenient for them to receive them, as a memorandum of the deep interest her late Brother took in his Alma Mater and as an acknowledgment of the marks of respect and kindness which were repeatedly shewn him, not only by the Senatus but by his students and fellow citizens.

The only condition I would suggest to the gift is that the Library be left separate and preserved generally as a Library of Reference, and that it be distinguished as the Library of James Melvin, LL.D., Rector of the Grammar School of Aberdeen, and Teacher of Humanity in Marischal College.

Yours very truly,

[Signed] Francis Edmond.

Endorsed. While I approve of the foregoing Letter I must express a wish that, as the writer of it had in my opinion been the means of saving the Library for the College, he take a supervision of the Library during his Life.

From the original letter in the Mar. Coll. Charter Room.*

* By a Trust Disposition and Deed of Settlement, executed 8th September, 1875 (registered in Books of Council and Session, 19th November, 1875), Miss Melvin, then Mrs. Dun, provided: "It is my wish that any parts still in my house of the library of my late brother, Doctor James Melvin, which I some time ago presented to Marischal College, shall be delivered by my Executors to the University of Aberdeen after my death, to be placed in the buildings of Marischal College, together with the library desk or table which belonged to him. . . . Lastly, with regard to the residue of my whole estate, I leave and bequeath one half thereof as a fund to be laid out by my Trustees in improving and enlarging the library handed over by me to be placed and retained in the Marischal College buildings as the library of my said late brother, Doctor James Melvin, or in improving the room in which it is at present placed."

Mrs. Dun died 16th September, 1875. In the following year the Senatus obtained an opinion of Counsel favourable to a proposal to remove Dr. Melvin's library to King's College, the seat of the Library of the United Universities. From a discharge, granted 6th March, 1886, by the Senatus to Mrs. Dun's Trustees, it appears that the latter had "expended £163 in rebinding and improving the books, and £193 in providing oak presses for them"; and "towards the expense of a stained glass window in the new library in memory of Dr. James Melvin, and in connection with his library, such a sum as would leave at least £250 for the purchase of additional books to be added to Dr. James Melvin's library (one of the Trustees [Dr. Francis Edmond] having undertaken to supply what farther might be required for payment of the whole expense of the window)". The sum of £250 referred to is kept as "a separate fund for the purchase of books on the Greek and Latin languages and literature". The window is of four lights, three appropriated to representations of George Buchanan, Arthur Johnston, and Thomas Ruddiman, representative Latinists of the sixteenth, seventeenth, and eighteenth centuries; while the Alexander Henderson of Caskieben mortifies the sum of £1000 Bank of England Stock for the endowment of a Chair of Medical Logic and Medical Jurisprudence. 26th August, 1857.

I Alexander Henderson of Caskieben, Doctor of Medicine, considering that great part of the errors and imperfections of Medical Science proceeds from ignorance or neglect of the rules of right reasoning, that discredit has been brought on the Medical Profession by the fallacies, inconsistencies, and rash inferences which too often pervade and vitiate the evidence given by Physicians and Surgeons in Commissions of Inquiry and in Courts of Justice, and that a course of instruction in Medical Logic ought to form an essential Branch of Medical Education; considering farther that Medical Logic and Medical Jurisprudence might be advantageously conjoined and made to illustrate each other, and desiring to give effect to these views: I therefore do hereby Give, Grant, and Mortify to the Principal and Professors of the Marischal College and University of Aberdeen the sum of One Thousand Pounds now standing in my name of the Capital Stock of the Bank of England, and I bind and oblige myself and my heirs, executors, and successors to transfer to the name of the Principal and Professors of the said College and University the said amount of Stock of the Bank of England in such due and habile form as may be required by the rules or practice of the said Bank; for the purpose of founding,

(The Melvin Memorial Window in the University Library [Professor Geddes], 1885.)

The present librarian, Mr. Robert Walker, reports that the number of volumes in the Melvin library was originally 6984. “This number was increased by a donation of about 200 volumes, mostly choice editions of classical authors, presented by Dr. Melvin’s friend, Dr. Francis Edmond. The Library contains a rare collection of works on the Latin Language and Literature, to which department especially the recent gift by Dr. Edmond has contributed valuable additions. Next to Latin books it is representative in its collection of works on Scottish Literature and Scottish History, Ecclesiastical and Civil. There are also many fine editions of Greek Classics, and a large number of works of the 16th and 17th centuries of a controversial character both in Philosophy and in Theology, mostly in Latin.”

and declare that the Professor to be nominated, presented and admitted from time to time as aforesaid shall be entitled to the yearly produce of the said Mortification under deduction of the necessary expenses attending the execution and management thereof, and that at two terms in the year, Whitsunday and Martinmas, by equal portions, commencing the payment of the first half-year's Salary at Whitsunday next. . . .

"Victoria R.

"Victoria by the Grace of God of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland Queen, Defender of the Faith: To the Chancellor, Dean of Faculty, Principal and Professors of the Marischal College and University of Aberdeen, greeting. Whereas you have by your Memorial humbly represented unto Us, that the Senatus have received a Deed executed by Alexander Henderson of Caskieben, Doctor of Medicine, founding in the University of Aberdeen a Professorship of Medical Logic and Medical Jurisprudence, endowing it with the annual produce of One Thousand Pounds Bank of England Stock, constituting the Senatus Patrons of it, and enjoining them to nominate Doctor Francis Ogston, now Lecturer on Medical Jurisprudence, to be the First Professor. That this Professorship being one of those which are much wanted in the said University, Memorialists are unanimously of opinion that it would be greatly conducive to the credit of the University and to the Interests of Medical Science. That Memorialists have considered it their duty to apply in the first instance for Our Royal Sanction to the admission of this new Professorship into the said University. The Memorialists have therefore humbly prayed that We will be pleased to grant Our Royal Sanction to the admission of the proposed Professorship in terms of the Founder's Deed. Now know ye that We of Our Princely Grace and special favour have given and granted, and do by these Presents give and grant Our Royal Sanction to the admission of the Proposed Professorship in terms of the Founder's Deed.

Aberdeen, 5th October, 1857.

To John Webster, Esq., Provost of Aberdeen.

My Dear Sir,

I should feel obliged by your asking the Town Council to accept the enclosed sum of £75 17s., being repayment, with interest, of a small Bursary I held from the Council when a Student at Marischal College.

My wish would be that the amount should be allowed to accumulate under charge of the Master of Mortifications till the interest be at least £5 (with a small surplus for farther accumulation as is the practice with regard to your Bursaries), and that that sum be given annually as a Prize or Medal for the best Latin and Greek Poem, alternately; the Prize to be open to all under-graduates of Marischal College, and all other arrangements with respect to the subject, mode of competition, &c., to rest with the Professors in the Faculty of Arts.

As the Bursary was one of Dr. Duncan Liddel's, I should wish in gratitude to him, and to keep the name of a very learned man, and one of the most generous benefactors of Marischal College before the Students, that the Prize be called 'The Liddel Prize or Medal'.

If, however, the Council think it would be too troublesome to open an account for so small a sum, I beg they will apply the amount sent to the purposes of Education in Marischal College in any way they may think fit.

I am,

My Dear Sir,

Your very truly,

[Signed] Al. Kilgour.

Alexander Henderson of Caskieben, by a Codicil to his Deed of Settlement, bequeaths his books, pictures, &c., to the College Library and Museum. 11th December, 1857.

I, Alexander Henderson of Caskieben, in the county of Aberdeen, . . . do hereby legate and bequeath to the persons and learned and charitable Institutions aftermentioned the sums of money and articles after specified, each of the said legacies to be paid free and clear of all legacy duty. . . . 7th. To the Library of the Marischal College, Aberdeen, my Collection of Books in Curzon Street and at Caskieben, with the exception of such Volumes as I may direct by a separate memorandum to be otherwise disposed of. To the Museum of the said College my pictures, drawings, marbles, vases, bronzes, and medals, which, though not of high value, may assist in forming and diffusing among my fellow townsmen a taste for the fine Arts, and may lead to farther bequests of a similar kind. And in order that the said College may not incur expense in the removal of the said books, pictures, and other articles above mentioned, I authorise and direct my said Trustees and Executors to expend the sum of Three hundred pounds in effecting the removal of the said Articles to the said Marischal College and in placing the same. . . . In witness whereof these presents . . . are subscribed by me at London on the eleventh day of December, one thousand eight hundred and fifty seven. . . . (Signed) Al. Henderson.

And I will and appoint that after providing the said annual sum for such School Bursaries, which are to be denominated "The Dingwall Bursaries," the remaining interest or produce of said sum of Five hundred Pounds is to be given as a Bursary to a Student attending Marischall College and University; but in bestowing said College Bursary it is my wish and desire that a preference be given in the first place to a youth of the name of "Dingwall," born in the Parish of Auchterless; in the second place to any one of the name of "Forsyth," also born in said parish; in the third place to boys of the name of "Dingwall" and "Forsyth" ("Dingwall" having the priority), in any of the other parishes of the Presbytery of Turriff; and in the fourth place to youths of the parish of Auchterless, of whatever name, who may appear under all circumstances to the Moderator and Members of Presbytery of Turriff the most deserving, but with full power to the Members of said Presbytery to withdraw said Bursary at any termination of a College Session, should the student by misconduct, indolence, or inefficiency fail in his annual examinations. I also will and appoint that this College Bursary shall in like manner be denominated "The Dingwall Bursary". And as it would overload this deed to endeavour to provide for all the events and emergencies that may arise in dealing with this Bursary and those in the Parish School, I entertain so much confidence in the discretion and sound sense of the Members of Presbytery, present and future, that they are hereby authorised and empowered, without the interference of other parties, to exercise full discretion in the way and manner of giving effect to my wishes, and in laying down further conditions under which said bursaries are to be bestowed. . . . In witness whereof I have subscribed these presents . . . at Turriff, the Third day of June, Eighteen hundred and fifty eight years . . . (Signed) George Dingwall.

Dr. Cruickshank laid before the Senatus a letter of the 31st ult. from Sir John Forbes, M.D., London, offering to present to this College, his Alma Mater, his Medical Library, consisting of between 2500 and 3000 volumes in English, French, Latin, and German, if the gift be acceptable, and if the Senatus will pay the expense of transmitting the books. The Senatus directed the Secretary to express their most sincere thanks to Sir John Forbes, to state that the gift will be highly valued, and to promise the ready payment of the expense that may be incurred in removing the books.

From the College Minutes, 5th April, 1859.†

* Mr. Dingwall died 15th January, 1862. The current Calendar [1889-90] gives the annual value of the Bursary as about £15.

† The collection numbers 3830 volumes.

*Dr. Neil Arnott* founds a Scholarship of £50 to promote the study of Physics, 1859-69.*

London, 15 June, 1859,
2 Cumberland Terrace, Regent's Park.

My dear Sir,

When you were last in town I made efforts to see you, but without success. I desired to converse with you on a design which I had long entertained in regard to my old Alma Mater, the Marischal College of Aberdeen. It is natural to feel regard for the school where we have received useful knowledge. I wished to testify that feeling towards Marischal College, and in a way that might be useful to future students there.

I had early become convinced that a more careful and special study of Natural Philosophy than had yet been followed anywhere by students of Medicine was essential to high proficiency in their art, and that in regard to other persons also who seek a good or liberal education the same department of knowledge is very important; for every day is showing more and more that the advancing civilisation of the world is closely connected with Engineering Skill, of which Natural Philosophy is the chief foundation.

It appears to me, therefore, that if I invest a thousand pounds (or more if required) to increase the income or means of the Professor of Natural Philosophy in the Marischal College, so as to enable him to give more extended illustrations of his subjects to Medical Students, and to offer to young persons generally in Aberdeen, at a very moderate charge, in Evening Lectures or otherwise, the kind of information to which I refer, I shall be aiding a useful work not unlikely to be repeated elsewhere.

I have been lately led to fear, however, that changes threatened in the College arrangements at Aberdeen, among which I am told is contemplated the removal of the Chair of Natural Philosophy to the Old Town, and therefore to a distance from many of those whose advantage I had in view, may interfere with my design. May I then request that you, who are now the chief Magistrate of the City, watching over its interests, will cause to be sent to me any information on the subject which you think I should possess.

I remain, my dear Sir,

Yours, &c.,

Neil Arnott.

II.

London, 30th October, 1866.

To the Senatus Academicus of The University of Aberdeen.

A person who during a portion of early life has resided near the open sea, having received personal experience of the striking phenomena exhibited there with changes of weather, and who during another period has lived among mountain and river scenes, witnessing the aspects peculiar to these, and who finally passed years in a considerable city with seaport, where the arts of advanced civilization were flourishing—when such a person afterwards, in a University career, comes to understand that nearly all the variety of phenomena seen by him are but so many results of a few simple laws of motion and change easily comprehended by him, and which he may afterwards apply to new purposes of utility, he naturally feels intense interest and satisfaction. Such nearly were the fortunes of the writer of these lines, and who soon after completing his studies was in the public service led to visit different climates.

I have the conviction that any public usefulness I may have shewn, as well as my success in life, I owe in a great degree to the advantages afforded me in the Study of Natural Philosophy in Marischal College, Aberdeen, under Professor Copland, a most able teacher, using admirable apparatus for illustration. It had consequently long been my wish to testify in some way my gratitude towards my Alma Mater, and at the same time, if I could, to awaken in future students a just appreciation of the general study of Natural Science. Accordingly, about the time of the union of the two Colleges in Aberdeen I offered, through Provost Webster, £1000, or more if required, to allow the Lectures on Natural Philosophy to be continued where I myself had studied, near the centre of the town, and some of them to be opened for a moderate fee to inhabitants of the town without matriculation, as had been done by Professor Copland; but it appears that such a plan has not yet been found convenient.

It gives a striking view of the progress of the arts of civilization to reflect that when many persons still living were born there was not in existence a Watt's Steam-engine, such as are now all over the world labouring for man, nor a Gas-light, nor a Railway, nor a Steam-ship, nor the Electrical Telegraph, nor photographs, nor many of the other things which within a century have changed entirely the condition of the Human Race on the globe, and it may be noted that everyone of the particulars here specified had its origin in the British Isles.

There are two modes of studying Natural Philosophy; one by means of the higher Mathematics, as practised, for example, by those who calculate and foretell in the Nautical Almanac the apparent Lunar distances for years to come. This way is so hard that only a minority of learners choose to travel by it. The other way is that called the Mathematics of common sense and common experience, sketched in my book on Physics, which almost all may travel with ease, and which proves a valuable introduction to the higher study. Let it be noted, however, that none of the valuable novelties above named required in the inventors a knowledge of the higher mathematics. The narrower range of study, called Experimental Physics, includes the consideration of the most useful applications of Science to common life. What I desire to encourage, in the first instance, is that narrower study, having the conviction that it will eventually increase the number of those who advance beyond it.

Accordingly I make offer to the University of the sum of £50, to be applied at the end of the present session as a Scholarship or prize to the student of the magistrand class who, having passed for his degree, shall most distinguish himself in an examination on the following subjects:—Practical or Applied Mechanics, Hydrostatics, Pneumatics, Acoustics, Optics, Heat, Electricity, and Astronomy (treated independently of the higher mathematics).

The present offer is intended as a trial, the result of which may guide me in founding a permanent Scholarship for the ends I have stated.

It was to facilitate the diffused acquisition of the knowledge of nature suited to the mass of the people in any civilized nation that I composed the Elements of Physics, by reference to which my wishes and intentions as regards the proposed Scholarship may be clearly interpreted.

To

of the University of Aberdeen.

With reference to my former letter addressed to you of date 30th October, 1866, I herewith transmit the sum of one thousand pounds to be the Foundation of a permanent Prize of the nature referred to in that letter. The above amount is to be placed to the credit of an account entitled "Dr. Arnott's Prize," and is to be invested by the Senatus in the same manner as they invest other funds belonging to the University, and the Interest or annual Income is in all time coming to be applied as a Scholarship or prize to the Student of the magistrand class who, having passed for his Degree, shall most distinguish himself in an examination on the following subjects:—Practical or Applied Mechanics, Hydrostatics, Pneumatics, Acoustics, Optics, Heat, Electricity, Astronomy (treated independently of the higher mathematics).

My wishes and intentions in the Foundation of this Scholarship or Prize are to be further interpreted by a reference to my former letter, which, along with this letter, I desire to be inscribed in the Book of the University containing the other Foundations for Bursaries and Prizes, and also by reference to the work published by me entitled Elements of Physics.

Dr. Robert Wilson, by his last will and testament, bequeaths his Library and founds a travelling Scholarship and an Archaeological Museum. 15th May, 1862.†

I, Robert Wilson, Doctor of Medicine, and late Private Secretary to Francis, Marquis of Hastings, Governor of Malta, residing at Glenairnie Cottage, Morayshire, do hereby nominate, constitute, and appoint the Principal and Professors of the University of Aberdeen, the Lord Provost of Aberdeen, and the two Senior Clinical Lecturers in the Infirmary of Aberdeen, all at the time of my death, and their successors in the said respective offices, or such of them as shall accept, to be my sole and only Executors and Administrators; with full power to them, or to any five of them, whom I hereby declare to be a quorum, to intromit with my whole moveable Estate and Executry, of every description, to give up Inventories, and to confirm the same, and, generally, to do everything in the premises which may be necessary for the due execution of the purposes of my Will, or which is competent to Executors: Declaring,

* "He did not confine his munificence to Aberdeen, but gave also to the three other Scottish Universities, each £1000, for a like purpose. About the same time he placed in the hands of Mr. Grote, Vice-Chancellor of the University of London, £2000, to found a Scholarship in connection with the Examinations in Natural Philosophy. . . . For Aberdeen he added [1870] a further gift of £500, to endow an evening lecturer on Natural Philosophy in the Mechanics Institution. . . . In consequence of the growing opinion in favour of combining in the Colleges practical laboratory teaching with class lectures in Natural Philosophy, Dr. Arnott intimated in 1871, through Dr. Lyon Playfair, his wish to make a second gift of £1000 to each of the four Scottish Universities, in furtherance of this object. His intention was not carried out at the time. . . . Soon after his death Mrs. Arnott, of her own accord, presented to all the Universities the sums promised, stipulating only that the objects contemplated by her husband should be faithfully attended to" (Dr. Bain).

† Though the date is subsequent to the Union of the Universities, this endowment is included on account of its special references to the Marischal College buildings.

the Marischal College Buildings of Aberdeen. And the first route I should like explored is the march of the Macedonian Conqueror from his crossing the Granicus up to Babylon, ascending from thence the left bank of the Euphrates to the Battlefield of Cunaxa, where Xenophon's Retreat of the Ten Thousand Greeks commenced, and continue the same to Trebizonde, particularly that portion of it between the Zaccu Mountains and Kurdistan; also, the Batman Tehoi, or eastern branch of the Tigris, which I believe myself to have been the first European to explore, in eighteen hundred and twenty-one. Secondly—Traverse the whole of Mesopotamia, particularly the Mountains of Sinjara, the River Mygdonius, the ruined Cities of Dara, Resaina, and Carrhæ or Harran, Marhe or Ur, and investigate the manners and customs of the Yezidees, both in Sinjar and the Tribes on the eastern side of the Tigris; descend that River and make an accurate survey of the field of Arbela, in connection with my Journal of Mesopotamia, and visit the Tomb of Imaum Cassim, the only remains of the ancient Capital of the Caliphs, and near to Samarra, the Battlefield where the Emperor Julian lost his life, and Jovian commenced his ignoble retreat; a little below this and on the same side of the River is a small stream, called Odhayna by the natives, doubtless the Odoine of Tavernier and the Phycus of Xenophon—near its junction with the Tigris I found a small Stone with a Greek inscription upon it, also a Coin of Alexander, which makes me believe that this is the site of the ancient Opis, where the great General took leave of his Veterans—continue the voyage down the Tigris to Bagdad, and examine minutely the Ruins of Babylon, Kufa, Kerbela, Musgid-Ali, returning by the scanty remains of Seleucia, and Ctesiphon, making his way homeward by Susa, Persia, Georgia, and the Asiatic side of the Euxine. Thirdly—Descend the Volga from near Moscow, in July, visit the fair of Nishnii-Novgorod, and cross the Caspian from Astrican, making his way to Independent Tartary, and skirting the Sea of Aral, until crossing the Sihon or Jaxartes, continuing by its margin until reaching the mouth of the Amoo or Oxus, which he will ascend to Khiva, and continue his route to Bokhara and Samarkand, from thence to Khokan and Cashgar, returning by Yarkanid and the country of the Cossacks to the Russian Fortress of Yankilla. Fourthly—Explore

Pontus and Cappadocia, with the whole range of Taurus, Phrygia Salutaris, descending the Kopli Su or Meander to Palatzia, the ancient Miletus, continuing his route through Caria, Pamphylia, Celeria, and Calcis; visit Palmyra and Damascus, the ruined Cities of the Decapolis from Bozra Jeraza to Petra, from thence to Cairo and cross the Libyan Desert to the Oasis of Sirva, and continue his route through the ancient Ceranica, skirting the shores of the Greater and Lesser Syrtis, and exploring the ruins of the once mighty kingdom of Carthage, which I traversed in Eighteen Hundred and Twenty-five, along with my young friend Charles John Henry, nephew to the Duke of Leinster. And as my individual expenses in travelling never reached a Napoleon per diem (i.e., Sixteen Shillings), I appoint that sum to be paid to each itinerant Fellow for the space of two years, which period ought to accomplish the longest of the four routes before named; but if any unforeseen event should protract the period, I leave it to the discretion of the aforesaid Trustees to make such advances as may be deemed necessary; and as the interest of Eight Thousand Pounds Sterling will be available on my decease, invested chiefly in Indian Securities, it will afford means of carrying out the objects I have in view in connection with my Manuscript Books of Travels. And after providing for the accomplishment of the foresaid journeys, my will is that the balance of the residue of my Estate shall be employed, in all time forthcoming, by my Executors and Trustees in forming a Museum in some portion of the late Marischal College Buildings, or in some neighbouring building to be provided by my Executors out of my Executry funds, and that no part of my collection of Books, Coins, or Antiquities shall ever be removed out of New Aberdeen, or to any building connected with the University of Old Aberdeen,—my own gatherings, gleaned in my several weary wanderings, will, I hope, be duly cared for. They consist of a Mahogany Cabinet, containing three hundred and fifty-seven Silver Imperial and Republican Roman Coins, alphabetically arranged; sixty-three Bronze Imperial Coins; several Intaglios from Nineveh; Cylinders from Babylon; Antique Key; a Priapic Emblem, and several Scarabia from Egypt; a box, with separate compartments, containing five Gold, eighty-nine Silver, and one hundred and nine Copper Greek Coins, some of them very valuable, and most of them arranged by the Ladies Hastings, with a little history attached to many of them, and I trust they will form the nucleus of a first-rate numismatic Cabinet, hoping, when the funds are available, that my Executors will make such additions to the Greek Coinage as will be creditable to their Antiquarian research; and, as they are easily abstracted, I hope the small apartment on the left, at the further end of the present Library in the late Marischal College Buildings, may be made a safe receptacle for my rather curious collection, until some more suitable place is provided, some of them being rather meretricious and not fit for public exhibition; three Marble Statues and a Bust of myself, with a Portrait in a Turkish costume, will, I hope, find a place in this repository. The Portrait, which was painted in Rome, Eighteen Hundred and Twenty-four, is at present in charge of my cousin, William Alexander Stables, at Cawdor Castle; and my wish is, that the whole of the Drawing-Room Furniture at Glenairnie Cottage, consisting of an old Carved Cabinet, two Book Cases, an Octagonal Carved Wood Table, and a smaller one, with six Antique Chairs, and a large Arm Chair, with Reading Desk, a Mirror, and Brass Bedstead; a Mountain Barometer, Pocket Sextant, Quadrant, and Universal Dial, that accompanied me in all my Eastern travels, and which I hope will be preserved and form part of the aforesaid collection, along with several Antique Morsels of Statuary, Bronze Images, Vases, Lamps, Lacrymatories, Cinereal Urns, Babylonian Bricks, Greek and Egyptian Tablets, the Prints of my Excavations in classic regions, three boxes of Cadis, casts of Antique Gems, a small one of my own, and a model of an ancient Grave, with the ruined Temple of Agrigentum; two Portfolios, with a diversity of Drawings and Engravings, and upwards of five hundred Volumes of Miscellaneous Works, some of them very rare; also my Manuscripts, Charts, and Curious Memoranda; but in bequeathing my Library, and other objects of virtu, to the University of Aberdeen, it is with special instructions that no part of my Journals or Memoranda shall be published; and as the two Book Cases in the Drawing Room of the Cottage will not be sufficient accommodation for more than one-half of the Library, there will be required duplicate cases in the room set apart for my Museum, which is at present quite empty; and whatever expenditure there may be in fitting up this detached apartment of the late Marischal College, I empower my Executors to furnish the funds necessary for this object out of my personal Estate, and a Catalogue of my Books, with a list of my Antiquities, will be found in my Blue Box.

II.—First Codicil, dated 4th November, 1864.

No part of this relates to the University. Legacies to the amount of £210 5s. are bequeathed.

III.—Second Codicil, dated 18th November, 1864.

With regard to the Coins, Antiquities, and Curiosities mentioned in my Will, I wish to explain that I have already delivered them, or parts of them, to the Principal and Professors of the University of Aberdeen, and that they have been deposited at my sight in a room which hath been set apart in the old buildings of Marischal College for the Museum appointed to be formed by me in my said Will, but which will be in future called Studio, in place of Museum. I also declare that it is my intention that the route of my former travels shall not be gone over more than once by the Graduate or Graduates to be appointed under my said Will; and when the said route is once traversed no more Graduates shall be appointed, but the residue of my Estate shall be applied for the other purposes mentioned in my Will.

IV.—Third Codicil, dated 8th September, 1865.

I, Doctor Robert Wilson, residing at Glenairnie Cottage, Morayshire, the granter of the Will of which the foregoing is a copy, and also of two relative Codicils, do now grant and make this additional Codicil, to put it beyond all doubt that it is my wish that the whole residue of my Executry shall be employed by my Executors for the Studio already commenced by me in the old Marischal College Buildings, in Aberdeen; and for keeping up, increasing, or extending the said Studio: and I accordingly leave the whole residue to my Executors in Trust for that purpose.

From the Copy of the Will printed by the Executors.
